100 Brownies Cook And Play At Day Camp

The Oakwood Brownie Day Camp is in operation for four days of games and cooking at Clayton Park, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

In the camp are 100 Brownies and 17 leaders, with Mrs. John L. Doggett as camp director, and Mrs. Paul Fisher as camp nurse.

Each day is spent in working on Brownie Scout points. Each day opens with a Flag ceremony and closes with group singing. Each day a different noon meal is prepared by the Brownies, assisted by their leaders.

The leaders present during the week are Mrs. Ned Tanner, Mrs. Max Heeb, Mrs. Calvin Owens, Mrs. Nellie Gaines, Mrs. Wilford Scherer, Mrs. L. J. Jackson, Miss Pat Wood, Mrs. Arthur Ziegenhorn and Mrs. Kenneth Bailey, and Miss Ilena Aslin, Girl Scout Executive.

Today they will go to the Lyle Bird farm, ten miles south of Sikeston, for a campfire program.

1. The City Bond Issue

Growth Makes Water-Sewer Project Necessary

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles prepared by the board of public works to explain its plan to improve the city's water and sewage system. Voters will be asked to approve the proposal in a bond election.

In order to meet the needs and demands of a prosperous and progressive community, the city council and board of public works of Sikeston have proposed that $1,200,000 worth of improvements be made in the municipally - owned water and sewage works. The proposal will have to be approved by the voters.

Community growth is the most important reason behind the proposed improvements. Population figures show that the city has achieved rapid and steady growth in the past decades, and there is every reason to believe that Sikeston's population will continue to increase in the future.

But community growth creates many problems, especially in the case of community services. A water or sewage system designed for little more than 11,000 people (Sikeston's 1950 population) will obviously have difficulty in effectively serving from 15,000 to 16,000 people (the present population estimate for Sikeston).

The strain placed on the water system by an increased number of consumers, also reduces the system's fire control effectiveness. The Sikeston fire chief maintains that the present system is still adequate for controlling fires, except in some outlying areas, but he admits that it could easily cease to be adequate in the near future.

Water and sewer problems also affect the ability of Sikeston to attract new industry, which has a bearing on the local employment situation. A plentiful water supply is one of the major criteria for industry when it seeks a new location.

The plan now being proposed by the board of public works calls for strengthening and reinforcing the water supply, storage, and distribution systems; extending sewer and water lines into areas which are considered likely of early development; increasing and improving the capacities of the municipal water and sewage treatment plants.

It should be pointed out that the proposal is not concerned with storm sewers, but only with the city's waste disposal system.

According to the board of public works, the plan will eliminate or solve the city's pressing water and sewage problems for the next 15 years. It will give the individual consumer better service; it will afford adequate fire protection to all of Sikeston's industrial, commercial, and residential areas; and it will increase the ability of Sikeston to attract new industry.

A number of other advantages are related to the proposal. The city insurance committee reports that the improvements are especially needed to help keep Sikeston's fire insurance rates from going up.

The plan would also bring relief to the housewives who have complained of discoloration of the city's water. Funds have been allotted for the control and elimination of such discoloration.

The whole proposal, if approved, would be financed by a bond issue — revenue bonds amounting to $600,000 for improvements in the water system, and general obligation bonds amounting to $600,000 for improvements in the sewer system.

Earnings of the municipal water plant would be used to pay off the revenue bonds. If this necessitated an increase in the cost of water to the consumer, such an increase would not exceed five per cent of the present rate. For an average monthly water bill of $3.58, the rate increase, if necessary, would come to 18 cents a month more, or a yearly increase of $2.16.

Taxes would have to be used to pay off the general obligation bonds. Thus, the proposal would mean an increase of 29 cents in the current tax rate on $100 assessed valuation. For an average $10,000 home (assessed at 23 per cent actual value), this 29 cents would cost the Sikeston taxpayer about $7 more per year.

For an average family, then, the total cost of the bond issue would be about $10 per year, until the bonds are paid off. In return, the citizens of Sikeston would assure that the city will continue to grow and progress in the years ahead.

Flyers Join Families

HOUSTON, Tex. - Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II -- still recalling some grim expectations -- raced to the arms of their families today to answer a thousand questions about some of the wonders they met:

A blue-green-and-white earth in fantastic beauty, a glaring sun, a gentle moon, and a strange walk in this strange company.

"I have known a lot of people and a lot of big times, but the biggest day of my life was June 7 (the day of splashdown.)," Command pilot McDivitt told the officers of the aircraft carrier USS Wasp.

"When we came down we didn't know what kind of shape we would be in -- the doctors had told us a lot of horror stories about what to expect. When we got down on the water safely, I don't think there were two more pleased people than Ed and I."

McDivitt didn't amplify what "horror stories" meant.

Just one week ago, the astronauts blasted off from Cape Kennedy for their four - day space journey. Today, the aircraft carrier Wasp, their home for the past three days, delivered them to Mayport, Fla., for their first steps on U.S. soil, and solid earth, since June 3.

McDivitt and White moved through the ranks of sailors and Marines and they debarked to the tunes of "Around the World in 80 Days" and "Happy Birthday" -- the last for McDivitt's 36th birthday celebration.

They walked off the ship down a red-carpeted gangplank toward the crowd of some 2,000 spectators.

Within half an hour, the astronauts were winging their way to Houston and their waiting families.

The Wasp, its mission accomplished, returns to antisubmarine patrol.

Jobs For Jaycee Rodeo Assigned

Preparations are being made for the opening day of the Jaycee Bootheel rodeo, Aug. 12. J. D. Schaffer is chairman and Jay Sisk is co-chairman. Bill Burch is publicity chairman.

The moneymaking men for the program are Gerald Inman and Jim Cox, who are in charge of ticket sales. Bill Hale and Danny Gardner are in charge of the grounds and local events. The bleacher department is headed by Joe Marsh and Brad Shain.

Woody Lacy and Chuck Lewis will be ushers and concessions will be handled by John Harper. Bill Hampton and Bob Bozell are in charge of the program book. Bud Bates and Harry Holsinger are in charge of this year's parade. Those responsible for entertainment are Jack Sides and Dan Norton.

Bruce Hampton is in charge of the spotlights. Dewey Gimlin is in charge of decorations and this year's kidnapper is Don Bohannon.

The main event, which is the cutting horse contest, is under the direction of Charles Tucker.

Jim Sexton and Lohman Garner will be ticket takers. If anything comes up that hasn't been mentioned it will be handled by Claude Benney and Bob Porter in charge of the miscellaneous department.

Health Grant Given Delmo

LILBOURN -Confirmation was received Wednesday from the U.S. Public Health Service of a migrant health grant to Delmo Housing Corporation of $9,245, for family health education services in the five-county area, with a tentative approval of $11-880 each for the second and third years of the project.

The project will provide a health educator, who has done graduate work in health education, to work in the Bootheel.

His function will be to spread knowledge of the area's medical resources among the thousands of home based migrants, numbering about 4,000. These families will spend from three to 10 months in northern and southern states during the vegetable and fruit harvesting seasons, and return to the home areas when the harvests have been completed.

Tire Stolen From Car

Mrs. John Felker, 708 Taylor, reported to police yesterday that a wheel and spare tire valued at $38 had been stolen from her car during the past two weeks at her home.

The car was unused during that time.

One Emergency

Only one person was treated in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday. Debra J. Hampton dropped a glass bottle on her right knee.

One City Arrest

Police arrested Charles Heavener, Marston, for speeding during the past 24 hours.

Dodd Rakes LBJ Critics

WASHINGTON - Sen. Thomas J. Dodd assailed today "teach-in" critics of President Johnson's policies as defeatists and appeasers who encourage the Communists to prolong the Viet Nam war.

Dodd, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in a prepared Senate speech that the outcome of the Southeast Asia struggle may be determined on the domestic front.

The Connecticut Democrat said that while polls indicate an overwhelming majority of Americans support the administration's policies of pressing the war against the Viet Cong, a "noisy minority" is clamoring for U.S. withdrawal.

"They probably number somewhat less than 10 per cent of the total population," he said. "But this minority of defeatists and appeasers, by dint of their incessant clamor, their seemingly boundless energy, their hundreds of newspaper advertisements, and the apparently limitless funds which fanaticism always generates, have had an impact that is out of all proportion to their actual members.

"I am convinced that President Johnson had weighed and measured every word when he said that we intend to live up to our commitment in Viet Nam, no matter what the cost, and that there is no power on earth that can force us to withdraw."

Dodd spoke out after the White House had made it clear Wednesday that U.S. troops would go into action to aid the South Vietnamese forces only if the latter request help and are in trouble.

Even this limited commitment to combat provoked a round of Senate discussion about the growing U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., told his colleagues he believes

Viet Cong Engulf Camp

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, - Vietnamese troops battled tonight to drive off 1,500 Viet Cong who overran the district capital of Don Xoai and engulfed a nearby U.S. camp, killing 14 Americans and wounding at least 13.

In Washington, the State Department said it had a later casualty count of 7 Americans dead and 13 wounded.

A U.S. military spokesman said the losses at Dong Xoai, 60 miles north of Saigon, were the heaviest suffered by the United States in a single engagement of the Vietnamese war.

A U.S. Navy fighter - bomber plunged into a ridge and the pilot was apparently killed as U.S. Air Force and Navy planes pounded a wide range of targets in North Viet Nam.

The number of Americans killed in combat since December 1961 rose to 420.

Patman Asks Martin Quit

WASHINGTON - Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, urged William M. Martin Jr. today to resign as Federal Reserve chairman and let President Johnson replace him with an appointee of his own choosing.

Patman said in a speech prepared for House delivery that Martin has challenged the President on economic policy, caused a stock market drop by a speech comparing present conditions with those of 1929 and is advocating what Patman called disastrous monetary and credit policies.

The Banking Committee chairman, a long - time adversary of Martin, rejected the comparison between 1965 and the eve of the 1929 crash which he said Martin made in a recent Columbia University speech.

But Patman said there is one parallel: "The fact that for the past six months the Federal Reserve has been carrying on a 'squeeze it' policy. That is, they have tightened, tightened, tightened credit. That is what happened prior to the Hoover depression.

"Mr. Martin's Fed has caused every single depression and recession in our time, and always by tightening credit and increasing interest rates, and cutting down on the money supply.

In the Columbia speech June 1, Martin said there are "disquieting similarities" between the present prosperity and the boom that preceded the depression of the 1930s.

New Plant To Employ 10

Ray Whitworth, president of Vance-Whitworth Co., spoke to the Kiwanis club Tuesday night.

Whitworth said that the company would start the factory operation with ten employes in a month or two. The ten will be trained in assembling input machines. As demand increases, more employes will be added. He said that the company hoped to have at least 75 working by the end of the first year of operations.

The Sikeston plant will be an assembly line operation. Parts for the machine will be made elsewhere.

To explain how the imput machines will be used, he said that the company will maintain at its St. Louis plant a master computer machine to which will be fed the information desired by the owners of input machines.

The Missouri Delta Community Hospital and the board of public works have the input machines and their payrolls and billings will be figured out by the computer in St. Louis and payroll statements will be typed on local input machines within 24 hours and will then be ready for mailing.

Whitworth explained that computers are too expensive for small businesses but they can afford input machines and the use of the master computer can be brought within their reach and at a savings.

Telephone hook - up service will be used for transmission of information from input machines to computer and return.

Paul Cannon and Harold Hill will attend the golden anniversary convention of Kiwanis International in New York City, July 4-8. The theme of the convention will be built around the 50th anniversary of the founding of Kiwanis in 1915.

Bliss Pledged GOP Support

COLUMBUS, Ohio -- Key Republican leaders, with Barry Goldwater of Arizona absent, have pledged full support to their new party chairman in the hope he can unify them for another lunge at the White House in 1968.

Goldwater, the 1964 GOP presidential nominee, was not mentioned publicly Wednesday night as leading Republicans, guided by their best vote-getter of all time, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, urged the party to unite behind National Chairman Ray C. Bliss.

A party spokesman here said Goldwater was not invited to Wednesday night's series of dinners saluting Bliss in his home state.

Party spokesman said more than 10,000 attended the $100-a-plate-dinners, raising $1 million for the party.

Charter Granted To New PEO Chapter

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. K. R. Ahmann of St. Charles was elected president of the P. E. O. Sisterhood at its 72nd Missouri state chapter convention ended Wednesday.

The organization owns and supports Cottey College for Women at Nevada, Mo., and raises funds to send girls through college.

Other officials elected were Mrs. R. J. Martin, Columbia, vice president; Mrs. Ted Lloyd, Jefferson City, organizer; Miss Gene Wild, Sarcoxie, recording secretary; Mrs. R. K. Farrar, Braymer, treasurer, Mrs. H. K. Newman, Cape Girardeau, corresponding secretary.

Charters were granted to new chapters at Marshall, Florissant and Sikeston. Warrensburg will host the 1966 meeting.

More than 500 members attended the two day convention.

Ulcer Surgery For Sheriff

Sheriff John Dennis went to the operating room today at 10 a.m. for the removal of an ulcer at Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Computer Matches Couple, Who Praise Machine Job

EAST LANSING, Mich. - Three months ago a computer matched Michigan State University seniors Paul Nelson and Sandra Titus for a campus dance. Now they are married and they agree with the computer that they were meant for each other.

Nelson and his wife concede the machine missed a point or two when it paired them for the dance last fall, but they give it an average of .987 since their marriage last March 20.

"What we found out happened was that there were far more similarities than had been catalogued by the computer," said Nelson, 25, a business major. "We both squeeze the toothpaste from the end and roll up the empty part and put the cap on."

Mrs. Nelson, 23, a retailing major whose family lives in Lansing, said this came as a relief because she had always wondered how it would be to be married to a man who squeezed the toothpaste in the middle and dropped the cap on the floor.

But they have found they are incompatible, so to speak, in the fields of housing and interior decorating.

She likes Danish modern furniture in a ranch house. He likes massive, Gothic pieces in the kind of big, old house in which he grew up in.

This poses no immediate problem. Right now they are living in an MSU married students' unit.

Before their marriage, they visited Nelson's home in Buffalo, N.Y., where people were amazed that neither uses mayonnaise on Waldorf salad.

They'd already found, too, each had a fondness for well-done steak and spinach.

The computer had pair similarities between them in religion, background, travel, hobbies and politics, noting that each was a "quite vocal" conservative.

"Computer matching is a kind of elimination process," Nelson said. "Instead of having to meet and date many people, discovering compatibilities, the machine does it for you.

Mental Test For Thompson

BENTON--Circuit Judge Marshall Craig this morning granted a motion for a mental examination for Tommie Lee Thompson, accused of murder in the slaying of Mrs. W. R. Lewis in Sikeston Feb. 1.

The motion was made by Thompson's defense attorney. The date for the examination has not been set but, according to the defense attorney, it should be soon.

Recover Body Of Own Son

CHICAGO - Volunteer firemen were called to a home in suburban Chicago Ridge Wednesday after receiving a report that a boy's body had been seen in a private swimming pool.

Donald Andrasco, 35, a captain in the volunteer force, recovered the body in 8 feet of water in the deep end of a 16-by-40-foot pool in the backyard of Alfred Homerding. Andrasco collapsed when he realized the body was his son, Scott Andrasco, 6.

Leave For Boys State Saturday

Ten boys from Sikeston and two from nearby cities will leave Saturday at 6 a.m. from the Rustic Rock by bus for Dexter. They will join others there for a week at Boys State in Warrensburg.

The ten will be Richard Montgomery, Phil Barkett, Larry Barger, Kenneth Henry, Fred Lumsden, Tommy Pallus, Gary Williams, Mike Critchlow, all of Sikeston; Gordon Waller, Malden; and James Lee Hewitt, Morehouse.

Monroe, Wis., Youths Work At Delmo Project

LILBOURN — The Delmo Housing Corporation is a busy place during the summer. High school juniors and seniors from church youth organizations all over the nation, descend on headquarters at South Lilbourn to repair houses.

The first group of 12 students arrived from Monroe, Wis., Monday, to spend a week. They donated their time to repair and repaint buildings at two of the 10 housing locations in the Lilbourn region.

The 10 locations are in five counties, at north and south Lilbourn, and Morehouse in New Madrid county; north and south Wardell and Gobler in Pemiscot; Wyatt in Mississippi; Gray Ridge in Stoddard, and Kennett in Dunklin.

The work of the 12 consisted of painting of buildings, replacing windows, screens and doors, working on roofs, interior and repair work. The 12 are Mary Nussbaum, Joan Laeser, Mary Schuetz, Roberta Benkert, Ann Bauman, Kris Brugger, Sandra Smith, Susan Rifener, Hans Bernet, Richard Polkrabek, David Delninger and Ralph Kubly.

The two advisors are the Rev. Donald G. Storck and Mrs. Donald Tschanz. The 12 are from St. Johns United Church of Christ youth organization.

After a day's work they take part in a recreation program. For a special treat Wednesday they went to Reelfoot Lake, near Tiptonville, Tenn., for a meal.

Early in July more boys and girls will arive and be assigned to the 10 housing projects, repairing and building additions to the homes of older persons, who are unable to pay to have it done.

ROOF REPAIR work on a home in north Lilbourn is performed by Hans Bernet and Dick Pulkrabek, both of Monroe, Wis., (in center), with J. A. Brock, left and the Rev. Donald Storck, rignt, advisors on the Delmo Housing work projects.

1. The City Bond Issue

Growth Makes Water-Sewer Project Necessary

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles prepared by the board of public works to explain its plan to improve the city's water and sewage system. Voters will be asked to approve the proposal in a bond election.

In order to meet the needs and demands of a prosperous and progressive community, the city council and board of public works of Sikeston have proposed that $1,200,000 worth of improvements be made in the municipally - owned water and sewage works. The proposal will have to be approved by the voters.

Community growth is the most important reason behind the proposed improvements. Population figures show that the city has achieved rapid and steady growth in the past decades, and there is every reason to believe that Sikeston's population will continue to increase in the future.

But community growth creates many problems, especially in the case of community services. A water or sewage system designed for little more than 11,000 people (Sikeston's 1950 population) will obviously have difficulty in effectively serving from 15,000 to 16,000 people (the present population estimate for Sikeston).

The strain placed on the water system by an increased number of consumers, also reduces the system's fire control effectiveness. The Sikeston fire chief maintains that the present system is still adequate for controlling fires, except in some outlying areas, but he admits that it could easily cease to be adequate in the near future.

Water and sewer problems also affect the ability of Sikeston to attract new industry, which has a bearing on the local employment situation. A plentiful water supply is one of the major criteria for industry when it seeks a new location.

The plan now being proposed by the board of public works calls for strengthening and reinforcing the water supply, storage, and distribution systems; extending sewer and water lines into areas which are considered likely of early development; increasing and improving the capacities of the municipal water and sewage treatment plants.

It should be pointed out that the proposal is not concerned with storm sewers, but only with the city's waste disposal system.

According to the board of public works, the plan will eliminate or solve the city's pressing water and sewage problems for the next 15 years. It will give the individual consumer better service; it will afford adequate fire protection to all of Sikeston's industrial, commercial, and residential areas; and it will increase the ability of Sikeston to attract new industry.

A number of other advantages are related to the proposal. The city insurance committee reports that the improvements are especially needed to help keep Sikeston's fire insurance rates from going up.

The plan would also bring relief to the housewives who have complained of discoloration of the city's water. Funds have been allotted for the control and elimination of such discoloration.

The whole proposal, if approved, would be financed by a bond issue — revenue bonds amounting to $600,000 for improvements in the water system, and general obligation bonds amounting to $600,000 for improvements in the sewer system.

Earnings of the municipal water plant would be used to pay off the revenue bonds. If this necessitated an increase in the cost of water to the consumer, such an increase would not exceed five per cent of the present rate. For an average monthly water bill of $3.58, the rate increase, if necessary, would come to 18 cents a month more, or a yearly increase of $2.16.

Taxes would have to be used to pay off the general obligation bonds. Thus, the proposal would mean an increase of 29 cents in the current tax rate on $100 assessed valuation. For an average $10,000 home (assessed at 23 per cent actual value), this 29 cents would cost the Sikeston taxpayer about $7 more per year.

For an average family, then, the total cost of the bond issue would be about $10 per year, until the bonds are paid off. In return, the citizens of Sikeston would assure that the city will continue to grow and progress in the years ahead.

Dodd Rakes LBJ Critics

WASHINGTON - Sen. Thomas J. Dodd assailed today "teach-in" critics of President Johnson's policies as defeatists and appeasers who encourage the Communists to prolong the Viet Nam war.

Dodd, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in a prepared Senate speech that the outcome of the Southeast Asia struggle may be determined on the domestic front.

The Connecticut Democrat said that while polls indicate an overwhelming majority of Americans support the administration's policies of pressing the war against the Viet Cong, a "noisy minority" is clamoring for U.S. withdrawal.

"They probably number somewhat less than 10 per cent of the total population," he said. "But this minority of defeatists and appeasers, by dint of their incessant clamor, their seemingly boundless energy, their hundreds of newspaper advertisements, and the apparently limitless funds which fanaticism always generates, have had an impact that is out of all proportion to their actual members.

"I am convinced that President Johnson had weighed and measured every word when he said that we intend to live up to our commitment in Viet Nam, no matter what the cost, and that there is no power on earth that can force us to withdraw."

Dodd spoke out after the White House had made it clear Wednesday that U.S. troops would go into action to aid the South Vietnamese forces only if the latter request help and are in trouble.

Even this limited commitment to combat provoked a round of Senate discussion about the growing U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., told his colleagues he believes

Patman Asks Martin Quit

WASHINGTON - Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, urged William M. Martin Jr. today to resign as Federal Reserve chairman and let President Johnson replace him with an appointee of his own choosing.

Patman said in a speech prepared for House delivery that Martin has challenged the President on economic policy, caused a stock market drop by a speech comparing present conditions with those of 1929 and is advocating what Patman called disastrous monetary and credit policies.

The Banking Committee chairman, a long - time adversary of Martin, rejected the comparison between 1965 and the eve of the 1929 crash which he said Martin made in a recent Columbia University speech.

But Patman said there is one parallel: "The fact that for the past six months the Federal Reserve has been carrying on a 'squeeze it' policy. That is, they have tightened, tightened, tightened credit. That is what happened prior to the Hoover depression.

"Mr. Martin's Fed has caused every single depression and recession in our time, and always by tightening credit and increasing interest rates, and cutting down on the money supply.

In the Columbia speech June 1, Martin said there are "disquieting similarities" between the present prosperity and the boom that preceded the depression of the 1930s.

Mental Test For Thompson

BENTON--Circuit Judge Marshall Craig this morning granted a motion for a mental examination for Tommie Lee Thompson, accused of murder in the slaying of Mrs. W. R. Lewis in Sikeston Feb. 1.

The motion was made by Thompson's defense attorney. The date for the examination has not been set but, according to the defense attorney, it should be soon.

Recover Body Of Own Son

CHICAGO - Volunteer firemen were called to a home in suburban Chicago Ridge Wednesday after receiving a report that a boy's body had been seen in a private swimming pool.

Donald Andrasco, 35, a captain in the volunteer force, recovered the body in 8 feet of water in the deep end of a 16-by-40-foot pool in the backyard of Alfred Homerding. Andrasco collapsed when he realized the body was his son, Scott Andrasco, 6.

Viet Cong Engulf Camp

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, - Vietnamese troops battled tonight to drive off 1,500 Viet Cong who overran the district capital of Don Xoai and engulfed a nearby U.S. camp, killing 14 Americans and wounding at least 13.

In Washington, the State Department said it had a later casualty count of 7 Americans dead and 13 wounded.

A U.S. military spokesman said the losses at Dong Xoai, 60 miles north of Saigon, were the heaviest suffered by the United States in a single engagement of the Vietnamese war.

A U.S. Navy fighter - bomber plunged into a ridge and the pilot was apparently killed as U.S. Air Force and Navy planes pounded a wide range of targets in North Viet Nam.

The number of Americans killed in combat since December 1961 rose to 420.

Leave For Boys State Saturday

Ten boys from Sikeston and two from nearby cities will leave Saturday at 6 a.m. from the Rustic Rock by bus for Dexter. They will join others there for a week at Boys State in Warrensburg.

The ten will be Richard Montgomery, Phil Barkett, Larry Barger, Kenneth Henry, Fred Lumsden, Tommy Pallus, Gary Williams, Mike Critchlow, all of Sikeston; Gordon Waller, Malden; and James Lee Hewitt, Morehouse.

Flyers Join Families

HOUSTON, Tex. - Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II -- still recalling some grim expectations -- raced to the arms of their families today to answer a thousand questions about some of the wonders they met:

A blue-green-and-white earth in fantastic beauty, a glaring sun, a gentle moon, and a strange walk in this strange company.

"I have known a lot of people and a lot of big times, but the biggest day of my life was June 7 (the day of splashdown.)," Command pilot McDivitt told the officers of the aircraft carrier USS Wasp.

"When we came down we didn't know what kind of shape we would be in -- the doctors had told us a lot of horror stories about what to expect. When we got down on the water safely, I don't think there were two more pleased people than Ed and I."

McDivitt didn't amplify what "horror stories" meant.

Just one week ago, the astronauts blasted off from Cape Kennedy for their four - day space journey. Today, the aircraft carrier Wasp, their home for the past three days, delivered them to Mayport, Fla., for their first steps on U.S. soil, and solid earth, since June 3.

McDivitt and White moved through the ranks of sailors and Marines and they debarked to the tunes of "Around the World in 80 Days" and "Happy Birthday" -- the last for McDivitt's 36th birthday celebration.

They walked off the ship down a red-carpeted gangplank toward the crowd of some 2,000 spectators.

Within half an hour, the astronauts were winging their way to Houston and their waiting families.

The Wasp, its mission accomplished, returns to antisubmarine patrol.

Jobs For Jaycee Rodeo Assigned

Preparations are being made for the opening day of the Jaycee Bootheel rodeo, Aug. 12.

J. D. Schaffer is chairman and Jay Sisk is co-chairman.

Bill Burch is publicity chairman.

The moneymaking men for the program are Gerald Inman and Jim Cox, who are in charge of ticket sales. Bill Hale and Danny Gardner are in charge of the grounds and local events. The bleacher department is headed by Joe Marsh and Brad Shain.

Woody Lacy and Chuck Lewis will be ushers and concessions will be handled by John Harper. Bill Hampton and Bob Bozell are in charge of the program book. Bud Bates and Harry Holsinger are in charge of this year's parade. Those responsible for entertainment are Jack Sides and Dan Norton.

Bruce Hampton is in charge of the spotlights. Dewey Gimlin is in charge of decorations and this year's kidnapper is Don Bohannon.

The main event, which is the cutting horse contest, is under the direction of Charles Tucker.

Jim Sexton and Lohman Garner will be ticket takers. If anything comes up that hasn't been mentioned it will be handled by Claude Benney and Bob Porter in charge of the miscellaneous department.

Health Grant Given Delmo

LILBOURN -Confirmation was received Wednesday from the U.S. Public Health Service of a migrant health grant to Delmo Housing Corporation of $9,245, for family health education services in the five-county area, with a tentative approval of $11-880 each for the second and third years of the project.

The project will provide a health educator, who has done graduate work in health education, to work in the Bootheel.

His function will be to spread knowledge of the area's medical resources among the thousands of home based migrants, numbering about 4,000. These families will spend from three to 10 months in northern and southern states during the vegetable and fruit harvesting seasons, and return to the home areas when the harvests have been completed.

Monroe, Wis., Youths Work At Delmo Project

LILBOURN — The Delmo Housing Corporation is a busy place during the summer. High school juniors and seniors from church youth organizations all over the nation, descend on headquarters at South Lilbourn to repair houses.

The first group of 12 students arrived from Monroe, Wis., Monday, to spend a week. They donated their time to repair and repaint buildings at two of the 10 housing locations in the Lilbourn region.

The 10 locations are in five counties, at north and south Lilbourn, and Morehouse in New Madrid county; north and south Wardell and Gobler in Pemiscot; Wyatt in Mississippi; Gray Ridge in Stoddard, and Kennett in Dunklin.

The work of the 12 consisted of painting of buildings, replacing windows, screens and doors, working on roofs, interior and repair work. The 12 are Mary Nussbaum, Joan Laeser, Mary Schuetz, Roberta Benkert, Ann Bauman, Kris Brugger, Sandra Smith, Susan Rifener, Hans Bernet, Richard Polkrabek, David Deininger and Ralph Kubly.

The two advisors are the Rev. Donald G. Storck and Mrs. Donald Tschanz. The 12 are from St. Johns United Church of Christ youth organization.

After a day's work they take part in a recreation program. For a special treat Wednesday they went to Reelfoot Lake, near Tiptonville, Tenn., for a meal.

Early in July more boys and girls will arive and be assigned to the 10 housing projects, repairing and building additions to the homes of older persons, who are unable to pay to have it done.

GOLDBERG'S WORDS ECHO

In the midst of the hue and cry over the issue of right-to-work laws, it becomes apparent that the crux of the matter is compulsory union membership. The advocates of repeal of Section 14 (b) of the 1947 Taft-Hartley Act want no worker to escape the forced membership in a union which acts as their bargaining agent. The trade unions bloc wants this easy road to more members, more dues revenue, and more political control.

In that context attention is called to a statement made by Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg in 1962, when he was secretary of labor. Before that Mr. Goldberg had been one of the nation's leading labor union attorneys.

Speaking to the American Federation of Government Employes, Arthur Goldberg said:

"We all want to preserve the merit system for entry and retention in the Federal service. I had my share of winning the union shops for example for unions in private industries, but I know that you will agree with me that the union shop and the closed shop are inappropriate to the Federal Government. And because of this, there is a larger responsibility for enlightenment on the part of the Government union. In your own organization you have to win acceptance by your own conduct, your own action, your own wisdom, your own responsibility and your own achievements. And let me say to you from my experience representing the trade union movement that this is not a handicap necessarily. Very often even the union that has won the union shop will frankly admit that people who come in through that route do not always participate in the same knowing way as people who come in through the method of education and voluntarism."

"Responsibility" is a key word in that statement. Right-to-work laws give a worker a choice of whether to align himself with a union. They stimulate the union to serve him well and sell him on the benefits he may gain by membership. Without such laws -- without Section 14 (b) which makes right-to-work statutes legal in states which choose to enact them -- the choice is gone. The worker is a prisoner of the will of union agents.

As Justice Goldberg pointed out this is good for neither the worker or the union itself. He made, in 1962, one of the best arguments yet heard for retaining 14 (b) on the Federal law books.

A favorite hobby of the liberals is to attack the House un-American Activities Committee.

Communists would like to get rid of the committee, which has been a thorn in their side for years.

This committee cannot be discredited in the same manner as McCarthyism. There is a difference. The late Senator McCarthy made reckless, irresponsible charges and accusations and never furnished any proof.

For years the House committee has exposed Communist dominated organizations, including labor unions, and it has disclosed the names of known Communists. It has dealt in facts. It has furnished proof. It has been responsible and it has served the country well through the years.

The committee deserves the full support of the public in the difficult task of unmasking subversives operating in our midst.

A Chicago hearing conducted by the committee brought out hordes of the familiar unwashed, long haired, bearded creators of bedlam and disorder, who tried their best to discredit this important arm of the federal government. The demonstrators were noisy distractors, who sought maximum attention by lying in the street in the path of police cars.

The country witnessed their unruly behavior on television. The dignified conduct of the committee provided a strong and welcome contrast. Its position was strengthened rather than weakened in the process. The demonstrations backfired as they often do.

Undoubtedly in the assortment of kooks, who paraded, shouted, kicked, shoved and picketed in Chicago, there were Communists. Seventy two landed in jail. It is a pity that they can't be kept there longer.

While the House committee hasn't produced a sensation in recent times, there hasn't been a shred of evidence that it hasn't acted with proper regard for fact and fairness. There has been no evidence presented that any individual has been treated unjustly by it.

Even if the group has not disclosed recently any treason in high places, it has performed a service in ripping the cover off of Communists functioning in our national life.

It has neglected subversion from the right but is correcting that by an investigation of the Ku Klux Klan.

A committee which conducts itself responsibly can perform a valuable service by uncovering both the nation's enemies and the conditions that otherwise would not be exposed to the public view.

The country should never tolerate the abolishment of the committee which should be encouraged to do more and be given the funds to do the job right.

NO SUMMER SLUMP

How can you beat the summer slump in your business?

More and better advertising in your newspaper, that's how.

While a business may have a summer slump, there's never a slump in the circulation of a newspaper. People buy their newspaper the year 'round -- and they read it 12 months a year, too.

To prevent that old summer slump we should take advantage of the fact, too, that people are more generally relaxed and read their newspapers more carefully in the good old summer time.

One thing about newspaper advertising -- advertise the things that people want . . when they want to buy them . . at the price they want to pay.

If you advertise in the newspaper you can expect business.

Ten major U.S. pharmaceutical firms have reported curtailment of research and development operations, and even those which report increased expenditures in these fields claim that they have had to cut back on the number of substances being investigated because of added costs and paper work. We believe it is necessary, at long last, to challenge the steady erosion of our freedom by a regulatory agency; in effect, to attempt to halt the steady descent of the pendulum."

WHICH OF THESE THREE ARRANGEMENTS DO YOU FAVOR FOR WORKERS IN INDUSTRY?

The importance of this overwhelming support for the Right to Work principle, at a time when powerful political forces under Big Unionism't control are being mobilized to repeal Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, was spotlighted by Reed Larson, Executive Vice President of the National Right to Work Committee.

"Congress will not repeal 14 (b) if the wishes of the American people can be brought to bear on its membership, in the House and Senate," he said. But mobilizing this grass-roots political power is a big job. Millions of Right to Work supporters must become activists and get their friends and neighbors busy contacting their Congressman and Senators (before they return to Washington) and writing them letters after they return."

But, too frequently, realism has given way to false sentiment where teen-agers are involved. Under the pretext of rehabilitation, far too many young thugs have been released prematurely to continue preying upon society. Pampering, overprotection, fawning indulgence -- these set a pattern of weakness which breeds contempt for the law and for those charged with the administration of justice."

DA NANG, South Viet Nam - It was a tense moment for all.

Artillery boomed in the distance. Warplanes roared off on missions perilous to many.

At the edge of the great air base here, just outside the main security checkpoint, hundreds of men stood in sweating anxiety outside a large white-painted building.

In the dense throng were airmen just back from bombing and strafing North Viet Nam. There were dust - caked Marines, worn by days of patrol on mountaintop and across rice paddies.

There also were clerks and bakers and mechanics and demolition men and beret - capped Army officers who had journeyed in from lonely outposts for "the big operation."

A murmur ran through heat-weary men:

"What the hell is holding this thing up?"

Inside the big building, Marine Lt. George F. Hoffman of Johnstown, Pa., was just as tense. He knew the beleaguring force couldn't be held at bay much longer.-

He gave a final inspection to his 60 Vietnamese and American assistants. He looked at his watch. It was 11 o'clock-zero hour.

"All right, let'em in," said Hoffman.

The doors swung open and the great breakthrough was underway.

The long-awaited opening of the Navy Post Exchange at Da Nang had taken place. Troops grabbed up shopping baskets and rushed pell-mell from counter to counter, buying everything they saw.

It was like the opening of a huge supermarket back home only bigger. It was payday for most of the men, and they were as eager to spend their money.

The 70 cases of beer in stock were gone in five minutes. Some 2,000 cases of soda and soft drinks went quickly, too.

Lucky first comers staggered out of the $100,000 warehouse burdened with cameras, watches, tape recorders, deodorants, film packs, clothing and $28.15 portable refrigerators and small electric fans.

Scores of Marines and airmen, unable to enter the packed building, left after long waiting.

When the doors finally closed, some 7,000 men had spent $31,000.

"Soon we'll have a million - dollar - a- month operation here," said Lt. Hoffman, who also will open five field post exchanges in the five northern provinces that make up the 1st Corps area in South Viet Nam.

Like any good businessman, the lieutenant believes in expanding in prosperous times. The indications are that Uncle Sam's nephews in uniform will be spending more rather than less money here in the future.

PROTECTION FOR CONSUMERS

Basic consideration in a bill such as Quality Stabilization, now before Congress, must be: Is it good for the country and its consumers? We have to choose between two policies.

On one side is the great majority of the nearly two million independent retail businesses, along with a very sizeable bloc of Congressmen, particularly those who have had personal experience in retail stores, who believe the bill is good for the consumers.

On the other hand is a comparative handful of giant retailers associated in a group called the National Association of Mass Merchandisers, which for some time passed as the National Association of Consumer Organizations. These people have few roots in the communities they serve.

Allied with them are some theoretical people who never met a payroll or personally tested an economic theory, but who believe they know how business and competition should work. They are supported by some editors who read too quickly.

Because consumers have seen for themselves that competition helps them, the opponents have chosen to fight by trying to label Quality Stabilization the opposite of competition: price fixing. It is no more price fixing than the setting of prices on house or private brands by many of America's reliable chains. But some economists and editors are unwilling to admit that a house brand which can be bought at the same price in every store selling it is sheltered from price competition.

Quality Stabilization would not prohibit any of these stores, or even the discounters, from obtaining and selling goods at whatever prices they can obtain. What it would do is prevent unethical merchants from using quality brands as "bait" or "switch" merchandise to entice customers into their stores to sell them high-profit goods of questionable value.

Surely Quality Stabilization is in the interest of consumers, because it protects the household budget from inferior products.

COLOR FOR SAFETY'S SAKE

If tests being conducted around the country prove out, our streets and highways may one day be many-splendored things of different colors--at least at interchanges and where there is abrupt merging of lanes or a special traffic situation.

"Color-co-ordinated" roads, if they come, will not be for aesthetic reasons but for safety and to augment the signals, signs and warning devices that are now used.

Red pavement, for instance, would alert a driver to an approaching stop or dangerous intersection. Yellow would mean a safety zone and blue a school zone. On freeways, green would indicate a through lane and orange a deceleration lane or exit.

This color code is only tentative at present and waits upon more proof that it contributes to safety and that colored paving materials stand up to heavy wear.

Safety experts report that the evidence in so far is in favor of color.

H. L. Hunt Says

POLITICS AND THE PRINTED WORD

All communications media and stars of the entertainment field should be on the side of and helpful to patriots. Among the freedoms that patriots are trying to save comes first and foremost the freedom of the press. Included in the liberties they promote is freedom from censorship.

Everything that patriots are for and are trying to save are highly prized and needed by those in the newsgathering, communications and entertainment fields.

Some super - patriots and others so regarded may appear to have their faults because of extreme diligence. But communications should forgive them as fast as possible. The very worst they do is not likely to be as inconvenient to the publicity vendors as the mildest form of dictatorship to which statism inevitably leads.

Without vigorous campaigning, elections and re - elections, there would be far less for newspapers to print and radio and TV to talk about, and a good source for mimicry and spoofing would be lost to clever entertainers.

Magazines which can charge $40,000-plus per page for advertising space would look longingly for advertisers in an economy which said of the few products available, "Take this or else."

It would be best if those who are doing so well in the profit motive system could understand that they would lose the "profit motive" should communism or even statism be permitted to take over. Businessmen could fare as well and longer if they would take time out to wonder if liberty is endangered in the present trend.

Critics of the profit motive system and personal enterprise should yield to some happy medium for, whatever their weaknesses, these philosophies may have been partly responsible for making the USA the greatest of all nations. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — When the President gets going on the subject of jobs for young people, he becomes so enthusiastic that every corporation executive who listens wants to go out and hire more youngsters.

Last week LBJ met with ten corporation executives who had agreed to hire one jobless youngster this summer for every 100 other people on their payroll. The President handed them citations and then started to read a prepared speech. It was a good speech, and told how, despite the drop in unemployment, two million young Americans will be without jobs this summer unless the Administration's program is successful.

But the President got really steamed up and finally threw away his speech. He told how he had received a letter from John Knight, publisher of the Knight Newspapers, which printed pages of want ads in order to push the employment of youngsters. Then the President said:

"It's not going to be long before some of you are going to be up at St. Peter's gate rapping on it and asking for admission. And he is not going to ask you if you tithed ten per cent or if you went to church every Sunday. He is not going to be content that you followed the Ten Commandments.

"St. Peter's going to ask you what you did as a benefactor of this great system of government to help others who want to help themselves.

"And I'll tell you one thing you can tell St. Peter," continued the President, looking at J. Hillman Zahn, the Vice President of Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. which has promised to hire a big quota of teenagers. "You can tell him that in the year of our Lord 1965 in the month of June you met at the White House with the President and told him you were going to bring the leadership essential to get these young people off the streets and behind the bench to train them to do something so they could work for themselves.

"I don't have any special dispensation to speak for St. Peter," the President concluded, "but my own judgment is that that report from you to him will make a very favorable impression."

—HISTORIC VOTE SHOWDOWN—

The general public hasn't followed it, but a historic showdown is approaching over the question of unseating the Mississippi congressmen elected last November.

This is the first time in history that a consistent, carefully documented case has been presented in any state to show that the Constitution was violated by denying the vote to a large segment of the population. Page after page of sworn testimony has been collected in Mississippi showing that Negroes were systematically and skillfully refused the right to register and vote.

The House of Representatives will be the final judge of unseating its own members and hitherto the House has usually voted as one big "club" to protect its club members.

This time, however, Civil Rights workers are calling on individual congressmen to ask how they plan to vote. The other day three congressmen from Maryland, a state with a heavy Negro population, received calls from Florence Howe, assistant English professor at Goucher College, Dee Ann Pappas, instructor at Goucher, Dean Pappas, teacher of physics at Park School, Sue Munaker, a member of the Baltimore Committee for the Freedom Democratic Party, plus several others.

They found Rep. Sam Friedel of Baltimore very courteous. He listened attentively, refused to indicate how he would vote, but promised to consider the matter carefully.

—NO TIME FOR RESEARCH—

Two other Maryland congressmen, George Fallon and Clarence D. Long, were brusk and rude.

Fallon, who represents the city of Baltimore with a heavy concentration of Negro voters, was curt, short-tempered, condescending.

"I don't know anything about this Mississippi challenge business," he said. "All I know is what they're talking about on the floor."

Asked if he could do some research into the matter, Fallon replied, "I don't know what you mean by research."

"Well, you know—reading," explained one of his callers.

"That's extracurricular activity which I have no time for," replied the congressman who has had plenty of time to listen to the big truckers, the private utilities, and who favored billboards along the nation's new highways.

When Dean Pappas asked him a question about the rules of the House, Fallon replied, "Don't talk so loud or I'll have you removed from the hall."

With that, the congressman from Baltimore stalked off.

Rep. Long, a former economics professor at Johns Hopkins, represents a wealthy suburban district north of Baltimore.

"It's completely impractical; you're just wasting your time," he snapped, when a delegation of Baltimorians and Mississippians called on him.

"I'm irritated by the entire question," he continued, "I wish you'd go away and worry about something that means something. Don't waste my time."

Congressman Long, despite his professorial background, was not even interested in reading the sworn affidavits and depositions secured in Mississippi showing a wide-spread, effective system of barring Negro voting.

NASA Probing Strikes Which Hit Cape Kennedy - Moonport Complex Before Space Gemini Shot

Washington, D.C.: -- Early on August 9 Gemini 5 will blast off for a space rendezvous with destiny -- the coupling of two satellites in black nothingness- if there are no intra-mural strikes, union feuds, or other major stoppages at the Cape and Merritt Island Moonport.

If the past is prelude, there will be serious walkouts by thousands of construction workers at a time.

This deeply agitates the National Aeronautics and Space Administration executives. So much so that NASA has assigned one of its chief administrators to survey the missile and space installations and learn what can be done to instill a sense of urgency in the men whose work is vital to the hurling of capsules into space.

Thus far the strikes have not delayed the last minute shooting timetables. But the stoppages have tightened nerves and schedules of thousands of men involved -- not to mention the astronauts who go hurtling.

What disturbs the NASA brain trust is the grim fact that the "lost time rate" at Cape Kennedy, because of strikes, is ten times that lost at all the other missile and space bases combined!

In the crucial 15 months ending on March 31 -- the deadline months preceding the McDivitt-White feat -- there were 93 work stoppages at all missile and space sites in the country. Of these 93 walkouts, 56 hit Cape Kennedy (and the Moonport there).

During this stretch of 15 months, 65,144 man-days were lost in the series of stoppages at the Cape.

At all missile bases and space centers there was a total of 13 major stoppages. Of these crippling strikes, ten hit the Cape Kennedy-Moonport area. This meant that the vital core of the Gemini shots and final Apollo moon-landing project effort was hit by three times as many major walkouts as all the other bases combined.

Of these 10 major instances of tool-laydowns, six strikes affected some $200 million worth of construction and other pendent work. There were many instances when thousands of skilled craftsmen [illegible] two unions were disputing the jurisdiction over a handful of jobs -- sometimes as few as four or five.

A good deal of the time the strikes developed when union strung up picket lines to protest the subcontracting of work to one or two non-union employers. Thus the space project was used as a lever against the firms which had no union contract or hiring hall pact.

Once a plumbers local moved a picket line 50 miles and halted work at the vast Cape complex, in order to get at an employer with whom the union was feuding.

Only in 6.7 per cent of the stoppages were collective bargaining disputes involved -- that is, bargaining over wages, hours and working conditions. The rest of the stoppages were simply the result of feuds between one force or another. Oft times unions themselves duelled in the Florida sun.

Behind the scenes some labor officials began hammering away at NASA itself. The agency has been charged with being inexperienced in labor relations, biased against unions, and with attempting to swing non-union firms into the multi-billion dollar operations.

Fact is that with the military "stage" being phased out, NASA finds itself dealing more and more with small sub - contractors. Because the contracts are getting smaller, more non-union firms are able to obtain them.

NASA attempts to get union contractors whenever it can. But frequently the chain of subcontracting is so long, NASA loses control of the orders for equipment which it must have as quickly as possible.

NASA understands labor's eagerness to have union men on the job. But NASA wants it understood it has to get astronauts on the moon before midnight, December 31, 1969.

So it has assigned William B. Rieke, deputy associate administrator for industry affairs, who works closely with Dr. George E. Mueller, associate administrator for manned space flight, to probe and to suggest what can be done to rid Cape Kennedy of costly strikes.

. . . And to instill the same sense of urgency among the men on earth as exists among those whose minds are on the

GOLDBERG'S WORDS ECHO

In the midst of the hue and cry over the issue of right-to-work laws, it becomes apparent that the crux of the matter is compulsory union membership. The advocates of repeal of Section 14 (b) of the 1947 Taft-Hartley Act want no worker to escape the forced membership in a union which acts as their bargaining agent. The trade unions bloc wants this easy road to more members, more dues revenue, and more political control.

In that context attention is called to a statement made by Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg in 1962, when he was secretary of labor. Before that Mr. Goldberg had been one of the nation's leading labor union attorneys.

Speaking to the American Federation of Government Employes, Arthur Goldberg said:

"We all want to preserve the merit system for entry and retention in the Federal service. I had my share of winning the union shops for example for unions in private industries, but I know that you will agree with me that the union shop and the closed shop are inappropriate to the Federal Government. And because of this, there is a larger responsibility for enlightenment on the part of the Government union. In your own organization you have to win acceptance by your own conduct, your own action, your own wisdom, your own responsibility and your own achievements. And let me say to you from my experience representing the trade union movement that this is not a handicap necessarily. Very often even the union that has won the union shop will frankly admit that people who come in through that route do not always participate in the same knowing way as people who come in through the method of education and voluntarism."

"Responsibility" is a key word in that statement. Right-to-work laws give a worker a choice of whether to align himself with a union. They stimulate the union to serve him well and sell him on the benefits he may gain by membership. Without such laws -- without Section 14 (b) which makes right-to-work statutes legal in states which choose to enact them -- the choice is gone. The worker is a prisoner of the will of union agents.

As Justice Goldberg pointed out this is good for neither the worker or the union itself. He made, in 1962, one of the best arguments yet heard for retaining 14 (b) on the Federal law books.

A favorite hobby of the liberals is to attack the House un-American Activities Committee.

Communists would like to get rid of the committee, which has been a thorn in their side for years.

This committee cannot be discredited in the same manner as McCarthyism. There is a difference. The late Senator McCarthy made reckless, irresponsible charges and accusations and never furnished any proof.

For years the House committee has exposed Communist dominated organizations, including labor unions, and it has disclosed the names of known Communists. It has dealt in facts. It has furnished proof. It has been responsible and it has served the country well through the years.

The committee deserves the full support of the public in the difficult task of unmasking subversives operating in our midst.

A Chicago hearing conducted by the committee brought out hordes of the familiar unwashed, long haired, bearded creators of bedlam and disorder, who tried their best to discredit this important arm of the federal government. The demonstrators were noisy distractors, who sought maximum attention by lying in the street in the path of police cars.

The country witnessed their unruly behavior on television. The dignified conduct of the committee provided a strong and welcome contrast. Its position was strengthened rather than weakened in the process. The demonstrations backfired as they often do.

Undoubtedly in the assortment of kooks, who paraded, shouted, kicked, shoved and picketed in Chicago, there were Communists. Seventy two landed in jail. It is a pity that they can't be kept there longer.

While the House committee hasn't produced a sensation in recent times, there hasn't been a shred of evidence that it hasn't acted with proper regard for fact and fairness. There has been no evidence presented that any individual has been treated unjustly by it.

Even if the group has not disclosed recently any treason in high places, it has performed a service in ripping the cover off of Communists functioning in our national life.

It has neglected subversion from the right but is correcting that by an investigation of the Ku Klux Klan.

A committee which conducts itself responsibly can perform a valuable service by uncovering both the nation's enemies and the conditions that otherwise would not be exposed to the public view.

The country should never tolerate the abolishment of the committee which should be encouraged to do more and be given the funds to do the job right.

NO SUMMER SLUMP

How can you beat the summer slump in your business?

More and better advertising in your newspaper, that's how.

While a business may have a summer slump, there's never a slump in the circulation of a newspaper. People buy their newspaper the year 'round -- and they read it 12 months a year, too.

To prevent that old summer slump we should take advantage of the fact, too, that people are more generally relaxed and read their newspapers more carefully in the good old summer time.

One thing about newspaper advertising -- advertise the things that people want . . when they want to buy them . . at the price they want to pay.

If you advertise in the newspaper you can expect business.

WHICH OF THESE THREE ARRANGEMENTS DO YOU FAVOR FOR WORKERS IN INDUSTRY?

The importance of this overwhelming support for the Right to Work principle, at a time when powerful political forces under Big Unionism't control are being mobilized to repeal Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, was spotlighted by Reed Larson, Executive Vice President of the National Right to Work Committee.

"Congress will not repeal 14 (b) if the wishes of the American people can be brought to bear on its membership, in the House and Senate," he said. But mobilizing this grass-roots political power is a big job. Millions of Right to Work supporters must become activists and get their friends and neighbors busy contacting their Congressman and Senators (before they return to Washington) and writing them letters after they return."

PROTECTION FOR CONSUMERS

Basic consideration in a bill such as Quality Stabilization, now before Congress, must be: Is it good for the country and its consumers? We have to choose between two policies.

On one side is the great majority of the nearly two million independent retail businesses, along with a very sizeable bloc of Congressmen, particularly those who have had personal experience in retail stores, who believe the bill is good for the consumers.

On the other hand is a comparative handful of giant retailers associated in a group called the National Association of Mass Merchandisers, which for some time passed as the National Association of Consumer Organizations. These people have few roots in the communities they serve.

Allied with them are some theoretical people who never met a payroll or personally tested an economic theory, but who believe they know how business and competition should work. They are supported by some editors who read too quickly.

Because consumers have seen for themselves that competition helps them, the opponents have chosen to fight by trying to label Quality Stabilization the opposite of competition: price fixing. It is no more price fixing than the setting of prices on house or private brands by many of America's reliable chains. But some economists and editors are unwilling to admit that a house brand which can be bought at the same price in every store selling it is sheltered from price competition.

Quality Stabilization would not prohibit any of these stores, or even the discounters, from obtaining and selling goods at whatever prices they can obtain. What it would do is prevent unethical merchants from using quality brands as "bait" or "switch" merchandise to entice customers into their stores to sell them high-profit goods of questionable value.

Surely Quality Stabilization is in the interest of consumers, because it protects the household budget from inferior products.

COLOR FOR SAFETY'S SAKE

If tests being conducted around the country prove out, our streets and highways may one day be many-splendored things of different colors--at least at interchanges and where there is abrupt merging of lanes or a special traffic situation.

"Color-co-ordinated" roads, if they come, will not be for aesthetic reasons but for safety and to augment the signals, signs and warning devices that are now used.

Red pavement, for instance, would alert a driver to an approaching stop or dangerous intersection. Yellow would mean a safety zone and blue a school zone. On freeways, green would indicate a through lane and orange a deceleration lane or exit.

This color code is only tentative at present and waits upon more proof that it contributes to safety and that colored paving materials stand up to heavy wear.

Safety experts report that the evidence in so far is in favor of color.

POLITICS AND THE PRINTED WORD

All communications media and stars of the entertainment field should be on the side of and helpful to patriots. Among the freedoms that patriots are trying to save comes first and foremost the freedom of the press. Included in the liberties they promote is freedom from censorship.

Everything that patriots are for and are trying to save are highly prized and needed by those in the newsgathering, communications and entertainment fields.

Some super - patriots and others so regarded may appear to have their faults because of extreme diligence. But communications should forgive them as fast as possible. The very worst they do is not likely to be as inconvenient to the publicity vendors as the mildest form of dictatorship to which statism inevitably leads.

Without vigorous campaigning, elections and re - elections, there would be far less for newspapers to print and radio and TV to talk about, and a good source for mimicry and spoofing would be lost to clever entertainers.

Magazines which can charge $40,000-plus per page for advertising space would look longingly for advertisers in an economy which said of the few products available, "Take this or else."

It would be best if those who are doing so well in the profit motive system could understand that they would lose the "profit motive" should communism or even statism be permitted to take over. Businessmen could fare as well and longer if they would take time out to wonder if liberty is endangered in the present trend.

Critics of the profit motive system and personal enterprise should yield to some happy medium for, whatever their weaknesses, these philosophies may have been partly responsible for making the USA the greatest of all nations. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — When the President gets going on the subject of jobs for young people, he becomes so enthusiastic that every corporation executive who listens wants to go out and hire more youngsters.

Last week LBJ met with ten corporation executives who had agreed to hire one jobless youngster this summer for every 100 other people on their payroll. The President handed them citations and then started to read a prepared speech. It was a good speech, and told how, despite the drop in unemployment, two million young Americans will be without jobs this summer unless the Administration's program is successful.

But the President got really steamed up and finally threw away his speech. He told how he had received a letter from John Knight, publisher of the Knight Newspapers, which printed pages of want ads in order to push the employment of youngsters. Then the President said:

"It's not going to be long before some of you are going to be up at St. Peter's gate rapping on it and asking for admission. And he is not going to ask you if you tithed ten per cent or if you went to church every Sunday. He is not going to be content that you followed the Ten Commandments.

"St. Peter's going to ask you what you did as a benefactor of this great system of government to help others who want to help themselves.

"And I'll tell you one thing you can tell St. Peter," continued the President, looking at J. Hillman Zahn, the Vice President of Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. which has promised to hire a big quota of teenagers. "You can tell him that in the year of our Lord 1965 in the month of June you met at the White House with the President and told him you were going to bring the leadership essential to get these young people off the streets and behind the bench to train them to do something so they could work for themselves.

"I don't have any special dispensation to speak for St. Peter," the President concluded, "but my own judgment is that that report from you to him will make a very favorable impression."

—HISTORIC VOTE SHOWDOWN—

The general public hasn't followed it, but a historic showdown is approaching over the question of unseating the Mississippi congressmen elected last November.

This is the first time in history that a consistent, carefully documented case has been presented in any state to show that the Constitution was violated by denying the vote to a large segment of the population. Page after page of sworn testimony has been collected in Mississippi showing that Negroes were systematically and skillfully refused the right to register and vote.

The House of Representatives will be the final judge of unseating its own members and hitherto the House has usually voted as one big "club" to protect its club members.

This time, however, Civil Rights workers are calling on individual congressmen to ask how they plan to vote. The other day three congressmen from Maryland, a state with a heavy Negro population, received calls from Florence Howe, assistant English professor at Goucher College, Dee Ann Pappas, instructor at Goucher, Dean Pappas, teacher of physics at Park School, Sue Munaker, a member of the Baltimore Committee for the Freedom Democratic Party, plus several others.

They found Rep. Sam Friedel of Baltimore very courteous. He listened attentively, refused to indicate how he would vote, but promised to consider the matter carefully.

—NO TIME FOR RESEARCH—

Two other Maryland congressmen, George Fallon and Clarence D. Long, were brusk and rude.

Fallon, who represents the city of Baltimore with a heavy concentration of Negro voters, was curt, short-tempered, condescending.

"I don't know anything about this Mississippi challenge business," he said. "All I know is what they're talking about on the floor."

Asked if he could do some research into the matter, Fallon replied, "I don't know what you mean by research."

"Well, you know — reading," explained one of his callers.

"That's extracurricular activity which I have no time for," replied the congressman who has had plenty of time to listen to the big truckers, the private utilities, and who favored billboards along the nation's new highways.

When Dean Pappas asked him a question about the rules of the House, Fallon replied, "Don't talk so loud or I'll have you removed from the hall."

With that, the congressman from Baltimore stalked off.

Rep. Long, a former economics professor at Johns Hopkins, represents a wealthy suburban district north of Baltimore.

"It's completely impractical; you're just wasting your time," he snapped, when a delegation of Baltimorians and Mississippians called on him.

"I'm irritated by the entire question," he continued, "I wish you'd go away and worry about something that means something. Don't waste my time."

Congressman Long, despite his professorial background, was not even interested in reading the sworn affidavits and depositions secured in Mississippi showing a wide-spread, effective system of barring Negro voting.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam - It was a tense moment for all.

Artillery boomed in the distance. Warplanes roared off on missions perilous to many.

At the edge of the great air base here, just outside the main security checkpoint, hundreds of men stood in sweating anxiety outside a large white-painted building.

In the dense throng were airmen just back from bombing and strafing North Viet Nam. There were dust - caked Marines, worn by days of patrol on mountaintop and across rice paddies.

There also were clerks and bakers and mechanics and demolition men and beret - capped Army officers who had journeyed in from lonely outposts for "the big operation.'

A murmur ran through heat-weary men:

"What the hell is holding this thing up?"

Inside the big building, Marine Lt. George F. Hoffman of Johnstown, Pa., was just as tense. He knew the beleaguring force couldn't be held at bay much longer.-

He gave a final inspection to his 60 Vietnamese and American assistants. He looked at his watch. It was 11 o'clock-zero hour.

"All right, let'em in," said Hoffman.

The doors swung open and the great breakthrough was underway.

The long-awaited opening of the Navy Post Exchange at Da Nang had taken place. Troops grabbed up shopping baskets and rushed pell-mell from counter to counter, buying everything they saw.

It was like the opening of a huge supermarket back home only bigger. It was payday for most of the men, and they were as eager to spend their money.

The 70 cases of beer in stock were gone in five minutes. Some 2,000 cases of soda and soft drinks went quickly, too.

Lucky first comers staggered out of the $100,000 warehouse burdened with cameras, watches, tape recorders, deodorants, film packs, clothing and $28.15 portable refrigerators and small electric fans.

Scores of Marines and airmen, unable to enter the packed building, left after long waiting.

When the doors finally closed, some 7,000 men had spent $31,000.

"Soon we'll have a million - dollar - a- month operation here," said Lt. Hoffman, who also will open five field post exchanges in the five northern provinces that make up the 1st Corps area in South Viet Nam.

Like any good businessman, the lieutenant believes in expanding in prosperous times. The indications are that Uncle Sam's nephews in uniform will be spending more rather than less money here in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrell M. Griffith of 34 Airshire Place, Hazelwood, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Jo-Ellen, to Paul Crosnoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Crosnoe of Cape Girardeau.

Miss Griffith is a graduate of Sikeston High School with the class of 1962. She will graduate from Missouri Baptist Hospital School of Nursing September 3.

Mr. Crosnoe is a graduate of Central High of Cape Girardeau and is in business with his father in the Crosnoe Construction Company of Cape.

The wedding will take place in the Hunter Memorial Presbyterian Church in Sikeston, October 3 with the Rev. F. Edward Watson officiating.

GOLF NOTES

Twenty-five golfers enjoyed a day of golf and lunch at the Sikeston Country Club on Tuesday.

Winners were as follows: Flight C, Mrs. Dwight Crader; Flight B, Mrs. Charles Welch; Flight A, Mrs. Duree Medley and Championship Flight, Mrs. J. F. Cox.

Plans were discussed for attending the Southeast Missouri Tournament in Poplar Bluff the latter part of this month.

All B and C flight players are urged to play more often so that they will have a minimum of twenty-five eighteen hole scores for a true handicap. This is in preparation for the club handicap tournament in July.

Birdwatching golfers are noticing that the logger head shrikes are back again.

If you are not familiar with this bird, watch for it with its white, black and gray colors flitting about.

Twilight couples golf will be on Friday evening.

Willing Workers Class Meets

MOREHOUSE - The Willing Workers Class met Thursday night, June 3 at the Morehouse First General Baptist Church for their monthly meeting and social.

Mrs. Marvalene Reynolds gave the Devotional; the topic was "In Partnership With God." The scripture reading was from Galatians 4:6-7. She conducted a Bible Quiz with all the class participating. A brief business meeting was conducted by Carl Launius, vice president. Dismissal prayer was offered by Jimmy Lutes and the meeting adjourned and all went to the kitchen for refreshments. DOOR STOP

Picture the scene at the Neighborhood Church in Oakland, Calif., during Sunday-evening services. The sermon was under way, and back at the door was Glenn Jackson, who had been busy, ever since the congregation began to arrive, trying to keep a small but friendly dog from getting inside.

Halfway through the service the door opened, and a man and woman started to tiptoe in. Jackson spotted the little dog, right between the woman's legs, trying to sneak through the door again. He reached out a foot and gave a halfhearted kick at the dog — but missed and caught the woman square on the shin.

She doubled up in pain and began rubbing her leg. Then, before Jackson could apologize, she looked up and said, "I'm sorry we're late. We're from out of town." — Bill Fiset

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Lamb arm or round bone chop.

Q. Where does it come from? How is it identified?
A. It comes from the shoulder and can be identified by the small arm bone and cross-section of three or more rib bones.

Q. How are they prepared?
A. They may be broiled, pan broiled or braised. For broiling, set the oven regulator for broiling. Place the chops on a rack, in the broiler pan. Insert both pan and rack so the top of 1-inch chops is 2 inches from the heat. 2-inch chops 3 inches from heat. When one side is browned, season. Turn and broil the second side. Season. The approximate total cooking time is 12 minutes for 1-inch chops, 18 minutes for 1½-inch chops and 22 minutes for 2-inch chops.

For panbroiling, brown the chops slowly in a heavy frying-pan pouring off fat as it accumulates. Turn occasionally until chops are done.

For braising, brown the chops in a heavy utensil, pour off drippings. Season. Add a small amount of liquid, cover tightly, and cook slowly, 45 to 60 minutes.

Art is valuable and enriching only so far as it is not born in artifice. — Pablo Picasso.

A few years ago I taught in an Indian residential school in Western Canada. It was in the heart of the Rocky Mountain area, where the children learn to ride horseback almost as early as our American children become acquainted with a tricycle.

In the 6th grade Social Studies class I tried to explain to the children that today in most large cities one hardly ever sees a horse. I referred to the fact that when I was a child the milkman used to deliver the milk from house to house, using a horse and wagon.

"And what does the milkman use today"? I prompted.

"Why cows, of course," came the reply. — Sister F. D.

"Dave is 16½, but dumb for his age. He is very strong, with a powerful right arm which comes from combing his hair in front of a mirror for hours at a time. He is a very persuasive talker, having convinced his mother that the 'U' marks all over his report card stand for 'Unexcelled.'

"At the dinner table the other evening, he said, 'Pass the potatoes.' His mother said, 'Please pass the potatoes.' Dave said, 'I asked first.'

GOLF NOTES

Twenty-five golfers enjoyed a day of golf and lunch at the Sikeston Country Club on Tuesday.

Winners were as follows: Flight C, Mrs. Dwight Crader; Flight B, Mrs. Charles Welch; Flight A, Mrs. Duree Medley and Championship Flight, Mrs. J. F. Cox.

Plans were discussed for attending the Southeast Missouri Tournament in Poplar Bluff the latter part of this month.

All B and C flight players are urged to play more often so that they will have a minimum of twenty-five eighteen hole scores for a true handicap. This is in preparation for the club handicap tournament in July.

Birdwatching golfers are noticing that the logger head shrikes are back again.

If you are not familiar with this bird, watch for it with its white, black and gray colors flitting about.

Twilight couples golf will be on Friday evening.

Art is valuable and enriching only so far as it is not born in artifice. — Pablo Picasso.

A few years ago I taught in an Indian residential school in Western Canada. It was in the heart of the Rocky Mountain area, where the children learn to ride horseback almost as early as our American children become acquainted with a tricycle.

In the 6th grade Social Studies class I tried to explain to the children that today in most large cities one hardly ever sees a horse. I referred to the fact that when I was a child the milkman used to deliver the milk from house to house, using a horse and wagon.

"And what does the milkman use today"? I prompted.

"Why cows, of course," came the reply. — Sister F. D.

White And Boyer Hit Homers Cards Down Reds 6 to 4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis ended a two-game losing streak Wednesday night as the Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds 6-4 with the help of consecutive home runs by Bill White and Ken Boyer.

The victory brought St. Louis back to the .500 mark at 26-26 for the season.

Mel Stottlemyre pitched a six-hitter and Joe Pepitone and Tom Tresh hit two-run homers as the New York Yankees beat the A's 5-1 at Kansas City.

White ignited a five-run fourth inning for the Cardinals at St. Louis when he homered with two men on. Boyer followed White to the plate and hit his home run.

Curt Simmons gained his fourth victory of the season for the Cardinals against six losses. Tracy Stallard gave him some help after Simmons allowed two runs in the eighth.

Ray Sadecki 2-5 will start for St. Louis today as the Cardinals take on the Reds again at Busch stadium. Jim Maloney 5-2 will be on the mound for Cincinnati.

Kansas City scored its only run in the ninth inning when Nelson Mathews doubled and came home on a single by Mike Hershberger.

The Atheltics are idle today.

Yank Players Fined $250.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The New York Yankees, who last year gave up on harmonicas, have taken up whistling.

And the price still is the same — $250 fines.

The Yankees, mired in eighth place and apparently whistling in the dark in the American League pennant race, announced Wednesday that three players had been fined $250 each for breaking training.

The Yankees refused to divulge the names of the players and the nature of the incidents that brought about the fines. But reporters traveling with the club said the fines were levied for, among other things, whistling at waitresses in a restaurant.

The same newsmen also reported that two of the fined players were $100,000-a-year outfielder Mickey Mantle and relief pitcher Hal Reniff.

The fines were announced at a hastily called press conference by General Manager Ralph Houk, who flew to Kansas City after the baseball draft ended in New York.

"A few people broke training," Houk said. "Three players were fined $250 apiece. A few others were talked to."

Houk said he would not divulge the names of the players involved but was announcing the fines because "we didn't like it to go unnoticed. It got out of hand. It was a public show. If somebody wants to carry on, there's a place for it. That was not the place."

The incidents took place Sunday after the Yankees doubleheader in New York. The team had about three hours to spare before catching a plane and went to dine. When they eventually reached the airport, there was a 2½-hour delay and the Yankees again went to a restaurant.

Manager Johnny Keane, who resigned his job with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals to move over to the American League champion Yankees, called Houk about the incidents Monday, then met with the club Monday night and settled the issue.

Houk's flight, meanwhile, was reminiscent of last year's flight to Boston in mid-August after the Great Harmonica Tooting Incident.

The player involved then was infielder Phil Linz, who became musically inclined on the team bus to the distress of Yogi Berra, then the Yankee manager. Houk flew in to Boston to announce a $250 fine had been levied on Linz.

Cards Pick 61 In Major League Draft

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional baseball's first free-agent draft finally is over with 826 youngsters selected by the 20 major league clubs and their farm teams.

Now all they have to do is sign the youngsters. This may not be easy.

General Manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees, who fought unsuccessfully against passage of the controversial rule, thinks only about half the number selected will be signed.

Gabe Paul, president of the Cleveland Indians, and one of its strongest boosters, predicts the clubs will have little difficulty in coming to terms with as many as they would like.

Surprisingly, none among the baseball brass expressed any concern over possible court action.

Prior to the bill's passage, opponenets headed by owner Charlie Finley of the Kansas City Athletics called the action illegal and in restraint of trade because, he said, it would deprive the boys of negotiation rights.

"It's just not so," averred George Kirksey, vice president of the Houston Astros. "The boy does have negotiation rights. He's got four choices. He can sign, he can continue in school, he can go into football or baseball, or he can go into business.

"It's absolutely ridiculous for baseball people to think they'll get the kids cheaply just because they have exclusive negotiation rights."

The National League selected 431 players to the American's 395. The New York Mets, who made the last selection, wound up with 52 picks, the same number as the Minnesota Twins. Only clubs with more were Houston with 72, Baltimore 70, and St. Louis 61. The Red Sox made the fewest selections. They chose only 20 players.

The statue of Abraham Lincoln in Washington's Lincoln Memorial is 19 feet high from head to foot.

Sports TALK By DON SAVAGE

There could be a father-son combination in baseball telecasting next year, only in different National League towns. Harry Caray is the long-time man behind the mike for the St. Louis Cardinals. His son, Skip, is working Atlanta games this year and might step right in with the varsity when the Braves move in next season.

The World Champion Cardinals, always on the lookout for young talented players, will sponsor baseball tryouts in Paducah, Ky., on June 15 and 16, it was announced today by George Silvey, director of Red Bird Scouting.

Starting at 10 a.m. each day things will be at a high pitch at Brooks Stadium when W. H. "Buddy" Lewis, Cardinal scouting supervisor, directs and hustles the players through a well-staged tryout program.

"We'll be looking for aggressive, Cardinal-type players for our farm System," Silvey remarked. "And these tryouts will give the eager players a once in a summer opportunity to prove that they have the stuff out of which major leaguers are made. . .baseball ability, desire, and definiteness of purpose. Our man personally picked this tryout spot, you know, and we're counting on a sizeable group to look over."

The tryouts are open to all players in the 16 to 22 year age bracket. Each player should bring his glove, shoes and a uniform if he has one. The Cards will supply the bats, balls, and catching gear.

A player signed to a contract will be reimbursed for the expenses he incurs incident to the tryouts. To take part an American Legion player must have a letter of approval from either his Legion coach or Post Commander.

St. Louis U. Meets Arizona In College World Series

OMAHA - The prime question of the College World Series is "who's going to stop Arizona State?"

John Marcum, cool St. Louis left-hander, will face the ASU sluggers tonight. Major league scouts at the 19th NCAA Tournament give Marcum the best chance against the Sun Devils of any Series pitcher.

Arizona State has been the class of the tournament through three rounds. The Sun Devils are unbeaten in the double-elimination tourney. They handed Ohio State's Big Ten champs their first Series defeat Wednesday night 9-4 with highly touted Rick Monday smashing a home run, double and single.

Earlier, the Western Athletic Conference champs clipped St. Louis 13-3 and Lafayette 14-1. This is an over-all score of 36-8 for three games. They have a team batting average of.329, with seven doubles, one triple and four homers.

Third baseman Sal Bando, one of the four Ohio natives on the club, leads Series hitters with .571, including three doubles and a homer. His nine runs batted in is just one short of the Series record.

Monday, sophomore outfielder who was chosen No. 1 in baseball's first free agent draft, is batting .417 in the series. Outfielder Glen Smith is at .417.

Bobby Winkles likely will start John The Robot Pavlik, a right-hander, with two days rest. He stands 11-0. Marcum is with a 1.15 earned run avr.

The game starts at 7 p.m., EST.

Washington State, which ousted Connecticut 3-2, faces Ohio State at 9:30 with the loser eliminated.

A two-run triple by .417 - hitting Tom Daly in the seventh was the winning blow for St. Louis, which eliminated Florida State 5-3. Marcum came in to get the last three outs.

Washington State now stands 33-7, St. Louis 25-8 and Ohio State, beaten four times in four games this season by ASU, is 28-12.

Arizona State is 51-7 with 15 straight victories and talk grows of a possible unbeaten sweep. Only four teams have swept through the series unbeaten -- Texas in 1949, Oklahoma in 1951, California in 1957 and Michigan in 1962.

BATTING -- Willie Mays, Giants, drove in three runs with a single and his 18th homer in a 4-2 victory over the New York Mets.

PITCHING - Mel Stottlemyre, Yankees, checked Kansas City on six hits and struck out 11, bringing his record to 7-2, as the Yankees beat the A's 5-1.

OFF-BALANCED OFFENSE—When Philadelphia Phillies pitcher Jim Bunning is on the attack, he keeps nothing in reserve. His fast ball follow-through often ends, as did this one, in a two, three and even four-point landing.

A two-run triple by .417 - hitting Tom Daly in the seventh was the winning blow for St. Louis, which eliminated Florida State 5-3. Marcum came in to get the last three outs.

Washington State now stands 33-7, St. Louis 25-8 and Ohio State, beaten four times in four games this season by ASU, is 28-12.

Arizona State is 51-7 with 15 straight victories and talk grows of a possible unbeaten sweep. Only four teams have swept through the series unbeaten -- Texas in 1949, Oklahoma in 1951, California in 1957 and Michigan in 1962.

BATTING -- Willie Mays, Giants, drove in three runs with a single and his 18th homer in a 4-2 victory over the New York Mets.

PITCHING - Mel Stottlemyre, Yankees, checked Kansas City on six hits and struck out 11, bringing his record to 7-2, as the Yankees beat the A's 5-1.

OFF-BALANCED OFFENSE—When Philadelphia Phillies pitcher Jim Bunning is on the attack, he keeps nothing in reserve. His fast ball follow-through often ends, as did this one, in a two, three and even four-point landing.

Braves Want To Go To Atlanta Now

MILWAUKEE -The Milwaukee Braves, high in the standings but low at the gate, may have to dig a lot deeper than a half million dollars if they want to flee to Atlanta this year.

The Braves offered a cool $500,000 for release from their Milwaukee contract at midseason Wednesday, but the proposal received chilly, although somewhat mixed, reaction from county officials.

"To hell with'em," snapped Milwaukee County Board Chairman Eugene H. Grobschmidt, a leader in legal action which forced the Braves last fall to fulfill their contract here before going to Atlanta in 1966.

Two of Grobschmidt's colleagues on the board, however, said they might entertain thoughts of letting the Braves leave -- at a higher price.

Supervisor Ted E. Wedemeyer predicted board members might be more receptive to an offer in the vicinity of three-quarters of a million dollars. Supervisor Donald F. Weber set a price tag of 1.5 million.

Although the Braves' hopes of an early migration to the south have been well known, a formal offer was withheld until Wednesday. Bill Bartholomay, the club's chairman, made the proposal in six-page telegrams to Grobschmidt, county executive John Doyne and Teams, Inc., a civic group seeking another major league franchise for Milwaukee.

Bartholomay offered Milwaukee County $400,000 and Teams, Inc., $100,000 to sever contractual ties and permit the Braves to move to Atlanta after July 10. The offer carried a deadline of midnight June 21, but from initial reaction it might just as well be Dec. 31.

Bartholomay said that on the basis of projected figures the Braves' Milwaukee attendance this year will be "at least 400,000, some 1,200,000 below" the 12-year average. He admitted the Braves face " a substantial operating loss," but said the county will realize less than $90,000.

"Acceptance of this offer will insure the taxpayers of Milwaukee over $300,000 more than they can reasonably expect under the terms of the lease for Milwaukee County Stadium," he said.

Grobschmidt disputed Bartholomay's projected figures and said a strong showing by the Braves would attract fans in the summer months.

"All of a sudden, Mr. Bartholomay is thinking about the Milwaukee taxpayers," Grobschmidt added. "That's a quick pitch. He has had no concern for them for the past two years."

Grobschmidt, reached while vacationing, said he would submit the Braves' offer at the county board's regular meeting next Wednesday. However, he said he believes the majority of the board shares his feelings and the public would be "99 to 1 against it."

The Braves have drawn only 125,606 for 22 County Stadium dates this year. In 1964, before their attempt to move to Atlanta, they had an attendance of 253,817 for the comparable period.

Jazy Sets World Mile Record

RENNES, France - France's Michel Jazy, who apparently runs his best against the clock rather than against tough opposition, today had the world's fastest time of 3:53.6 for the mile and solid confidence he'll break the 5,000-meter mark on Friday.

The 29-year-old veteran, a disappointment in the 1964 Olympics, Tuesday night bettered the world record of 3:-54.1 set by New Zealand's Peter Snell. This brought the blue ribbon mile mark to France for the first time since 1931 when Jules Ladoumegue was clocked in 4:08.2

In Tuesday night's race, Gerald Vervoort was second in 3:59.9.

Ironically, Jazy does not think of the mile as his best distance. He prefers the 5,000 meters. But he said outright before the race that he was going for a world record, and he made it. He then gave warning that he was going to shoot for a sensational exploit in the 5,000 meters Friday night in Paris.

In the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome, Jazy finished a badly beaten second in the 1,500 meters. For the 1964 Games, he decided to switch to the 5,000 meters.

But in Tokyo, he was bothered by the pace and used up his energy passing other runners, then being passed. When he saw he could not win, or even take second, he faded back to fifth and said that the only thing he really cared for was the gold medal.

That setback has rankled him since Tokyo. It took Jazy almost three years to get back his confidence after he was beaten by 30 meters by Herb Elliott of Australia in the 1,500 meters in Rome.

Jazy's mile record capped an amazing series of races in the space of one week. On June 2, he ran the fastest mile by a European with a time of 3:55.5 at Saint Maur, a Paris suburb. On June 6, at Lorient, he erased the old European record for the 5,000 meters with a time of 13:34.4.

In Paris he will be aiming for the 13:25.8 record for 5,000 meters set by Ron Clarke of Australia last week in Los Angeles.

Leslie And Canvas Products Win Little League Contests

In the first game last night, Canvas Products connected with 9 hits to rally in their 10 runs, compared to the 2 hits to drive in Police's only 3. Sipult, starting on the mound for Canvas, was relieved in the fourth by Stewart. Together they pitched a two-hit ball game, each allowing one hit. Moore, the losing pitcher for Police, together with Terrell, smashed the only hits for their team.

Leslie Insurance, last night at Farris Field, remained the number one team in the American League as they downed First National with a close score of 4 to 3. Leslie is the only team in the American League that has not been beaten. Shipp went all the way for Leslie as he kept his components to only three runs. Lingle, who also pitched a fine ball game, and allowed only two hits, was the losing pitcher. Ryan and Rofkahr each had those hits for Leslie.

State Highway Travel Rolls to Daily Total of 32 Million Miles

From St. Joseph to Fredericktown -- about 370 miles -- every second, day and night, 'round the clock.

That's a small inkling of the daily travel on Missouri's state highways, according to the 1964 vehicle mile study released today by the State Highway Department's Division of Highway Planning.

Total daily travel in the state added up to 32,367,625 miles -- or the equivalent of 87,480 such trips from the historic Pony Express city in northwest Missouri to the Madison county town in the southeastern Ozarks hill country.

All of this going and coming was tallied last year at 6300 locations all over the state. Counts from each section were projected to give total travel for each highway in the state.

The study showed average travel in the state was up 1,187,251 miles a day over 1963's total of 31,180,374 miles, an increase of 3.6 per cent.

The yearly count adds up to a massive mathematical job. And the figures yield some interesting facts about Missouri highway travel.

For instance, the total daily travel averages to more than 1,000 miles on each of the 32,-000 miles in the state highway system. But in actual use the Primary system, with about 25 per cent of the mileage, carried about 70 per cent of the total travel.

The Supplementary (Farm-to-Market) system, with about 72 per cent of the mileage, carried about 20 per cent of the travel. The remainder was divided among the other systems -- Traffic Relief, 300 Mile Additional and Park Connections.

As might be expected, St. Louis county racked up the highest average daily travel with 5,-049,623 miles. Jackson county was second with 2,089,681 miles. Worth county, up in northwest Missouri, had the lowest total with 35,614 miles a day.

The busiest highway, according to the study, was Interstate Route 70-U.S. Route 40 with 3.8 million miles of travel a day. Next was Interstate Route 44-U.S. Route 66 with 3.4 million miles a day.

Led by St. Louis county with 15.6 per cent of the total daily travel, District 6 (covering east central Missouri), led the other nine Department districts with 26 per cent of the state total.

Other districts and their percentages of the total are:

District 1 (Northwest Missouri --6%; District 2 (North Central Missouri) - 4.7 %; District 3 (Northeast Mo) - 6.3%; District 4 (West Central Mo.) -18.4%; District 5 (Central Mo.) - 8 %; District 7 (Southwest Mo.) - 8.4%; District 8 (South Central Mo.) - 10.5%; District 9 (Southeast Ozarks area) - 3.7%; District 10 (Southeast Bootheel Area) -- 9%.

Jazy Sets World Mile Record

RENNES, France - France's Michel Jazy, who apparently runs his best against the clock rather than against tough opposition, today had the world's fastest time of 3:53.6 for the mile and solid confidence he'll break the 5,000-meter mark on Friday.

The 29-year-old veteran, a disappointment in the 1964 Olympics, Tuesday night bettered the world record of 3:-54.1 set by New Zealand's Peter Snell. This brought the blue ribbon mile mark to France for the first time since 1931 when Jules Ladoumegue was clocked in 4:08.2

In Tuesday night's race, Gerald Vervoort was second in 3:59.9.

Ironically, Jazy does not think of the mile as his best distance. He prefers the 5,000 meters. But he said outright before the race that he was going for a world record, and he made it. He then gave warning that he was going to shoot for a sensational exploit in the 5,000 meters Friday night in Paris.

In the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome, Jazy finished a badly beaten second in the 1,500 meters. For the 1964 Games, he decided to switch to the 5,000 meters.

But in Tokyo, he was bothered by the pace and used up his energy passing other runners, then being passed. When he saw he could not win, or even take second, he faded back to fifth and said that the only thing he really cared for was the gold medal.

That setback has rankled him since Tokyo. It took Jazy almost three years to get back his confidence after he was beaten by 30 meters by Herb Elliott of Australia in the 1,500 meters in Rome.

Jazy's mile record capped an amazing series of races in the space of one week. On June 2, he ran the fastest mile by a European with a time of 3:55.5 at Saint Maur, a Paris suburb. On June 6, at Lorient, he erased the old European record for the 5,000 meters with a time of 13:34.4.

In Paris he will be aiming for the 13:25.8 record for 5,000 meters set by Ron Clarke of Australia last week in Los Angeles.

Leslie And Canvas Products Win Little League Contests

In the first game last night, Canvas Products connected with 9 hits to rally in their 10 runs, compared to the 2 hits to drive in Police's only 3. Sipult, starting on the mound for Canvas, was relieved in the fourth by Stewart. Together they pitched a two-hit ball game, each allowing one hit. Moore, the losing pitcher for Police, together with Terrell, smashed the only hits for their team.

Leslie Insurance, last night at Farris Field, remained the number one team in the American League as they downed First National with a close score of 4 to 3. Leslie is the only team in the American League that has not been beaten. Shipp went all the way for Leslie as he kept his components to only three runs. Lingle, who also pitched a fine ball game, and allowed only two hits, was the losing pitcher. Ryan and Rofkahr each had those hits for Leslie.

State Highway Travel Rolls to Daily Total of 32 Million Miles

From St. Joseph to Fredericktown -- about 370 miles -- every second, day and night, 'round the clock.

That's a small inkling of the daily travel on Missouri's state highways, according to the 1964 vehicle mile study released today by the State Highway Department's Division of Highway Planning.

Total daily travel in the state added up to 32,367,625 miles -- or the equivalent of 87,480 such trips from the historic Pony Express city in northwest Missouri to the Madison county town in the southeastern Ozarks hill country.

All of this going and coming was tallied last year at 6300 locations all over the state. Counts from each section were projected to give total travel for each highway in the state.

The study showed average travel in the state was up 1,187,251 miles a day over 1963's total of 31,180,374 miles, an increase of 3.6 per cent.

The yearly count adds up to a massive mathematical job. And the figures yield some interesting facts about Missouri highway travel.

For instance, the total daily travel averages to more than 1,000 miles on each of the 32,-000 miles in the state highway system. But in actual use the Primary system, with about 25 per cent of the mileage, carried about 70 per cent of the total travel.

The Supplementary (Farm-to-Market) system, with about 72 per cent of the mileage, carried about 20 per cent of the travel. The remainder was divided among the other systems -- Traffic Relief, 300 Mile Additional and Park Connections.

As might be expected, St. Louis county racked up the highest average daily travel with 5,-049,623 miles. Jackson county was second with 2,089,681 miles. Worth county, up in northwest Missouri, had the lowest total with 35,614 miles a day.

The busiest highway, according to the study, was Interstate Route 70-U.S. Route 40 with 3.8 million miles of travel a day. Next was Interstate Route 44-U.S. Route 66 with 3.4 million miles a day.

Led by St. Louis county with 15.6 per cent of the total daily travel, District 6 (covering east central Missouri), led the other nine Department districts with 26 per cent of the state total.

Other districts and their percentages of the total are:

District 1 (Northwest Missouri --6%; District 2 (North Central Missouri) - 4.7 %; District 3 (Northeast Mo) - 8.3%; District 4 (West Central Mo.) -18.4%; District 5 (Central Mo.) - 8 %; District 7 (Southwest Mo.) - 8.4%; District 8 (South Central Mo.) - 10.8%; District 9 (Southeast Ozarks area) - 3.7%; District 10 (Southeast Bootheel Area) -- 9%.

Husbands Suffer

One of every nine men whose wives are pregnant may suffer from pregnancy symptoms resembling his wife's. This is the startling conclusion of Dr. William Herny Trethowan, Professor of Psychiatry, University of Birmingham, England.

There is ample evidence, according to the British psychiatrist, that many men suffer abdominal pain, loss of appetite, indigestion, colic, nausea, even vomiting without any good physical cause.

Morning sickness, the plague of many pregnant women, may also trouble the father-to-be.

The symptoms usually start at the beginning of the third month, become less troublesome as time goes on, but rise again during the ninth month, reports Dr. Trethowan. They usually disappear completely within a few days after the baby is born, but may recur with subsequent pregnancies.

THAT ACHING TOOTH

A common complaint of fathers - to- be is toothache. Dentists have been known to search in vain for an elusive carie, may use all means known to dental science to discover the cause of the discomfort, but find nothing. Nonetheless the patient continues to complain of toothache. Some even insist that a tooth be extracted.

Dr. Trethowan believes that the toothache may be due to the prospective father's acceptance of the myth that pregnancy causes tooth decay. The physician points out that the old wives' tale, "For every child a tooth," is so widespread that even medical students accept it until specifically taught better.

POSSIBLE CAUSES OF SYMPATHY PAINS

Why do men have sympathy pains? Dr. Trethowan speculates that some men may unconsciously fear that following childbirth their wives' affections may be withdrawn from them and redirected to the child. These men may feel guilty and anxious about having such feelings, says the doctor, and may punish themselves unconsciously with unpleasant symptoms.

Other men identify so intensely with their wives during the period of pregnancy that they experience the same discomforts.

Rest assured, cautions the doctor, no husband ever died of these symptoms. He recalls the obstetricians' joke -- "Don't worry, I've never lost a father yet."

WHAT GOD HATH JOINED

Some dwell within the selfsame house,
Yet live so far apart.
While others dwell a world away,
And yet are joined in heart.

Some whisper loud sweet marriage vows,
But are not wed in spirit;
Some bound by love have voiced no vow,
Except so God could hear it.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

AUTOMATION AND JOBS

If the right attitude toward automation is adopted it will increase rather than diminish the number of workers. Although it causes some temporary unemployment and dislocation, the major effect is to provide more employment, lower priced goods, greater consumption and more prosperity. Conclusive proof of this fact is obvious when it is remembered that we have more automation in this country than any other, and at the same time more men and women are engaged in productive work than ever before in our history. The invention of the typewriter was a big step in automation, but today there are more typists than there were hand - writing clerks before the coming of the machine. Typesetters were displaced by the linotype, but the amount of printing was so greatly increased by the coming of the machine that today there are more linotype operators than there were hand typesetters in the old days. Likewise there are more operators of spinning machines than there were spinners before the automation of the textile industry.

The telephone is probably our greatest example of automation, yet the number of telephone employees steadily increases. It is said that there would not have been enough young women to operate the telephone system on its present scale if automation had not come to that industry on a very large scale.

If automation is used to lower production costs and decrease prices, it results in expanded consumption and in turn creates more jobs. On the other hand, if the remaining workers, after some are displaced by automation, demand and get shorter hours and increased pay, absorbing all the gains resulting from automation so there is no reduction in prices, consumption will not increase and jobs may be permanently lost.

Suppose ten men are working at a job when new machinery makes it possible for five to turn out the same quantity of product. If these five demand shorter hours and increased pay, absorbing all the gain from the new machines, there will be no reduction in the prices of the goods and the quantity sold will not rise. In that case there will be five fewer jobs than before.

Now suppose that the five remaining workers continue to work the same normal number of hours per week at the same scale of wages, permitting a large reduction in the price of the goods. Sales will increase sharply and more men will be needed to meet the demand. The secret of a rising standard of living is lower costs and greater production, enabling everybody to buy more for his dollars. Automation is the great boon, bringing that blessing to all of us. All we need to take advantage of it is unselfishly to share the benefits with the public and the savers who make possible the improved machinery as well as the workers who man the machines. If that be done, automation creates more and better jobs, more, cheaper and better merchandise for the public, lifts the burden of toil from the backs of men, and makes possible a steadily and rapidly advancing standard of living.

NEW LEAD?—A hard look at Chad Everett as a new leading man possibility has considerably brightened Hollywood's jaundiced eye. The handsome Chad was a star on television's The Dakotas and provides a new yardstick of his work in his role opposite Ann-Margret in "Made in Paris."

These men may feel guilty and anxious about having such feelings, says the doctor, and may punish themselves unconsciously with unpleasant symptoms.

Other men identify so intensely with their wives during the period of pregnancy that they experience the same discomforts.

Rest assured, cautions the doctor, no husband ever died of these symptoms. He recalls the obstetricians' joke -- "Don't worry, I've never lost a father yet."

WHAT GOD HATH JOINED

Some dwell within the selfsame house,
Yet live so far apart.
While others dwell a world away,
And yet are joined in heart.

Some whisper loud sweet marriage vows,
But are not wed in spirit;
Some bound by love have voiced no vow,
Except so God could hear it.

IT'S UP TO YOU

AUTOMATION AND JOBS

If the right attitude toward automation is adopted it will increase rather than diminish the number of workers. Although it causes some temporary unemployment and dislocation, the major effect is to provide more employment, lower priced goods, greater consumption and more prosperity. Conclusive proof of this fact is obvious when it is remembered that we have more automation in this country than any other, and at the same time more men and women are engaged in productive work than ever before in our history. The invention of the typewriter was a big step in automation, but today there are more typists than there were hand - writing clerks before the coming of the machine. Typesetters were displaced by the linotype, but the amount of printing was so greatly increased by the coming of the machine that today there are more linotype operators than there were hand typesetters in the old days. Likewise there are more operators of spinning machines than there were spinners before the automation of the textile industry.

The telephone is probably our greatest example of automation, yet the number of telephone employees steadily increases. It is said that there would not have been enough young women to operate the telephone system on its present scale if automation had not come to that industry on a very large scale.

If automation is used to lower production costs and decrease prices, it results in expanded consumption and in turn creates more jobs. On the other hand, if the remaining workers, after some are displaced by automation, demand and get shorter hours and increased pay, absorbing all the gains resulting from automation so there is no reduction in prices, consumption will not increase and jobs may be permanently lost.

Suppose ten men are working at a job when new machinery makes it possible for five to turn out the same quantity of product. If these five demand shorter hours and increased pay, absorbing all the gain from the new machines, there will be no reduction in the prices of the goods and the quantity sold will not rise. In that case there will be five fewer jobs than before.

Now suppose that the five remaining workers continue to work the same normal number of hours per week at the same scale of wages, permitting a large reduction in the price of the goods. Sales will increase sharply and more men will be needed to meet the demand. The secret of a rising standard of living is lower costs and greater production, enabling everybody to buy more for his dollars. Automation is the great boon, bringing that blessing to all of us. All we need to take advantage of it is unselfishly to share the benefits with the public and the savers who make possible the improved machinery as well as the workers who man the machines. If that be done, automation creates more and better jobs, more, cheaper and better merchandise for the public, lifts the burden of toil from the backs of men, and makes possible a steadily and rapidly advancing standard of living.

NEW LEAD?—A hard look at Chad Everett as a new leading man possibility has considerably brightened Hollywood's jaundiced eye. The handsome Chad was a star on television's The Dakotas and provides a new yardstick of his work in his role opposite Ann-Margret in "Made in Paris."

When I Was A Boy

B. F. "Pappy" Blanton

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes. (Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

July 11, 1919

When I was a boy young people showed more respect to old people than young people do now. I have about come to the conclusion that Osler was right when he said that after people passed 60 to 65 they ought to be chloroformed. One thing is patent to close observers and that is there is no company for old people and they are not wanted around anywhere unless it is when a collection is being taken up and then it is what they give that counts. We would raise Dr. Osler a few years and not chloroform a man until he was 70.

When I was a boy I knew a man owner of a fine farm and a lot of slaves who was so intent on laying up money for a rainy day, as he said, that he denied his family most of the pleasures and all of the luxuries of life. His beautiful daughters never got an education but what they got in the common schools of that day, and they were common schools, sure enough. He would not send them to college and when they joined the church he refused to let them be baptized and they had to sneak off to be baptized without his knowledge. Well, he made lots of money and later died a horrible death, and, no doubt, went to join old Dives. A better plan for people, now on earth is to give their families all the pleasures and luxuries that they can pay for while they are together on this mundane sphere, for you will be dead a long time after a while.

When I was a boy children were taught to say "yes, sir" or "no, sir," to a man and say "yes ma'am," to a woman, but nowadays if you ask a boy a question he answers "naw" or "yas" and pays no more attention to you. This may sound a little strange to some but it is true nevertheless. Guess this fast life we are all living has something to do with present conditions.

When I was a boy a man could hunt without a license. The whole country was full of game and men never objected to anyone hunting on their farm. It is different now. We have to have a state game law which some respect and take out a hunting license, but more hunt without the permit and come out as well as those who have a license.

When I was a boy there were two distilleries in a few miles of our place. They made whisky as clear as spring water, and did not color it at all. It was about as cheap as coal oil is now, but there was but little drunkenness among farmers those days, not half as much as there was a few years ago when at every little village and town you could get all the red liquor you wanted.

When I was a boy there lived not far from our house a preacher named Alexander. He was an old time Baptist preacher and was a good man, but he had a wife that was a regular "she devil", so grown up people said. Now, this preacher was as bald as a billiard ball and wore a beautiful wig. His wife got on a rage one Sunday morning when he was fixing to go somewhere to preach and in her rage she snatched off his wig and when out of his signt she buried his beautiful wig in the garden. Next day some of her firends persuaded her to get the wig and this made peace for a short time only. That was the first time I ever heard of being "snatched baldheaded."

When I was a boy I guess I must have been like lots of other boys, a pretty bad one. I went to one teacher who permitted the children to study their lessons out loud. You could hardly hear yourself think for the constant roar of 25 or 30 voices. So one day while this was going on I was singing and occasionally "cussing" at the same time. Suddenly everything became quiet but I did not stop in time and the teacher heard me saying some cuss words I had picked up from little darkies I played with at home. All the school heard me and all laughed at me. I might drop this subject right here but I tell you I received a hard whipping which left marks on my back and made a row between my mother and the teacher. But that broke up my funny business during lesson learning.

When I was a boy I went to school with my two sisters and being very small I played with the girls instead of the boys. This I kept up as long as I went to school. And that is the reason I have always loved girls and do yet. One of my playmates was a girl named Adeline Carson. She was a half blood Indian and was the daughter of the celebrated Indian fighter and scout, Kit Carson, who had sent her to relatives to be educated. She was taken back by him to the West where she later married and died in California. She was an athletic girl and has thrown me down and sat on me many a time.

When I was a boy we raised oodles of tobacco every year, and my brother and myself, with a lot of little Negro boys had to work in the fields of tobacco early and late, This palled on me, especially when we had to worm and sucker the tobacco week in and week out, and it seemed that night would never come. There were about a dozen seed plants the "old man" had saved, and it occurred to me that if these plants were destroyed there would never be any more tobacco, so I broke every one of them down and the little Negroes danced on them, and we were all happy. The little darkies were all whipped for this, but they were game and would not tell that I broke them down. They were like me, they thought and would never have to work in the tobacco again.

Paul C. Jones Reports From Washington

WASHINGTON -- Congressman Paul Jones, Kennett, Mo., Democrat, told the House that he would vote against the reduction in federal excise taxes because it would be financed by increasing the federal government's debt.

His speech: "After listening to all these speeches I think I will find myself in probably the smallest minority with which I have ever been associated. I am not opposed, of course, to reduction of excise taxes, but I do intend to vote against this bill. I probably have a different reason that many Members have, but I feel that before we bring about a reduction in revenue that is going to be financed by going further into debt, as will be evidenced when we pass the bill to increase the debt ceiling, we should first find some way to recover the revenue that is going to be lost.

"Of course, these taxes should have been repealed years ago, after the war was over. But during the years we have become adjusted to having this revenue and it was about as painless a method of extracting it from the public as we could have. Of course, I am not going to try to defend the repeal of the tax on furs and jewelry and other luxuries like those. I do not agree, for instance, that there is going to be any increased sale of new automobiles because of the repeal of this tax. I do not think this tax has had any effect whatsoever on the purchase of new automobiles. But I do know this: I am not an economist but I have observed things that have happened over a long period of years. I am just telling you this right now, and I think you will agree with me, that every time we have had an increase in the national debt we have had increased inflation, and I think we are going to continue to have that.

"Unless we do cut down some of these expenditures and cut down on this national debt we are going to continue to have increased inflation. If we cannot have a balanced budget, and reduce the national debt in prosperous times such as we have had, we can never do it.

"I think the poor people today are going to suffer more from the reduction or elimination of these excise taxes than any other group of people. In the first place, few of them will receive any direct benefits from the reduction or elimination, but they will suffer from the effects of inflation. As soon as this automobile excise tax is reduced and eventually eliminated, what is going to happen? The value of every used car in the country is going to be less than it was the day before. That is the effect it is going to have. In other words, the value of the investment of the man who owns the second-hand car is going to be less.

"I have told this story before to demonstrate what inflation does to the people who are near retirement, the people who have retired. Government workers and others, who have looked forward to retirement. Every Member gets letters from people saying, My social security is not large enough to accomplish the things we were told it would accomplish at the time it was started back in 1936. It does not do it because the inflation since 1936 has wiped out all of those benefits. The effects of inflation keep one step ahead of the constantly rising cost of living.

"I want to say this and say it as clearly as I know how. I do not think you are going to get the stimulation in the economy through the money that will be put back into circulation which will be saved by this reduction of the excise tax. It is not going to work that way. Within the next year or 2 years you are going to have more inflation. I am going to vote against extending the debt ceiling. I have voted against it on several other occasions, always for the same reason, expressing my opposition to increasing the debt during prosperous times when we should be balancing the budget.

"Last year I told the chairman of the committee on ways and means:

If you will put this debt ceiling on the basis of some permanent ceiling to which we can tie, I can support it. Put it as high as you want to, but let us at least be honest with ourselves.

"The temporary ceiling of $285 billion is so unrealistic it is tragic.

"We are not being honest with the people of our Nation today in passing this tax reduction, for this reason: A lot of people are going to interpret this action today to the effect that here we have reduced taxes to the extent of $4.8 billion. They will say, "Boy, are we not well off? We can afford a tax reduction of $4.8 billion." Tax reductions may sound good but there will be a day of reckoning for "chickens do come home to roost."

"We are not well off at all. We are going to be worse off, because this action is going to bring about more inflation. Mr. Chairman, the poorer the man is, the more he is going to pay under this line of reasoning. It has been my observation that welfare rolls increase in direct ratio with the increase in inflation.

ANN LANDERS Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter signed "Frank" and I think your advice was the worst yet.

It is a gentleman's place to protect his wife or his girl. When that drunk called Frank's wife a mopey, bow-legged broad he had every right to belt him one in the kisser. Your suggestion that Frank was a roughneck, and that he and his wife should have left the restaurant, was strictly for the birds.

Why don't you ask your husband what HE would have done if somebody called you a mopey, bow-legged broad? — MORE THAN FRANK

Dear More Than: I asked him. He said he hasn't hit a guy since he was in the 6th grade and he is in no shape to start taking on drunks in restaurants. Any more questions?

Dear Ann Landers: I was very much interested in your warning to the girl who wrote about kissing a boy who had a sore on his lip.

The girl was concerned about lip cancer. You told her (and correctly) that lip cancer was not nearly so deadly as another disease which could be contracted from kissing. Then you demonstrated great courage and named the REAL threat — syphilis.

Small sores on the lip or mouth are often not noticeable. So many teen-agers have skin problems that most eruptions are passed off as "adolescent blossoms." I believe you would perform an invaluable service if you printed more information on this subject.

What does a syphilis sore look like? If a girl discovers, after she has kissed a boy, that he has a sore on his lip, would applying alcohol to her own lips protect her against the disease?

If a person thinks he has a venereal disease and is afraid to tell his parents what should he do? I am a high school senior and must confess shameful ignorance on this subject. My friends don't know any more than I do. Most kids don't want to talk about veneral disease because somebody might get the idea they have dome something wrong and are worried.

Please print my letter and give us kids some facts. — CHICKEN

Dear Chicken: The number of reported cases of VD in this country has tripled in the last 10 years. Almost 60 per cent of the cases are in the 13-to-19-year-old group. If this isn't a serious social problem I don't know what one is.

A syphilis sore resembles a cold sore. It can appear on the lip, in the mouth or anywhere on the surface of the skin. It often itches and it's different from most sores because it is very slow to heal. And THIS is the clue. If you have a sore that is stubborn about disappearing it is a danger signal.

Wiping your lips with alcohol is no protection against syphilis if you have a small crack on your lip. It is likely that the germ has already moved into your blood stream.

Anyone who suspects he has a venereal disease should do either of two things at once:

(1) Go to a physician. I know of no doctor who would tell your parents if you asked him not to. The treatment is simple, painless and relatively inexpensive.

(2) Go to the city or county health department and ask for a VD test. In most cities both the test and treatment are free. The doctors will respect your confidence if you ask them to. Public Health officers are not interested in turning kids in or punishing them. They are interested only in treating and curing patients of this deadly disease, which, if not treated can cause blindness, sterility, insanity and death.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

And that is the reason I have always loved girls and do yet. One of my playmates was a girl named Adeline Carson. She was a half blood Indian and was the daughter of the celebrated Indian fighter and scout, Kit Carson, who had sent her to relatives to be educated. She was taken back by him to the West where she later married and died in California. She was an athletic girl and has thrown me down and sat on me many a time.

When I was a boy we raised oodles of tobacco every year, and my brother and myself, with a lot of little Negro boys had to work in the fields of tobacco early and late, This palled on me, especially when we had to worm and sucker the tobacco week in and week out, and it seemed that night would never come. There were about a dozen seed plants the "old man" had saved, and it occurred to me that if these plants were destroyed there would never be any more tobacco, so I broke every one of them down and the little Negroes danced on them, and we were all happy. The little darkies were all whipped for this, but they were game and would not tell that I broke them down. They were like me, they thought and would never have to work in the tobacco again.

Paul C. Jones Reports From Washington

WASHINGTON -- Congressman Paul Jones, Kennett, Mo., Democrat, told the House that he would vote against the reduction in federal excise taxes because it would be financed by increasing the federal government's debt.

His speech: "After listening to all these speeches I think I will find myself in probably the smallest minority with which I have ever been associated. I am not opposed, of course, to reduction of excise taxes, but I do intend to vote against this bill. I probably have a different reason that many Members have, but I feel that before we bring about a reduction in revenue that is going to be financed by going further into debt, as will be evidenced when we pass the bill to increase the debt ceiling, we should first find some way to recover the revenue that is going to be lost.

"Of course, these taxes should have been repealed years ago, after the war was over. But during the years we have become adjusted to having this revenue and it was about as painless a method of extracting it from the public as we could have. Of course, I am not going to try to defend the repeal of the tax on furs and jewelry and other luxuries like those. I do not agree, for instance, that there is going to be any increased sale of new automobiles because of the repeal of this tax. I do not think this tax has had any effect whatsoever on the purchase of new automobiles. But I do know this: I am not an economist but I have observed things that have happened over a long period of years. I am just telling you this right now, and I think you will agree with me, that every time we have had an increase in the national debt we have had increased inflation, and I think we are going to continue to have that.

"Unless we do cut down some of these expenditures and cut down on this national debt we are going to continue to have increased inflation. If we cannot have a balanced budget, and reduce the national debt in prosperous times such as we have had, we can never do it.

"I think the poor people today are going to suffer more from the reduction or elimination of these excise taxes than any other group of people. In the first place, few of them will receive any direct benefits from the reduction or elimination, but they will suffer from the effects of inflation. As soon as this automobile excise tax is reduced and eventually eliminated, what is going to happen? The value of every used car in the country is going to be less than it was the day before. That is the effect it is going to have. In other words, the value of the investment of the man who owns the second-hand car is going to be less.

"I have told this story before to demonstrate what inflation does to the people who are near retirement, the people who have retired. Government workers and others, who have looked forward to retirement. Every Member gets letters from people saying, My social security is not large enough to accomplish the things we were told it would accomplish at the time it was started back in 1936. It does not do it because the inflation since 1936 has wiped out all of those benefits. The effects of inflation keep one step ahead of the constantly rising cost of living.

"I want to say this and say it as clearly as I know how. I do not think you are going to get the stimulation in the economy through the money that will be put back into circulation which will be saved by this reduction of the excise tax. It is not going to work that way. Within the next year or 2 years you are going to have more inflation. I am going to vote against extending the debt ceiling. I have voted against it on several other occasions, always for the same reason, expressing my opposition to increasing the debt during prosperous times when we should be balancing the budget.

"Last year I told the chairman of the committee on ways and means:

If you will put this debt ceiling on the basis of some permanent ceiling to which we can tie, I can support it. Put it as high as you want to, but let us at least be honest with ourselves.

"The temporary ceiling of $285 billion is so unrealistic it is tragic.

"We are not being honest with the people of our Nation today in passing this tax reduction, for this reason: A lot of people are going to interpret this action today to the effect that here we have reduced taxes to the extent of $4.8 billion. They will say, "Boy, are we not well off? We can afford a tax reduction of $4.8 billion." Tax reductions may sound good but there will be a day of reckoning for "chickens do come home to roost."

"We are not well off at all. We are going to be worse off, because this action is going to bring about more inflation. Mr. Chairman, the poorer the man is, the more he is going to pay under this line of reasoning. It has been my observation that welfare rolls increase in direct ratio with the increase in inflation.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter signed "Frank" and I think your advice was the worst yet.

It is a gentleman's place to protect his wife or his girl. When that drunk called Frank's wife a mopey, bow-legged broad he had every right to belt him one in the kisser. Your suggestion that Frank was a roughneck, and that he and his wife should have left the restaurant, was strictly for the birds.

Why don't you ask your husband what HE would have done if somebody called you a mopey, bow-legged broad? — MORE THAN FRANK

Dear More Than: I asked him. He said he hasn't hit a guy since he was in the 6th grade and he is in no shape to start taking on drunks in restaurants. Any more questions?

Dear Ann Landers: I was very much interested in your warning to the girl who wrote about kissing a boy who had a sore on his lip.

The girl was concerned about lip cancer. You told her (and correctly) that lip cancer was not nearly so deadly as another disease which could be contracted from kissing. Then you demonstrated great courage and named the REAL threat — syphilis.

Small sores on the lip or mouth are often not noticeable. So many teen-agers have skin problems that most eruptions are passed off as "adolescent blossoms." I believe you would perform an invaluable service if you printed more information on this subject.

What does a syphilis sore look like? If a girl discovers, after she has kissed a boy, that he has a sore on his lip, would applying alcohol to her own lips protect her against the disease?

If a person thinks he has a venereal disease and is afraid to tell his parents what should he do? I am a high school senior and must confess shameful ignorance on this subject. My friends don't know any more than I do. Most kids don't want to talk about veneral disease because somebody might get the idea they have dome something wrong and are worried.

Please print my letter and give us kids some facts. — CHICKEN

Dear Chicken: The number of reported cases of VD in this country has tripled in the last 10 years. Almost 60 per cent of the cases are in the 13-to-19-year-old group. If this isn't a serious social problem I don't know what one is.

A syphilis sore resembles a cold sore. It can appear on the lip, in the mouth or anywhere on the surface of the skin. It often itches and it's different from most sores because it is very slow to heal. And THIS is the clue. If you have a sore that is stubborn about disappearing it is a danger signal.

Wiping your lips with alcohol is no protection against syphilis if you have a small crack on your lip. It is likely that the germ has already moved into your blood stream.

Anyone who suspects he has a venereal disease should do either of two things at once:

(1) Go to a physician. I know of no doctor who would tell your parents if you asked him not to. The treatment is simple, painless and relatively inexpensive.

(2) Go to the city or county health department and ask for a VD test. In most cities both the test and treatment are free. The doctors will respect your confidence if you ask them to. Public Health officers are not interested in turning kids in or punishing them. They are interested only in treating and curing patients of this deadly disease, which, if not treated can cause blindness, sterility, insanity and death.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fertility & Sterility

FERTILITY REGULATION

The regulation of human fertility has been one of man's earnest desires through the ages, but until recently his methods ranged from barbarous to unpleasant, from worthless to undependable. The earliest approaches — supersitious rites, mystic potions and infanticide — were the worst. Eventually, women turned to clumsy tampons and uncomfortable vaginal plugs. But when these devices failed, as they so often did, many victims submitted to abortions which frequently killed both mother and child.

The more modern era opened during the 19th Century when the condom and diaphragm were introduced on a wide scale, but they were crude and their failure rate was high. Then, during our own century, came vaginal jellies and foams, which exerted a local spermicidal action, and better condoms and diaphragms. But an inherent drawback, in addition to their failure quotient, inhibited the effectiveness of these innovations. They had to be used at or very near the time of coitus, without margin for error.

Some of this handicap has been overcome by the intrauterine device, a polyethylene or stainless steel coil which is inserted in the uterus by a physician and is designed to remain there as long as desired. The IUD's mode of action is not clear, but its presence is thought to cause uterine contractions which are unfavorable to the successful implantation of the ovum. When the coil remains intact it is effective, but expulsion rates of 15 to 20 per cent are being reported.

ENTER 'THE PILL'

The newest contraceptive with the highest rate of effectiveness is "the pill" — the estrogen-progestin tablet which has now been in use for over ten years. Not so surprisingly when its biochemical action is understood, this birth-control pill is the same one used to support pregnancies when employed under a different regimen. In fact, the pill was born out of research into opposite aspects of fertility. While one investigator tried to induce conception, another sought a reliable and pleasant contraceptive. The former was Dr. John Rock of the Rock Reproductive Clinic in Brookline, Mass., the latter Dr. Gregory Pincus of the Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology in Shrewsbury, Mass.

Since estrogen and progesterone were intimately involved in ovulation and the sequelae of pregnancy, Dr. Rock thought that hormonal supplementation might make childbearing possible among women whose infertility could not be traced to a specific cause. When he administered the hormones to one group for three months, they quickly showed signs of pregnancy although they did not ovulate. Moreover, their breasts and often their uteruses became enlarged. Then, four months after therapy was discontinued, 16 per cent became pregnant.

OPPOSITE EFFECT

Meanwhile, Drs. Pincus and M. C. Chang at Shrewsbury confirmed that progesterone, given at the right time in the menstrual cycle, inhibited ovulation in laboratory animals. At their suggestion, the hormone was synthesized (the synthetic is the progestin). In its final form it was combined with estrogen and became "the pill."

Approved by the U.S. Food & Drug Administration, it has been unremittingly effective as a contraceptive when used as directed.

In all these ways, through an increasingly clearer understanding of the human reproductive system, medical science has ameliorated a twin plague of mankind — the inability to conceive children and the burden of having more than wanted.

Stock Yields Better

NEW YORK AP--The tumble of stock market averages from their May 14 peak has brought many issues to a level that makes their yields much more attractive to long-term investors.

Return on the investment is one reason for buying stocks. Another, and much dearer to most active traders, is the chance of capital gains from rising prices.

On the first score the market looks better today to the long-term investor. He was beginning to worry because at the peak prices the yields looked small. Corporate profits were rising but stock prices outstripped them.

On the second score, the sharp drop in stock prices Tuesday could make some issues look like bargains. But it wiped out a lot of paper profits for those who had bought with hopes that prices would keep climbing. And these disappointed ones are the loudest grumblers at the market's performance in most of the last four weeks.

The yield is what you get, or have a right to expect, in dividends in ratio to the market price you pay for a stock. In most instances dividends depend upon past and prospective earnings of the individual corporations. So would-be buyers watch closely the ratio of stock prices to current earnings as reported or estimated.

And that ratio is now much more attractive to investors than it was at times when exuberance was sending prices soaring.

For an example take the 30 industrial stocks used in the popular Dow-Jones industrial index. A year ago the index stood at 805. Per share earnings of the 30 stocks came to $42.60. The price index thus was 18.9 times earnings.

The index reached its peak of 939.62 May 14. Tuesday's break brought it down to 889.05, a 5.38 per cent drop. But estimated per share earnings of the 30 stocks is now $48.78. So Tuesday the industrial price average is 18.2 times earnings.

The stock market always has two kinds of buyers and sellers. The quiet and least-noticed one is the investor who expects a reasonable yield on the stock he buys or is selling because the yield looks poor. He also hopes that prices may rise or at least not drop. But he prizes his dividend checks.

The second, the one more likely to affect the sharp day-to-day swings of the market, cares only incidentally for the yield or dividends. His eye is on making a killing by buying low and selling high. When he sells it is because he thinks the chances of that have gone glimmering.

The majority of stocks in America are held by the long-term investors. And to them yield is important.

House Acts On Bill To Abolish School Position

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House has finally completed action on a bill that has plagued the legislature for several sessions -- to abolish the office of county school superintendent in counties in which he has few or no duties.

There was little discussion as the House accepted Senate amendments and sent the bill to the governor on a 101-46 vote.

The original bill provided that the office be abolished in all counties in which the office was vacant Jan. 1.

But the Senate changed the date to Jan. 15 to give back to C. E. (Dutch) Wyatt of Poplar Bluff the Butler County superintendent position.

Wyatt had resigned to become state park director. Later he resigned the state job because of poor health and former Gov. John M. Dalton appointed him county superintendent Jan. 4.

If the governor signs the bill it will become effective Oct. 13.

The late Gov. James T. Blair started the practice of refusing to fill vacancies in counties which were fully reorganized, Dalton continued it.

Recently there were 26 such counties.

The bill provides that in any county in which there are three or less districts under the county superintendent's control, the office is abolished.

The situation was dramatized in last year's elections. In several cases candidates ran for the office on the promise of resigning if elected to keep the office vacant. They did, too.

At the Marine Corps Officers' Basic School in Quantico, Virginia, we fledgling lieutenants had to attend lectures after long arduous days in the field. The large classroom held about 200 young officers; and we were often hot, tired, and embarrasingly unprepared. In order to keep us on our toes, the instructor would ask us a question, then call of a name from his seating chart. If there were more than one of us with the same name, the instructor would add our initials.

One evening, the instructor, a captain lecturing on Military Law, asked a particularly difficult question and called off the name Wallace. Lieutenant Wallace rose sleepily and asked, "Do you mean R.J., sir?"

"Yes, that's right," snapped the instructor, sensing he had caught the other unaware.

"He's over there, sir," said Wallace, pointing across the room and sitting down. — David L. O'Neal

TV's Biggest Show Was All-Network

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's biggest show Tuesday was an all-network program that premiered in midmorning and with color added, went into reruns in midafternoon and evening.

The exciting film saga of the man on the golden tether showed last Thursday's dream-like maneuvering in space by astronaut Edward H. White II for 20 minutes as the Gemini capsule, looking like a flying flashlight, shot from Hawaii across the United States.

As observed in color film, White swam into a weightless vacuum about 100 miles above a green world dusted with white clouds with the grace of an acrobat in slow motion. Below him, the earth appeared to zip by like the roll on an old-fashioned player piano.

Although Maj. White's excursion seemed a leisurely exercise in space, the networks engaged in some furious, fancy footwork to get the precious film quickly developed and into the hands of television stations with color broadcast facilities.

NBC's news special Tuesday night carefully shed more light than heat on a delicate question: "Who Can Vote?"

The subject really was people who cannot — and sometimes will not vote. Naturally, much of the program concentrated on efforts of determined Negroes in some Southern states to become enfranchised. It also inspected some other, less publicized minorities.

ABC has acquired television rights to the 1968 winter Olympics to be held in Grenoble, France. The network, which paid $650,000 to televise last year's winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria, disclosed no figures in the new deal. It is, however, rumored to be more than a million dollars.

Senate Debates Boxing Bill

WASHINGTON - Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., introduced today the 1965 version of his bill to place professional boxing under federal policing by a boxing commissioner.

He pictured heavyweight champion Cassius Clay's disputed 60-second knockout of Sonny Liston in their Lewiston, Maine, bout as reason enough to justify the bill's enactment.

A similar bill by Hart and others died last year in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Hart contended enactment of the bill this year represents a last chance for the survival of big-time boxing and to rescue it from the "shadowy interests which appear to dominate boxing."

The bill would:

1. Establish in the Justice Department the office of U.S. Boxing Commissioner with broad powers to investigate and police pro boxing.

2. Require federal licenses for pro boxers, managers, promoters and matchmakers.

3. Authorize the commissioner to require the filing of all contracts, agreements and financial reports by licensees, and to establish and enforce minimum standards for boxing.

4. Provide enforcement weapons including suspension or revocation of licenses, and prosecution in the criminal courts for undercover deals, false reporting and unlicensed participation in interstate boxing.

Criminal penalties would range from up to $1,000 fine and a year in jail for boxers, to $5,000 and five years for managers, promoters and matchmakers caught in violations.

At the Marine Corps Officers' Basic School in Quantico, Virginia, we fledgling lieutenants had to attend lectures after long arduous days in the field. The large classroom held about 200 young officers; and we were often hot, tired, and embarrasingly unprepared. In order to keep us on our toes, the instructor would ask us a question, then call of a name from his seating chart. If there were more than one of us with the same name, the instructor would add our initials.

One evening, the instructor, a captain lecturing on Military Law, asked a particularly difficult question and called off the name Wallace. Lieutenant Wallace rose sleepily and asked, "Do you mean R.J., sir?"

"Yes, that's right," snapped the instructor, sensing he had caught the other unaware.

"He's over there, sir," said Wallace, pointing across the room and sitting down. — David L. O'Neal

TV's Biggest Show Was All-Network

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's biggest show Tuesday was an all-network program that premiered in midmorning and with color added, went into reruns in midafternoon and evening.

The exciting film saga of the man on the golden tether showed last Thursday's dream-like maneuvering in space by astronaut Edward H. White II for 20 minutes as the Gemini capsule, looking like a flying flashlight, shot from Hawaii across the United States.

As observed in color film, White swam into a weightless vacuum about 100 miles above a green world dusted with white clouds with the grace of an acrobat in slow motion. Below him, the earth appeared to zip by like the roll on an old-fashioned player piano.

Although Maj. White's excursion seemed a leisurely exercise in space, the networks engaged in some furious, fancy footwork to get the precious film quickly developed and into the hands of television stations with color broadcast facilities.

NBC's news special Tuesday night carefully shed more light than heat on a delicate question: "Who Can Vote?"

The subject really was people who cannot — and sometimes will not vote. Naturally, much of the program concentrated on efforts of determined Negroes in some Southern states to become enfranchised. It also inspected some other, less publicized minorities.

ABC has acquired television rights to the 1968 winter Olympics to be held in Grenoble, France. The network, which paid $650,000 to televise last year's winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria, disclosed no figures in the new deal. It is, however, rumored to be more than a million dollars.

Senate Debates Boxing Bill

WASHINGTON - Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., introduced today the 1965 version of his bill to place professional boxing under federal policing by a boxing commissioner.

He pictured heavyweight champion Cassius Clay's disputed 60-second knockout of Sonny Liston in their Lewiston, Maine, bout as reason enough to justify the bill's enactment. A similar bill by Hart and others died last year in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Hart contended enactment of the bill this year represents a last chance for the survival of big-time boxing and to rescue it from the "shadowy interests which appear to dominate boxing."

The bill would:

1. Establish in the Justice Department the office of U.S. Boxing Commissioner with broad powers to investigate and police pro boxing.

2. Require federal licenses for pro boxers, managers, promoters and matchmakers.

3. Authorize the commissioner to require the filing of all contracts, agreements and financial reports by licensees, and to establish and enforce minimum standards for boxing.

4. Provide enforcement weapons including suspension or revocation of licenses, and prosecution in the criminal courts for undercover deals, false reporting and unlicensed participation in interstate boxing.

Criminal penalties would range from up to $1,000 fine and a year in jail for boxers, to $5,000 and five years for managers, promoters and matchmakers caught in violations.

Fertility & Sterility

FERTILITY REGULATION

The regulation of human fertility has been one of man's earnest desires through the ages, but until recently his methods ranged from barbarous to unpleasant, from worthless to undependable. The earliest approaches — superstitious rites, mystic potions and infanticide — were the worst. Eventually, women turned to clumsy tampons and uncomfortable vaginal plugs. But when these devices failed, as they so often did, many victims submitted to abortions which frequently killed both mother and child.

The more modern era opened during the 19th Century when the condom and diaphragm were introduced on a wide scale, but they were crude and their failure rate was high. Then, during our own century, came vaginal jellies and foams, which exerted a local spermicidal action, and better condoms and diaphragms. But an inherent drawback, in addition to their failure quotient, inhibited the effectiveness of these innovations. They had to be used at or very near the time of coitus, without margin for error.

Some of this handicap has been overcome by the intra-uterine device, a polyethylene or stainless steel coil which is inserted in the uterus by a physician and is designed to remain there as long as desired. The IUD's mode of action is not clear, but its presence is thought to cause uterine contractions which are unfavorable to the successful implantation of the ovum. When the coil remains intact it is effective, but expulsion rates of 15 to 20 per cent are being reported.

ENTER 'THE PILL'

The newest contraceptive with the highest rate of effectiveness is "the pill" — the estrogen-progestin tablet which has now been in use for over ten years. Not so surprisingly when its biochemical action is understood, this birth-control pill is the same one used to support pregnancies when employed under a different regimen. In fact, the pill was born out of research into opposite aspects of fertility. While one investigator tried to induce conception, another sought a reliable and pleasant contraceptive. The former was Dr. John Rock of the Rock Reproductive Clinic in Brookline, Mass., the latter Dr. Gregory Pincus of the Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology in Shrewsbury, Mass.

Since estrogen and progesterone were intimately involved in ovulation and the sequelae of pregnancy, Dr. Rock thought that hormonal supplementation might make childbearing possible among women whose infertility could not be traced to a specific cause. When he administered the hormones to one group for three months, they quickly showed signs of pregnancy although they did not ovulate. Moreover, their breasts and often their uteruses became enlarged. Then, four months after therapy was discontinued, 16 per cent became pregnant.

OPPOSITE EFFECT

Meanwhile, Drs. Pincus and M. C. Chang at Shrewsbury confirmed that progesterone, given at the right time in the menstrual cycle, inhibited ovulation in laboratory animals. At their suggestion, the hormone was synthesized (the synthetic is the progestin). In its final form it was combined with estrogen and became "the pill."

Approved by the U.S. Food & Drug Administration, it has been unremittingly effective as a contraceptive when used as directed.

In all these ways, through an increasingly clearer understanding of the human reproductive system, medical science has ameliorated a twin plague of mankind — the inability to conceive children and the burden of having more than wanted.

He married Miss Kathleen McSpadden Dec. 25, 1930, who survives. He was an active member of the First Christian Church. Other survivors are one daughter, Miss Nancy Hutson, one brother, Bill Hutson, Bowling Green, Ky.; one sister, Mrs. Marguarite Stites, Dexter.

The body is at the Nunnelee Funeral Home.

Ruben Ellison Died At Home

SIKESTON — Ruben Ellison, 84, died Wednesday morning at his home. He was born in Nallon, Tenn., July 17, 1880. He was a retired farmer and veteran of the Spanish-American War. He was the son of William and Elizabeth Ellison.

His first marriage was to Miss Martha Lindsey in 1904, who died in 1941. In 1943, he was married to Pearlie Laws, who survives.

Survivors include his wife; four daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Bebingfield of Loma, Tenn., Mrs. Dora Watkins of Essex, Mrs. Callie West and Mrs. Reba Ryan, both of Sikeston; three sons, Frank Ellison of Detroit, Mich., Max and Thomas Ellison of Sikeston; 17 grandchildren, 13 great grandchildren, and one great, great grand child.

He was a member of the Missionary Baptist Church of Hartford, Tenn.

The body, until funeral services at 2 p.m. Friday, will be in the Jackson Funeral Chapel. The Rev. William Cockran will officiate. Burial will be in the Taylor cemetery near Essex with military graveside rites.

Hearon Rites Set For Friday

MOREHOUSE - The parents of Mrs. Sallie Ann Hearon, who died Tuesday, were the late Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Sturgis, Ky. One daughter, Bessie Krug, lives in St. Louis and another daughter, Mrs. Mildred Guthrel is a resident of Festus. The Rev. A. C. Sullivan will be in charge of the Friday funeral.

The new Dairy Queen, on East Malone, holds its grand opening today.

Preacher Dies At Morehouse

MOREHOUSE - Rev. Ernest J. Kerr, 67, pastor of the First Pentecostal Church for 19 years, died today at 7:55 a.m. in Missouri Delta Community Hospital, Sikeston, where he had been a patient since Sunday. He has been in ill health for four months.

He was born in Dunklin county, Jan. 28, 1898, son of William and Martha Kerr. He had been in the ministry 40 years. Prior to coming to Morehouse he served churches in Arbyrd and New Madrid.

On Oct. 8, 1924, he was married to Miss Allie Stanfill, who survives. Other survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Helen Gromer, Noblesville, Ind., Mrs. Evelyn Lewis, Parma, and Mrs. Mickie Sue Godair, Malden, and six grandchildren.

The body is at the Watkins and Sons Funeral Home. Services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the First Pentecostal church with the Rev. Robert Burchyett, Cairo, Ill., officiating. Burial will be in the Garden of Memories Cemetery, Sikeston.

Monroe Hodges, Dies At Malden

MALDEN — Monroe E. Hodges, 51-year-old well-known farmer, died Tuesday. He was reported to have suffered a stroke a few days before his death.

The son of William W. and Dixie Lee Browning Hodges, he was born April 30, 1914 at Gracemont, Okla. In 1934 he married Miss Joy Maddox of Anadarke, Okla. He was a member of the Assembly of God Church.

Survivors include his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Geneva Summers of Malden; two sons, Gale and Dorwyn; his mother, Mrs. Dixie Hodges of Risco; three brothers, Paul, of Plainview, Texas, DeLeon of St. Louis and Gaines of Malden; one sister, Mrs. Anita Jacques, March AFB, Calif.; and one grandson, Tony Keith Summers.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 2 p.m. at the Assembly of God Church. Rev. D. B. Shaw will officiate and burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery with Landess Funeral Home in charge.

Fred Wallace, 73, Dies At Malden

MALDEN — Fred Wallace, planter, gin owner and landwoner, died Wednesday at his home at the age of 73 from a heart attack.

Mr. Wallace moved to Missouri from Mississippi in 1934. He held extensive farm holdings in Dunklin and New Madrid counties.

Prior to retirement, he and his sons operated the Wallace Gin Co. near Gideon. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church and a veteran of World War I.

He attended Mississippi State College at Clinton and was graduated from the University of Colorado School of Law.

He was born Dec. 1, 1891 at Scobey, Miss., the son of James Monroe Wallace and Annie McCorkle Wallace. He and his wife, the former Miss Dell Murray, were married March 11, 1920.

Survivors include his wife; three sons, Murray and twins Glen and Kent; eight grandchildren, Fred, Lynn Murray, Locke, Lucie Dell, Ashford, Jamie, Webb and Rebecca; and one sister, Mrs. Winnie Crenshaw of Scobey. He was the brother of the late Dr. W. R. Wallace of Memphis.

Funeral services are scheduled for Friday at 2 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church. Rev. T. K. Prentice, pastor, will officiate, assisted by Rev. Jack Dunn of Shelbyville, Tenn. Burial will be in the Memorial Park Cemetery with Landess Funeral Home in charge.

Youths Struck By Hit, Run Driver

MALDEN — Two Bernie youths, Charles Fyffe, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fyffe, Route 1, Dexter, Donnie Hatchell, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Hatchel, Bernie, were injured in a hit and run accident in Bernie at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The two boys were riding on Fyffe's bicycle in Bernie when struck by a black pickup truck. The driver failed to stop and a minister, who lives nearby, found the injured boys in the street.

Young Fyffe is a patient at a hospital in Poplar Bluff. He has serious face and mouth lacerations and lost several teeth. Hatchell was treated for minor injuries and released.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago
June 10, 1915

Last Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. M. Haas chaperoned a crowd of young people to Little River where they took supper. Their return was delayed several hours by getting a car out of the loamy soil. Those who were there were: Misses Myrtle York, Stella Marshall, Bernice Tanner, Myra Tanner, Mary Matthews, Emma Roush, Kathryn Tanner, Hazel Stubbs, Lill Parsons and Messrs. Moore Greer, Ralph Anderson, R. H. Hitchens, Harry Blanton, Joe Stubbs, Ernest Williams, Randol Wilson and Theodore Slack.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Young, Miss Josephine Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dover, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Young and children had a neighborhood picnic in Malone Park Friday evening. After supper, a "splash" party at the swimming pool was the evening's entertainment.

Music lovers of Sikeston are cordially invited to attend the piano recital of the pupils of Mrs. H. J. Welsh at the Methodist Church Tuesday evening. The following persons will appear on the program: Rose Nell Stephens, Katherine Adair and Sam Bowman, Jr., Lillian Rita Derris, Billie Malone, Virginia Mount, Audrey Reiss, Maxine Finley, Burdeen Schroff, Ruth Inez Felker, Lillian Reiss and Lucille Finley, Nell Yanson, Conley Purcell, Kendall Sikes, Tylene Kendall, Thelma Lennox, Evelyn Smith, Margaret Whidden, Mary Allison Purcell, and Ruth, Mary and Frances Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Young went to Poplar Bluff Monday night to attend the funeral of Mrs. Young's grandmother, Mrs. Tom Penney, which will be held in Poplar Bluff Tuesday.

Franklin Moore and his sister, Miss Henrietta Moore, who recently graduated, with honors, from Fairmont College in Washington, D. C., returned here Tuesday afternoon after a short tour of eastern cities. Mr. Moore went to Washington to attend the commencement exercises.

New offices for the Sikeston Natural Gas Co., will be established soon in a room on East Malone Avenue between Sellards market and the Jones grocery. G. W. Tiley, manager of the company, expects to move to the new quarters on about June 20 or 25, after the room has been redecorated.

Eight persons have already entered a citywide tennis tournament, which will be held here this summer, according to Jack Lancaster, who issued entry blanks at the H. & L. drug store. They are: Merlin Taylor, Bill Donnell, Ewart S. Taylor, Bill Van Horne, Kemper Bruton, Kenneth Hocker, Z. W. Killgore, and Mrs. Melvin Dace.

You can't frighten Miss Audrey Chaney. While she was sitting in her office on the third floor of the courthouse in Benton Monday morning, lightning cut a clean round hole through the ceiling of her room. Miss Chaney didn't even notice the hole until a friend she was talking with showed it to her. Lightning first struck the flagpole on top of the courthouse. Then it passed down the pole and glanced off onto an iron brace. The lightning's journey ended in the ceiling of Miss Chaney's office.

EMPTY NESTS AND EMPTY LIVES

Roxbury, Mass. (WMNS)-- Many middle-aged women suffer mental breakdowns when faced with the fact that their childbearing years are ended, and that the "nests" over which they presided for much of their lives are going to remain empty as their children leave home to establish lives of their own.

Why do some women in this situation recover their stability more readily than others? According to a physician and three social workers who studied such women at the Massachusetts Mental Health Center in Roxbury, these are some of the factors which lead to a more rapid recovery:

Education. Women who had graduated from high school seemed able to come to grips with their problem more quickly than women with only a grade school education.

Postponed Pregnancy. Those who waited a year or more after marriage to become pregnant did better than women who started having children immediately after marriage.

Outside Interest. Women who had many friends and interests outside the family and who had a satisfying work experience returned to normal more quickly.

Later Marriage. Women who delayed getting married until they were in their twenties recovered more rapidly than women married in their teens.

DEPRESSION EASED BY ORAL CONTRACEPTIVES

Chapel Hill, N. C. (WMNS)-- A team of University of North Carolina Medical School psychiatrists and an obstetrician reported recently that a group of women suffering from premenstrual tension and from mild depression following childbirth, or associated with menopause, improved strikingly when treated with oral contraceptive pills. The physicians observed that in these conditions the hormonal balance of the body changes rapidly, and that perhaps these changes influence psychological stability. They suggest that "the pill" may deserve "further careful evaluation" by psychiatrists in the treatment of depression.

TURTLE FANCIERS TAKE NOTE

Minneapolis, Minn. (WMNS)-- Two Minnesota Department of Health researchers reported recently that turtles, heretofore considered almost perfect household pets (they're cheap, don't bite, are noiseless, require little care), can be the source of a serious intestional disease, salmonellosis.

They urge everyone with pet turtles to wash their hands after handling the creatures or their bowls, or the pebbles often kept in them. No one, including other household pets, should eat or drink from the turtle's bowl. They also caution that the water in which the turtle lives should never be emptied in the kitchen sink where it might contaminate food.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago
June 10, 1915

Last Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. M. Haas chaperoned a crowd of young people to Little River where they took supper. Their return was delayed several hours by getting a car out of the loamy soil. Those who were there were: Misses Myrtle York, Stella Marshall, Bernice Tanner, Myra Tanner, Mary Matthews, Emma Roush, Kathryn Tanner, Hazel Stubbs, Lill Parsons and Messrs. Moore Greer, Ralph Anderson, R. H. Hitchens, Harry Blanton, Joe Stubbs, Ernest Williams, Randol Wilson and Theodore Slack.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Young, Miss Josephine Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dover, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Young and children had a neighborhood picnic in Malone Park Friday evening. After supper, a "splash" party at the swimming pool was the evening's entertainment.

Music lovers of Sikeston are cordially invited to attend the piano recital of the pupils of Mrs. H. J. Welsh at the Methodist Church Tuesday evening. The following persons will appear on the program: Rose Nell Stephens, Katherine Adair and Sam Bowman, Jr., Lillian Rita Derris, Billie Malone, Virginia Mount, Audrey Reiss, Maxine Finley, Burdeen Schroff, Ruth Inez Felker, Lillian Reiss and Lucille Finley, Nell Yanson, Conley Purcell, Kendall Sikes, Tylene Kendall, Thelma Lennox, Evelyn Smith, Margaret Whidden, Mary Allison Purcell, and Ruth, Mary and Frances Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Young went to Poplar Bluff Monday night to attend the funeral of Mrs. Young's grandmother, Mrs. Tom Penney, which will be held in Poplar Bluff Tuesday.

New offices for the Sikeston Natural Gas Co., will be established soon in a room on East Malone Avenue between Sellards market and the Jones grocery. G. W. Tiley, manager of the company, expects to move to the new quarters on about June 20 or 25, after the room has been redecorated.

Eight persons have already entered a citywide tennis tournament, which will be held here this summer, according to Jack Lancaster, who issued entry blanks at the H. & L. drug store. They are: Merlin Taylor, Bill Donnell, Ewart S. Taylor, Bill Van Horne, Kemper Bruton, Kenneth Hocker, Z. W. Killgore, and Mrs. Melvin Dace.

You can't frighten Miss Audrey Chaney. While she was sitting in her office on the third floor of the courthouse in Benton Monday morning, lightning cut a clean round hole through the ceiling of her room. Miss Chaney didn't even notice the hole until a friend she was talking with showed it to her. Lightning first struck the flagpole on top of the courthouse. Then it passed down the pole and glanced off onto an iron brace. The lightning's journey ended in the ceiling of Miss Chaney's office.

MEMPHIS, TENN. (FHTNC) - May 26 -- Chief Aviation Machinist's Mate Lewis F. Hux, USNR, son of Dr. and Mrs. O.M. Hux of Essex, Mo., and husband of the former Miss Carmen M. Rocha of Oakland, Calif., is presently serving two-weeks active duty for training with Naval Air Reserve Transport Squadron 792 at Naval Air Station, Minneapolis- St. Paul, Minn.

The Memphis-based "Weekend Warrior" squadron is scheduled to make three trips to Hawaii to give pilots and aircrewmen training in overwater navigation.

His squadron will fly the Navy's C54-Q four-engine transport aircraft.

Personnel from Tennessee, Missouri, Indiana, Illinois, Mississippi and Alabama will participate in the training event.

SANTA ANA, CALIF. (FHTNC) May 18 -- Marine First Lieutenant Gerald W. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest O. Johnson of Vanduser, Mo., and husband of the former Miss Bonita G. Hulehan of Sikeston, has reported for duty with the Third Marine Aircraft Wing at the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, Santa Ana, Calif.

Helicopters, transports and jets of the Wing provide air support for the infantrymen of the First Marine Division, based at nearby Camp Pendleton, Calif.

A graduate of Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau, Lt. Johnson entered the service in October 1962.

Women's Health

EMPTY NESTS AND EMPTY LIVES

Roxbury, Mass. (WMNS)--Many middle-aged women suffer mental breakdowns when faced with the fact that their childbearing years are ended, and that the "nests" over which they presided for much of their lives are going to remain empty as their children leave home to establish lives of their own.

Why do some women in this situation recover their stability more readily than others? According to a physician and three social workers who studied such women at the Massachusetts Mental Health Center in Roxbury, these are some of the factors which lead to a more rapid recovery:

Education. Women who had graduated from high school seemed able to come to grips with their problem more quickly than women with only a grade school education.

Postponed Pregnancy. Those who waited a year or more after marriage to become pregnant did better than women who started having children immediately after marriage.

Outside Interest. Women who had many friends and interests outside the family and who had a satisfying work experience returned to normal more quickly.

Later Marriage. Women who delayed getting married until they were in their twenties recovered more rapidly than women married in their teens.

DEPRESSION EASED BY ORAL CONTRACEPTIVES

Chapel Hill, N. C. (WMNS)--A team of University of North Carolina Medical School psychiatrists and an obstetrician reported recently that a group of women suffering from premenstrual tension and from mild depression following childbirth, or associated with menopause, improved strikingly when treated with oral contraceptive pills. The physicians observed that in these conditions the hormonal balance of the body changes rapidly, and that perhaps these changes influence psychological stability. They suggest that "the pill" may deserve "further careful evaluation" by psychiatrists in the treatment of depression.

TURTLE FANCIERS TAKE NOTE

Minneapolis, Minn. (WMNS)--Two Minnesota Department of Health researchers reported recently that turtles, heretofore considered almost perfect household pets (they're cheap, don't bite, are noiseless, require little care), can be the source of a serious intestional disease, salmonellosis.

They urge everyone with pet turtles to wash their hands after handling the creatures or their bowls, or the pebbles often kept in them. No one, including other household pets, should eat or drink from the turtle's bowl. They also caution that the water in which the turtle lives should never be emptied in the kitchen sink where it might contaminate food.

Case No. 1972

NOTICE OF ENFORCEMENT OF LIEN

TO RALPH CROCKER, DECEASED, AND HIS SUCCESSORS IN INTEREST:

Please take notice that on May 15, 1965, Statement of Lien was filed in the Magistrate Court of Scott County, Missouri in which it was alleged that:

1. Plaintiff is a resident of Sikeston, Scott County, Missouri, and is in the business of storing and maintaining aircraft vehicles.

2. On or about August 1, 1963, one wrecked 1956 model Cessna 170 aircraft, serial number 3161A, was placed in storage at plaintiff's premises, and has been so stored since said date.

3. A reasonable charge for such storage is one Dollar ($1.00) per day.

4. Plaintiff states that by virtue of Sections 430.020 and 430.160 R.S. 1959), he has a lien on said aircraft, and is entitled to enforcement of same as by law provided.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays the Court to enter its order that said lien be so enforced.

That on June 1, 1965, the Court entered its order finding that said decedent-defendant was not a resident of this County and entered its order directing that the herein notice be published.

Please be further notified that on Tuesday, June 22, 1965, plaintiff will, in the Magistrate Court of Scott County, Missouri, at Sikeston, Missouri, seek judgment herein and request the Court to order the aforesaid property sold to satisfy the aforesaid lien.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2 inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6 inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Missouri Avenue to Broadway in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvements shall consist of furnishing all costs, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of June, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

Moon Race May Yield Rich Rewards

HOUSTON, Tex. -- The United States and the Soviet Union are locked in a tight race to reach the moon first. The winner's rewards will be great: National prestige, scientific knowledge. perhaps military domination of space.

The flights this week of Gemini 4 and the Soviet Luna 6 are dramatic evidence that both nations are very much in the race.

Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II advanced the United States a long way on the lunar highway with their four-day flight during which White took a 20-minute walk in space. Manned flights in the Gemini and Apollo programs now are scheduled at two-month intervals in a drive toward a manned lunar landing, which could come as early as 1968.

It is suspected that Luna 6 will attempt the first soft-landing of an instrumented capsule on the moon if it reaches there as scheduled Friday. Success of such a maneuver would provide vital data on the strength of the moon's surface -- information needed before men set foot there.

The United States plans to attempt a soft-landing with an unmanned Surveyor craft in October.

Why go to the moon?

This question has been debated in scientific and government circles since President John F. Kennedy committed the United States to the race in 1961.

Most scientists favor sending men to the moon. But from the start the Apollo lunar landing project has had its critics. former President Dwight D. Eisenhower called it a "stunt race." Several respected scientists believe the money and brainpower could be better spent to improve the lot of man through medical research, anti-poverty programs and the like.

Some contend automatic space craft could do the job better than man.

The one aspect that seems to bother the American public is the estimated $20-billion price-tag.

"That's a lot of money," says James Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "But as big as that $20 billion looks, we are spending only one per cent of our Gross National Product on space -- so we can afford it.

"It is not being spent on the moon as some people like to infer. It is being spent right here in the United States. In fact, 90 per cent of it goes directly to private, free - enterprise companies, many of them mall local businesses.

"And I cannot for the life of me think of any other kind of endeavor that could benefit our nation in so many ways at once," Webb said. "It advances knowledge and stimulates our education. It creates new jobs and skills. It perfects our technology. It strengthens our national security and it adds to our total national wealth in many ways."

Concerning the prestige factor, President Johnson has said: "Surely the country which combines the ability, the resources and the courage to go to the moon will sit high at international negotiating tables. If such a country is one which protects freedom, a strong blow is made for a world of peace instead of a world of subjugation."

Dr. Homer Newell, NASA associate administrator for space science and applications, is one of many scientists who believe the moon may hold the key to the origin of our solar system, generally believed to have been created about 4.5 billion years ago.

The moon program also will contribute to the defense and security of the country. The powerful rockets, control and guidance systems, rendezvous techniques, life protective measures and manned flight experience all are applicable to a military man - in - space capability. The result could be a series of orbiting police patrols to maintain the peace.

Keep your ear to the ground, your feet on the right path and your shoulder to the wheel and you'll end up at the chiropracter's.

IN THE MAGISTRATE COURT OF SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI
LEE RUEBUSH, d/b/a SIKESTON AVIATION SERVICE, Plaintiff vs.
RALPH CROCKER, Defendant
Case No. 1972
NOTICE OF ENFORCEMENT OF LIEN

TO RALPH CROCKER, DECEASED, AND HIS SUCCESSORS IN INTEREST:

Please take notice that on May 15, 1965, Statement of Lien was filed in the Magistrate Court of Scott County, Missouri in which it was alleged that:

1. Plaintiff is a resident of Sikeston, Scott County, Missouri, and is in the business of storing and maintaining aircraft vehicles.

2. On or about August 1, 1963, one wrecked 1956 model Cessna 170 aircraft, serial number 3161A, was placed in storage at plaintiff's premises, and has been so stored since said date.

3. A reasonable charge for such storage is one Dollar ($1.00) per day.

4. Plaintiff states that by virtue of Sections 430.020 and 430.160 R.S.. 1959), he has a lien on said aircraft, and is entitled to enforce. of same as by law provided.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays the Court to enter its order that said lien be so enforced.

That on June 1, 1965, the Court entered its order finding that said decedent-defendant was not a resident of this County and entered its order directing that the herein notice be published.

Please be further notified that on Tuesday, June 22, 1965, plaintiff will, in the Magistrate Court of Scott County, Missouri, at Sikeston, Missouri, seek judgment herein and request the Court to order the aforesaid property sold to satisfy the aforesaid lien.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2 inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6 inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Missouri Avenue to Broadway in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvements shall consist of furnishing all costs, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of June, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

Moon Race May Yield Rich Rewards

HOUSTON, Tex. -- The United States and the Soviet Union are locked in a tight race to reach the moon first. The winner's rewards will be great; National prestige, scientific knowledge. perhaps military domination of space.

The flights this week of Gemini 4 and the Soviet Luna 6 are dramatic evidence that both nations are very much in the race.

Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II advanced the United States a long way on the lunar highway with their four-day flight during which White took a 20-minute walk in space. Manned flights in the Gemini and Apollo programs now are scheduled at two-month intervals in a drive toward a manned lunar landing, which could come as early as 1968.

It is suspected that Luna 6 will attempt the first soft-landing of an instrumented capsule on the moon if it reaches there as scheduled Friday. Success of such a maneuver would provide vital data on the strength of the moon's surface -- information needed before men set foot there.

The United States plans to attempt a soft-landing with an unmanned Surveyor craft in October.

Why go to the moon?

This question has been debated in scientific and government circles since President John F. Kennedy committed the United States to the race in 1961.

Most scientists favor sending men to the moon. But from the start the Apollo lunar landing project has had its critics. former President Dwight D. Eisenhower called it a "stunt race." Several respected scientists believe the money and brainpower could be better spent to improve the lot of man through medical research, anti-poverty programs and the like.

Some contend automatic space craft could do the job better than man.

The one aspect that seems to bother the American public is the estimated $20-billion price-tag.

"That's a lot of money," says James Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "But as big as that $20 billion looks, we are spending only one per cent of our Gross National Product on space -- so we can afford it.

"It is not being spent on the moon as some people like to infer. It is being spent right here in the United States. In fact, 90 per cent of it goes directly to private, free - enterprise companies, many of them mall local businesses.

"And I cannot for the life of me think of any other kind of endeavor that could benefit our nation in so many ways at once," Webb said. "It advances knowledge and stimulates our education. It creates new jobs and skills. It perfects our technology. It strengthens our national security and it adds to our total national wealth in many ways."

Concerning the prestige factor, President Johnson has said:

"Surely the country which combines the ability, the resources and the courage to go to the moon will sit high at international negotiating tables. If such a country is one which protects freedom, a strong blow is made for a world of peace instead of a world of subjugation."

Dr. Homer Newell, NASA associate administrator for space science and applications, is one of many scientists who believe the moon may hold the key to the origin of our solar system, generally believed to have been created about 4.5 billion years ago.

The moon program also will contribute to the defense and security of the country. The powerful rockets, control and guidance systems, rendezvous techniques, life protective measures and manned flight experience all are applicable to a military man - in - space capability. The result could be a series of orbiting police patrols to maintain the peace.

Keep your ear to the ground, your feet on the right path and your shoulder to the wheel and you'll end up at the chiropracter's.

Lightest Mexico

By JOHN ABNEY

Acapulco -- Like they say, anything can happen in Mexico and it usually does which is a point illustrated by a television series called Tongaloa they are filming around the jungles here.

Mr. Wendell Olsen, who appears as a gentleman named Hardy in the series, gave your besieged correspondent an interview with all the reliable lowdown.

Tongaloa is an island owned by a major power (that's what the script says and they refuse to identify the country) and it is a gorgeous place with wild animals and good and bad men.

Mr. Olsen was pushing for the part of a chimpanzee but the Chimp Union objected because he suffers from Schwartz' Syndrome (aversion to ping pong balls). So a real chimp named Kemo got the role and Mr. Olsen wound up being Hardy.

It is Hardy's TV job to face wild animals, wicked natives and help keep things under control (also to steal scenes when he can from the chimp -- as if I didn't know Olsen) on this island.

The TV people select a coconut grove and everyone in the neighborhood gathers to watch them set up lights, cameras and action. Then elephants rumble about the real estate while partiers roar and a native uprising takes place.

All this is powerful stuff to the Acapulco folks, who have never seen anything wilder than burros nor more dangerous than dollar bills.

Bad natives fling spears at good natives and the animals attack and at the proper moment, Mr. Hardy six-pistols his way in to restore law and order.

After the day's action, the animals go back to their quarters and the dead and wounded congregate in Acapulco's pubs for a short beer and instructions on who dies tomorrow.

Anyhow, one day the director was sitting there studying the coconuts and all of a sudden he exclaimed, "Men, we need a lion. Every island like Tongaloa should have a good lion."

So the troops put out a call and it just happened that a fellow named Lalo something-or-other in Mexico City was listening.

Some years back, a friend of Lalo's arrived with a cute lion cub and said how about keeping him for awhile. Then the friend forgot about it and one day Lalo looked out in his garden and noticed the lion was about this high and weighed around 500 pounds..

When Tongaloa called for a lion, Lalo hustled an anchor chain around his ward's neck, hooked the other end to the frame of a horse trailer, enticed the lion aboard and set sail.

A few hours down the highway Lalo noticed a freshly deceased cow beside the road and stopped. His policy with the lion was to keep him stuffed with meat so he wouldn't develop an interest in people.

And Lalo figured why not save a few pesos so he honed his butcher knife and began removing a leg from the late cow.

Right in the midst of this operation, he looked up and saw some peasant gentlemen approaching. From all sides. They had the notion that Lalo had stabbed their cow to carve himself some steaks so naturally they were furious.

They rushed at him waving machetes and Lalo, with quick inspiration, unlatched the trailer door and out leaped this huge lion with a very terrifying roar.

Mr. Olsen says that suddenly there were about 30 machetes hanging in midair and not a soul in sight. And Lalo finally had to feed the whole cow to the lion before he could boost him back in the trailer and sail on to Tongaloa.

POSTLADY — Neither rain nor snow may deter Mrs. Judith Gresho from swift completion of her appointed rounds, but she does take an occasional time out to touch up her make-up. Mrs. Gresho, 22 and the mother of two, is one of the very few women mail carriers in Cleveland, Ohio. She is versatile as well as attractive. Among her qualifications is the ability to drive a one-ton truck.

Handy Booklet Available On Plumbing

If you have any doubts about the importance of your home's plumbing system, just try to think of something used more often.

Convinced? Most folks are, and consequently, most folks want to learn as much as they can about keeping the plumbing system in good condition. It's important that a family know what maintenance it can and should do, and what tasks should be left only to the qualified plumbing contractor.

To guide homeowners in this vital matter, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau offers a booklet entitled "Plumbing Care & Repair," which gives step-by-step advice on maintenance and minor repairs for drains and fittings, all plumbing fixtures, shower equipment, water heaters, leaks, frozen and noisy piping, and many other subjects.

The booklet also gives instructions on how to adjust a water closet to prevent continous running, and what to do if the tank fills too much or not enough. Practical advice is given in the booklet on many other subjects, from caring for a water heater to draining the plumbing in a vacant house.

To obtain "Plumbing Care and Repair," send 15 cents, your name and address to the Plumb-Bureau, 35, East Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60601.

Today is Thursday, June 10, the 161st day of 1965. There are 204 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, Mussolini's Italy declared war against France and Britain —and President Franklin Roosevelt condemned the action with the famous words: "The hand that held the dagger has stuck it into the back of its neighbor."

On this date

In 1610, the first Dutch soldiers reached Manhattan Island.

In 1939, King George and Queen Elizabeth were guests of honor at the New York World's Fair.

In 1942, the German Gestapo wiped out the village of Lidice, in Czechoslovakia.

In 1943, President Roosevelt signed the pay-as-you-go-tax bill.

In 1945, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower received the highest Soviet award, the Order of Victory.

Ten years ago— Lt. Gen. Isaac Davis was named commander of the U.S. 8th Army in the Far East.

Five years ago— A Trans-Australian airliner crashed off Queensland, killing all 29 aboard.

One year ago — The Senate voted cloture on the civil rights bill, ending a 75-day filibuster.

This spring, car trouble marooned my friend Vince and me, for five boring days, in an isolated Canadian village. On the third day, to kill time, we attended a local revival meeting. The preacher was strictly the hell-fire and brimstone type, as he poured out his wrath on a local house of ill repute where drunkenness, gambling, and whoring were rampant. On and on went the tale of debauchery with the preacher sparing none of the lurid details.

Overwhelmed by the tirade, I nudged Vince and whispered, "Lord! Imagine a joint like that in this burg!" No answer. Vince gazed raptly up at the preacher. Fearing I was losing my boon companion to a backwood spell binder, I elbowed Vince again, hard. "C'mon," I said. "Let's get out of here."

Vince turned to me, frowning. "Wait a minute," he said. "Maybe this nut will spit out the address." — Norman L. Caine

A patient I had referred to a psychiatrist insisted on sitting on a chair near a window during his sessions with the doctor. He always opened a new pack of cigarettes, took out several, and scattered the tobacco out the window. The psychiatrist finally asked him why he did this.

"Oh, it scares away elephants," he replied.

The doctor smiled and said, "I don't see any elephants. Do you?"

"No, I don't," answered the patient, looking out the window. "Very effective, isn't it, doctor?" — Dr. L. Binder

1. The City Bond Issue

Growth Makes Water-Sewer Project Necessary

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles prepared by the board of public works to explain its plan to improve the city's water and sewage system. Voters will be asked to approve the proposal in a bond election.

In order to meet the needs and demands of a prosperous and progressive community, the city council and board of public works of Sikeston have proposed that $1,200,000 worth of improvements be made in the municipally - owned water and sewage works. The proposal will have to be approved by the voters.

Community growth is the most important reason behind the proposed improvements. Population figures show that the city has achieved rapid and steady growth in the past decades, and there is every reason to believe that Sikeston's population will continue to increase in the future.

But community growth creates many problems, especially in the case of community services. A water or sewage system designed for little more than 11,000 people (Sikeston's 1950 population) will obviously have difficulty in effectively serving from 15,000 to 16,000 people (the present population estimate for Sikeston).

The strain placed on the water system by an increased number of consumers, also reduces the system's fire control effectiveness. The Sikeston fire chief maintains that the present system is still adequate for controlling fires, except in some outlying areas, but he admits that it could easily cease to be adequate in the near future.

Water and sewer problems also affect the ability of Sikeston to attract new industry, which has a bearing on the local employment situation. A plentiful water supply is one of the major criteria for industry when it seeks a new location.

The plan now being proposed by the board of public works calls for strengthening and reinforcing the water supply, storage, and distribution systems; extending sewer and water lines into areas which are considered likely of early development; increasing and improving the capacities of the municipal water and sewage treatment plants.

It should be pointed out that the proposal is not concerned with storm sewers, but only with the city's waste disposal system.

According to the board of public works, the plan will eliminate or solve the city's pressing water and sewage problems for the next 15 years. It will give the individual consumer better service; it will afford adequate fire protection to all of Sikeston's industrial, commercial, and residential areas; and it will increase the ability of Sikeston to attract new industry.

A number of other advantages are related to the proposal. The city insurance committee reports that the improvements are especially needed to help keep Sikeston's fire insurance rates from going up.

The plan would also bring relief to the housewives who have complained of discoloration of the city's water. Funds have been allotted for the control and elimination of such discoloration.

The whole proposal, if approved, would be financed by a bond issue — revenue bonds amounting to $600,000 for improvements in the water system, and general obligation bonds amounting to $600,000 for improvements in the sewer system.

Earnings of the municipal water plant would be used to pay off the revenue bonds. If this necessitated an increase in the cost of water to the consumer, such an increase would not exceed five per cent of the present rate. For an average monthly water bill of $3.58, the rate increase, if necessary, would come to 18 cents a month more, or a yearly increase of $2.16.

Taxes would have to be used to pay off the general obligation bonds. Thus, the proposal would mean an increase of 29 cents in the current tax rate on $100 assessed valuation. For an average $10,000 home (assessed at 23 per cent actual value), this 29 cents would cost the Sikeston taxpayer about $7 more per year.

For an average family, then, the total cost of the bond issue would be about $10 per year, until the bonds are paid off. In return, the citizens of Sikeston would assure that the city will continue to grow and progress in the years ahead.

Flyers Join Families

HOUSTON, Tex. - Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II -- still recalling some grim expectations -- raced to the arms of their families today to answer a thousand questions about some of the wonders they met:

A blue-green-and-white earth in fantastic beauty, a glaring sun, a gentle moon, and a strange walk in this strange company.

"I have known a lot of people and a lot of big times, but the biggest day of my life was June 7 (the day of splashdown.)," Command pilot McDivitt told the officers of the aircraft carrier USS Wasp.

"When we came down we didn't know what kind of shape we would be in -- the doctors had told us a lot of horror stories about what to expect. When we got down on the water safely, I don't think there were two more pleased people than Ed and I."

McDivitt didn't amplify what "horror stories" meant.

Just one week ago, the astronauts blasted off from Cape Kennedy for their four - day space journey. Today, the aircraft carrier Wasp, their home for the past three days, delivered them to Mayport, Fla., for their first steps on U.S. soil, and solid earth, since June 3.

McDivitt and White moved through the ranks of sailors and Marines and they debarked to the tunes of "Around the World in 80 Days" and "Happy Birthday" -- the last for McDivitt's 36th birthday celebration.

They walked off the ship down a red-carpeted gangplank toward the crowd of some 2,000 spectators.

Within half an hour, the astronauts were winging their way to Houston and their waiting families.

Health Grant Given Delmo

LILBOURN -Confirmation was received Wednesday from the U.S. Public Health Service of a migrant health grant to Delmo Housing Corporation of $9,245, for family health education services in the five-county area, with a tentative approval of $11-880 each for the second and third years of the project.

The project will provide a health educator, who has done graduate work in health education, to work in the Bootheel.

His function will be to spread knowledge of the area's medical resources among the thousands of home based migrants, numbering about 4,000. These families will spend from three to 10 months in northern and southern states during the vegetable and fruit harvesting seasons, and return to the home areas when the harvests have been completed.

Tire Stolen From Car

Mrs. John Felker, 708 Taylor, reported to police yesterday that a wheel and spare tire valued at $38 had been stolen from her car during the past two weeks at her home.

The car was unused during that time.

One Emergency

Only one person was treated in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday. Debra J. Hampton dropped a glass bottle on her right knee.

One City Arrest

Police arrested Charles Heavener, Marston, for speeding during the past 24 hours.

100 Brownies Cook And Play At Day Camp

The Oakwood Brownie Day Camp is in operation for four days of games and cooking at Clayton Park, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

In the camp are 100 Brownies and 17 leaders, with Mrs. John L. Doggett as camp director, and Mrs. Paul Fisher as camp nurse.

Each day is spent in working on Brownie Scout points. Each day opens with a Flag ceremony and closes with group singing. Each day a different noon meal is prepared by the Brownies, assisted by their leaders.

The leaders present during the week are Mrs. Ned Tanner, Mrs. Max Heeb, Mrs. Calvin Owens, Mrs. Nellie Gaines, Mrs. Wilford Scherer, Mrs. L. J. Jackson, Miss Pat Wood, Mrs. Arthur Ziegenhorn and Mrs. Kenneth Bailey, and Miss Ilena Aslin, Girl Scout Executive.

Today they will go to the Lyle Bird farm, ten miles south of Sikeston, for a campfire program.

New Plant To Employ 10

Ray Whitworth, president of Vance-Whitworth Co., spoke to the Kiwanis club Tuesday night.

Whitworth said that the company would start the factory operation with ten employes in a month or two. The ten will be trained in assembling input machines. As demand increases, more employes will be added. He said that the company hoped to have at least 75 working by the end of the first year of operations.

The Sikeston plant will be an assembly line operation. Parts for the machine will be made elsewhere.

To explain how the imput machines will be used, he said that the company will maintain at its St. Louis plant a master computer machine to which will be fed the information desired by the owners of input machines.

The Missouri Delta Community Hospital and the board of public works have the input machines and their payrolls and billings will be figured out by the computer in St. Louis and payroll statements will be typed on local input machines within 24 hours and will then be ready for mailing.

Whitworth explained that computers are too expensive for small businesses but they can afford input machines and the use of the master computer can be brought within their reach and at a savings.

Telephone hook - up service will be used for transmission of information from input machines to computer and return.

Paul Cannon and Harold Hill will attend the golden anniversary convention of Kiwanis International in New York City, July 4-8. The theme of the convention will be built around the 50th anniversary of the founding of Kiwanis in 1915.

Patman Asks Martin Quit

WASHINGTON - Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, urged William M. Martin Jr. today to resign as Federal Reserve chairman and let President Johnson replace him with an appointee of his own choosing.

Patman said in a speech prepared for House delivery that Martin has challenged the President on economic policy, caused a stock market drop by a speech comparing present conditions with those of 1929 and is advocating what Patman called disastrous monetary and credit policies.

The Banking Committee chairman, a long - time adversary of Martin, rejected the comparison between 1965 and the eve of the 1929 crash which he said Martin made in a recent Columbia University speech.

But Patman said there is one parallel: "The fact that for the past six months the Federal Reserve has been carrying on a 'squeeze it' policy. That is, they have tightened, tightened, tightened credit. That is what happened prior to the Hoover depression.

"Mr. Martin's Fed has caused every single depression and recession in our time, and always by tightening credit and increasing interest rates, and cutting down on the money supply.

In the Columbia speech June 1, Martin said there are "disquieting similarities" between the present prosperity and the boom that preceded the depression of the 1930s.

Dodd Rakes LBJ Critics

WASHINGTON - Sen. Thomas J. Dodd assailed today "teach-in" critics of President Johnson's policies as defeatists and appeasers who encourage the Communists to prolong the Viet Nam war.

Dodd, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in a prepared Senate speech that the outcome of the Southeast Asia struggle may be determined on the domestic front.

The Connecticut Democrat said that while polls indicate an overwhelming majority of Americans support the administration's policies of pressing the war against the Viet Cong, a "noisy minority" is clamoring for U.S. withdrawal.

"They probably number somewhat less than 10 per cent of the total population," he said. "But this minority of defeatists and appeasers, by dint of their incessant clamor, their seemingly boundless energy, their hundreds of newspaper advertisements, and the apparently limitless funds which fanaticism always generates, have had an impact that is out of all proportion to their actual members.

"I am convinced that President Johnson had weighed and measured every word when he said that we intend to live up to our commitment in Viet Nam, no matter what the cost, and that there is no power on earth that can force us to withdraw."

Dodd spoke out after the White House had made it clear Wednesday that U.S. troops would go into action to aid the South Vietnamese forces only if the latter request help and are in trouble.

Even this limited commitment to combat provoked a round of Senate discussion about the growing U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., told his colleagues he believes

Viet Cong Engulf Camp

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, - Vietnamese troops battled tonight to drive off 1,500 Viet Cong who overran the district capital of Don Xoai and engulfed a nearby U.S. camp, killing 14 Americans and wounding at least 13.

In Washington, the State Department said it had a later casualty count of 7 Americans dead and 13 wounded.

A U.S. military spokesman said the losses at Dong Xoai, 60 miles north of Saigon, were the heaviest suffered by the United States in a single engagement of the Vietnamese war.

A U.S. Navy fighter - bomber plunged into a ridge and the pilot was apparently killed as U.S. Air Force and Navy planes pounded a wide range of targets in North Viet Nam.

The number of Americans killed in combat since December 1961 rose to 420.

Bliss Pledged GOP Support

COLUMBUS, Ohio -- Key Republican leaders, with Barry Goldwater of Arizona absent, have pledged full support to their new party chairman in the hope he can unify them for another lunge at the White House in 1968.

Goldwater, the 1964 GOP presidential nominee, was not mentioned publicly Wednesday night as leading Republicans, guided by their best vote-getter of all time, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, urged the party to unite behind National Chairman Ray C. Bliss.

A party spokesman here said Goldwater was not invited to Wednesday night's series of dinners saluting Bliss in his home state.

Party spokesman said more than 10,000 attended the $100-a-plate-dinners, raising $1 million for the party.

Charter Granted To New PEO Chapter

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. K. R. Ahmann of St. Charles was elected president of the P. E. O. Sisterhood at its 72nd Missouri state chapter convention ended Wednesday.

The organization owns and supports Cottey College for Women at Nevada, Mo., and raises funds to send girls through college.

Other officials elected were Mrs. R. J. Martin, Columbia, vice president; Mrs. Ted Lloyd, Jefferson City, organizer; Miss Gene Wild, Sarcoxie, recording secretary; Mrs. R. K. Farrar, Braymer, treasurer, Mrs. H. K. Newman, Cape Girardeau, corresponding secretary.

Charters were granted to new chapters at Marshall, Florissant and Sikeston. Warrensburg will host the 1966 meeting.

More than 500 members attended the two day convention.

Ulcer Surgery For Sheriff

Sheriff John Dennis went to the operating room today at 10 a.m. for the removal of an ulcer at Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Computer Matches Couple, Who Praise Machine Job

EAST LANSING, Mich. - Three months ago a computer matched Michigan State University seniors Paul Nelson and Sandra Titus for a campus dance. Now they are married and they agree with the computer that they were meant for each other.

Nelson and his wife concede the machine missed a point or two when it paired them for the dance last fall, but they give it an average of .987 since their marriage last March 20.

"What we found out happened was that there were far more similarities than had been catalogued by the computer," said Nelson, 25, a business major.

"We both squeeze the toothpaste from the end and roll up the empty part and put the cap on."

Mrs. Nelson, 23, a retailing major whose family lives in Lansing, said this came as a relief because she had always wondered how it would be to be married to a man who squeezed the toothpaste in the middle and dropped the cap on the floor.

But they have found they are incompatible, so to speak, in the fields of housing and interior decorating.

She likes Danish modern furniture in a ranch house. He likes massive, Gothic pieces in the kind of big, old house in which he grew up in.

This poses no immediate problem. Right now they are living in an MSU married students' unit.

Before their marriage, they visited Nelson's home in Buffalo, N.Y., where people were amazed that neither uses mayonnaise on Waldorf salad.

They'd already found, too, each had a fondness for well-done steak and spinach.

The computer had pair similarities between them in religion, background, travel, hobbies and politics, noting that each was a "quite vocal" conservative.

"Computer matching is a kind of elimination process," Nelson said. "Instead of having to meet and date many people, discovering compatibilities, the machine does it for you.

Mental Test For Thompson

BENTON--Circuit Judge Marshall Craig this morning granted a motion for a mental examination for Tommie Lee Thompson, accused of murder in the slaying of Mrs. W. R. Lewis in Sikeston Feb. 1.

The motion was made by Thompson's defense attorney. The date for the examination has not been set but, according to the defense attorney, it should be soon.

Recover Body Of Own Son

CHICAGO - Volunteer firemen were called to a home in suburban Chicago Ridge Wednesday after receiving a report that a boy's body had been seen in a private swimming pool.

Donald Andrasco, 35, a captain in the volunteer force, recovered the body in 8 feet of water in the deep end of a 16-by-40-foot pool in the backyard of Alfred Homerding. Andrasco collapsed when he realized the body was his son, Scott Andrasco, 6.

Leave For Boys State Saturday

Ten boys from Sikeston and two from nearby cities will leave Saturday at 6 a.m. from the Rustic Rock by bus for Dexter. They will join others there for a week at Boys State in Warrensburg.

The ten will be Richard Montgomery, Phil Barkett, Larry Barger, Kenneth Henry, Fred Lumsden, Tommy Pallus, Gary Williams, Mike Critchlow, all of Sikeston; Gordon Waller, Malden; and James Lee Hewitt, Morehouse.

Monroe, Wis., Youths Work At Delmo Project

LILBOURN — The Delmo Housing Corporation is a busy place during the summer. High school juniors and seniors from church youth organizations all over the nation, descend on headquarters at South Lilbourn to repair houses.

The first group of 12 students arrived from Monroe, Wis., Monday, to spend a week. They donated their time to repair and repaint buildings at two of the 10 housing locations in the Lilbourn region.

The 10 locations are in five counties, at north and south Lilbourn, and Morehouse in New Madrid county; north and south Wardell and Gobler in Pemiscot; Wyatt in Mississippi; Gray Ridge in Stoddard, and Kennett in Dunklin.

The work of the 12 consisted of painting of buildings, replacing windows, screens and doors, working on roofs, interior and repair work. The 12 are Mary Nussbaum, Joan Laeser, Mary Schuetz, Roberta Benkert, Ann Bauman, Kris Brugger, Sandra Smith, Susan Rifener, Hans Bernet, Richard Polkrabek, David Deininger and Ralph Kubly.

The two advisors are the Rev. Donald G. Storck and Mrs. Donald Tschanz. The 12 are from St. Johns United Church of Christ youth organization.

After a day's work they take part in a recreation program. For a special treat Wednesday they went to Reelfoot Lake, near Tiptonville, Tenn., for a meal.

Early in July more boys and girls will arive and be assigned to the 10 housing projects, repairing and building additions to the homes of older persons, who are unable to pay to have it done.

GOLDBERG'S WORDS ECHO

In the midst of the hue and cry over the issue of right-to-work laws, it becomes apparent that the crux of the matter is compulsory union membership. The advocates of repeal of Section 14 (b) of the 1947 Taft-Hartley Act want no worker to escape the forced membership in a union which acts as their bargaining agent. The trade unions bloc wants this easy road to more members, more dues revenue, and more political control.

In that context attention is called to a statement made by Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg in 1962, when he was secretary of labor. Before that Mr. Goldberg had been one of the nation's leading labor union attorneys.

Speaking to the American Federation of Government Employes, Arthur Goldberg said:

"We all want to preserve the merit system for entry and retention in the Federal service. I had my share of winning the union shops for example for unions in private industries, but I know that you will agree with me that the union shop and the closed shop are inappropriate to the Federal Government. And because of this, there is a larger responsibility for enlightenment on the part of the Government union. In your own organization you have to win acceptance by your own conduct, your own action, your own wisdom, your own responsibility and your own achievements. And let me say to you from my experience representing the trade union movement that this is not a handicap necessarily. Very often even the union that has won the union shop will frankly admit that people who come in through that route do not always participate in the same knowing way as people who come in through the method of education and voluntarism."

"Responsibility" is a key word in that statement. Right-to-work laws give a worker a choice of whether to align himself with a union. They stimulate the union to serve him well and sell him on the benefits he may gain by membership. Without such laws -- without Section 14 (b) which makes right-to-work statutes legal in states which choose to enact them -- the choice is gone. The worker is a prisoner of the will of union agents.

As Justice Goldberg pointed out this is good for neither the worker or the union itself. He made, in 1962, one of the best arguments yet heard for retaining 14 (b) on the Federal law books.

Commercial Appeal

* * *

A favorite hobby of the liberals is to attack the House un-American Activities Committee.

Communists would like to get rid of the committee, which has been a thorn in their side for years.

This committee cannot be discredited in the same manner as McCarthyism. There is a difference. The late Senator McCarthy made reckless, irresponsible charges and accusations and never furnished any proof.

For years the House committee has exposed Communist dominated organizations, including labor unions, and it has disclosed the names of known Communists. It has dealt in facts. It has furnished proof. It has been responsible and it has served the country well through the years.

The committee deserves the full support of the public in the difficult task of unmasking subversives operating in our midst.

A Chicago hearing conducted by the committee brought out hordes of the familiar unwashed, long haired, bearded creators of bedlam and disorder, who tried their best to discredit this important arm of the federal government. The demonstrators were noisy distractors, who sought maximum attention by lying in the street in the path of police cars.

The country witnessed their unruly behavior on television. The dignified conduct of the committee provided a strong and welcome contrast. Its position was strengthened rather than weakened in the process. The demonstrations backfired as they often do.

Undoubtedly in the assortment of kooks, who paraded, shouted, kicked, shoved and picketed in Chicago, there were Communists. Seventy two landed in jail. It is a pity that they can't be kept there longer.

While the House committee hasn't produced a sensation in recent times, there hasn't been a shred of evidence that it hasn't acted with proper regard for fact and fairness. There has been no evidence presented that any individual has been treated unjustly by it.

Even if the group has not disclosed recently any treason in high places, it has performed a service in ripping the cover off of Communists functioning in our national life.

It has neglected subversion from the right but is correcting that by an investigation of the Ku Klux Klan.

A committee which conducts itself responsibly can perform a valuable service by uncovering both the nation's enemies and the conditions that otherwise would not be exposed to the public view.

The country should never tolerate the abolishment of the committee which should be encouraged to do more and be given the funds to do the job right.

NO SUMMER SLUMP

How can you beat the summer slump in your business?

More and better advertising in your newspaper, that's how.

While a business may have a summer slump, there's never a slump in the circulation of a newspaper. People buy their newspaper the year 'round -- and they read it 12 months a year, too.

To prevent that old summer slump we should take advantage of the fact, too, that people are more generally relaxed and read their newspapers more carefully in the good old summer time.

One thing about newspaper advertising -- advertise the things that people want . . when they want to buy them . . at the price they want to pay.

If you advertise in the newspaper you can expect business.

Writing in the Cincinnati Journal of Medicine on government regulation in the drug industry, C. Ten major U.S. pharmaceutical firms have reported curtailment of research and development operations, and even those which report increased expenditures in these fields claim that they have had to cut back on the number of substances being investigated because of added costs and paper work. We believe it is necessary, at long last, to challenge the steady erosion of our freedom by a regulatory agency; in effect, to attempt to halt the steady descent of the pendulum."

WHICH OF THESE THREE ARRANGEMENTS DO YOU FAVOR FOR WORKERS IN INDUSTRY?

The importance of this overwhelming support for the Right to Work principle, at a time when powerful political forces under Big Unionism't control are being mobilized to repeal Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, was spotlighted by Reed Larson, Executive Vice President of the National Right to Work Committee.

"Congress will not repeal 14 (b) if the wishes of the American people can be brought to bear on its membership, in the House and Senate," he said. But mobilizing this grass-roots political power is a big job. Millions of Right to Work supporters must become activists and get their friends and neighbors busy contacting their Congressman and Senators (before they return to Washington) and writing them letters after they return."

But, too frequently, realism has given way to false sentiment where teen-agers are involved. Under the pretext of rehabilitation, far too many young thugs have been released prematurely to continue preying upon society. Pampering, overprotection, fawning indulgence -- these set a pattern of weakness which breeds contempt for the law and for those charged with the administration of justice."

DA NANG, South Viet Nam - It was a tense moment for all.

Artillery boomed in the distance. Warplanes roared off on missions perilous to many.

At the edge of the great air base here, just outside the main security checkpoint, hundreds of men stood in sweating anxiety outside a large white-painted building.

In the dense throng were airmen just back from bombing and strafing North Viet Nam. There were dust - caked Marines, worn by days of patrol on mountaintop and across rice paddies.

There also were clerks and bakers and mechanics and demolition men and beret - capped Army officers who had journeyed in from lonely outposts for "the big operation."

A murmur ran through heat-weary men:

"What the hell is holding this thing up?"

Inside the big building, Marine Lt. George F. Hoffman of Johnstown, Pa., was just as tense. He knew the beleaguring force couldn't be held at bay much longer.

He gave a final inspection to his 60 Vietnamese and American assistants. He looked at his watch. It was 11 o'clock-zero hour.

"All right, let'em in," said Hoffman.

The doors swung open and the great breakthrough was underway.

The long-awaited opening of the Navy Post Exchange at Da Nang had taken place. Troops grabbed up shopping baskets and rushed pell-mell from counter to counter, buying everything they saw.

It was like the opening of a huge supermarket back home only bigger. It was payday for most of the men, and they were as eager to spend their money.

The 70 cases of beer in stock were gone in five minutes. Some 2,000 cases of soda and soft drinks went quickly, too.

Lucky first comers staggered out of the $100,000 warehouse burdened with cameras, watches, tape recorders, deodorants, film packs, clothing and $28.15 portable refrigerators and small electric fans.

Scores of Marines and airmen, unable to enter the packed building, left after long waiting.

When the doors finally closed, some 7,000 men had spent $31,000.

"Soon we'll have a million - dollar - a- month operation here," said Lt. Hoffman, who also will open five field post exchanges in the five northern provinces that make up the 1st Corps area in South Viet Nam.

Like any good businessman, the lieutenant believes in expanding in prosperous times. The indications are that Uncle Sam's nephews in uniform will be spending more rather than less money here in the future.

PROTECTION FOR CONSUMERS

Basic consideration in a bill such as Quality Stabilization, now before Congress, must be: Is it good for the country and its consumers? We have to choose between two policies.

On one side is the great majority of the nearly two million independent retail businesses, along with a very sizeable bloc of Congressmen, particularly those who have had personal experience in retail stores, who believe the bill is good for the consumers.

On the other hand is a comparative handful of giant retailers associated in a group called the National Association of Mass Merchandisers, which for some time passed as the National Association of Consumer Organizations. These people have few roots in the communities they serve.

Allied with them are some theoretical people who never met a payroll or personally tested an economic theory, but who believe they know how business and competition should work. They are supported by some editors who read too quickly.

Because consumers have seen for themselves that competition helps them, the opponents have chosen to fight by trying to label Quality Stabilization the opposite of competition: price fixing. It is no more price fixing than the setting of prices on house or private brands by many of America's reliable chains. But some economists and editors are unwilling to admit that a house brand which can be bought at the same price in every store selling it is sheltered from price competition.

Quality Stabilization would not prohibit any of these stores, or even the discounters, from obtaining and selling goods at whatever prices they can obtain. What it would do is prevent unethical merchants from using quality brands as "bait" or "switch" merchandise to entice customers into their stores to sell them high-profit goods of questionable value.

Surely Quality Stabilization is in the interest of consumers, because it protects the household budget from inferior products.

COLOR FOR SAFETY'S SAKE

If tests being conducted around the country prove out, our streets and highways may one day be many-splendored things of different colors--at least at interchanges and where there is abrupt merging of lanes or a special traffic situation.

"Color-co-ordinated" roads, if they come, will not be for aesthetic reasons but for safety and to augment the signals, signs and warning devices that are now used.

Red pavement, for instance, would alert a driver to an approaching stop or dangerous intersection. Yellow would mean a safety zone and blue a school zone. On freeways, green would indicate a through lane and orange a deceleration lane or exit.

This color code is only tentative at present and waits upon more proof that it contributes to safety and that colored paving materials stand up to heavy wear.

Safety experts report that the evidence in so far is in favor of color.

H. L. Hunt Says

POLITICS AND THE PRINTED WORD

All communications media and stars of the entertainment field should be on the side of and helpful to patriots. Among the freedoms that patriots are trying to save comes first and foremost the freedom of the press. Included in the liberties they promote is freedom from censorship.

Everything that patriots are for and are trying to save are highly prized and needed by those in the newsgathering, communications and entertainment fields.

Some super - patriots and others so regarded may appear to have their faults because of extreme diligence. But communications should forgive them as fast as possible. The very worst they do is not likely to be as inconvenient to the publicity vendors as the mildest form of dictatorship to which statism inevitably leads.

Without vigorous campaigning, elections and re - elections, there would be far less for newspapers to print and radio and TV to talk about, and a good source for mimicry and spoofing would be lost to clever entertainers.

Magazines which can charge $40,000-plus per page for advertising space would look longingly for advertisers in an economy which said of the few products available, "Take this or else."

It would be best if those who are doing so well in the profit motive system could understand that they would lose the "profit motive" should communism or even statism be permitted to take over. Businessmen could fare as well and longer if they would take time out to wonder if liberty is endangered in the present trend.

Critics of the profit motive system and personal enterprise should yield to some happy medium for, whatever their weaknesses, these philosophies may have been partly responsible for making the USA the greatest of all nations. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — When the President gets going on the subject of jobs for young people, he becomes so enthusiastic that every corporation executive who listens wants to go out and hire more youngsters.

Last week LBJ met with ten corporation executives who had agreed to hire one jobless youngster this summer for every 100 other people on their payroll. The President handed them citations and then started to read a prepared speech. It was a good speech, and told how, despite the drop in unemployment, two million young Americans will be without jobs this summer unless the Administration's program is successful.

But the President got really steamed up and finally threw away his speech. He told how he had received a letter from John Knight, publisher of the Knight Newspapers, which printed pages of want ads in order to push the employment of youngsters. Then the President said:

"It's not going to be long before some of you are going to be up at St. Peter's gate rapping on it and asking for admission. And he is not going to ask you if you tithed ten per cent or if you went to church every Sunday. He is not going to be content that you followed the Ten Commandments.

"St. Peter's going to ask you what you did as a benefactor of this great system of government to help others who want to help themselves.

"And I'll tell you one thing you can tell St. Peter," continued the President, looking at J. Hillman Zahn, the Vice President of Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. which has promised to hire a big quota of teenagers. "You can tell him that in the year of our Lord 1965 in the month of June you met at the White House with the President and told him you were going to bring the leadership essential to get these young people off the streets and behind the bench to train them to do something so they could work for themselves.

"I don't have any special dispensation to speak for St. Peter," the President concluded, "but my own judgment is that that report from you to him will make a very favorable impression."

—HISTORIC VOTE SHOWDOWN—

The general public hasn't followed it, but a historic showdown is approaching over the question of unseating the Mississippi congressmen elected last November.

This is the first time in history that a consistent, carefully documented case has been presented in any state to show that the Constitution was violated by denying the vote to a large segment of the population. Page after page of sworn testimony has been collected in Mississippi showing that Negroes were systematically and skillfully refused the right to register and vote.

The House of Representatives will be the final judge of unseating its own members and hitherto the House has usually voted as one big "club" to protect its club members.

This time, however, Civil Rights workers are calling on individual congressmen to ask how they plan to vote. The other day three congressmen from Maryland, a state with a heavy Negro population, received calls from Florence Howe, assistant English professor at Goucher College, Dee Ann Pappas, instructor at Goucher, Dean Pappas, teacher of physics at Park School, Sue Munaker, a member of the Baltimore Committee for the Freedom Democratic Party, plus several others.

They found Rep. Sam Friedel of Baltimore very courteous. He listened attentively, refused to indicate how he would vote, but promised to consider the matter carefully.

—NO TIME FOR RESEARCH—

Two other Maryland congressmen, George Fallon and Clarence D. Long, were brusk and rude.

Fallon, who represents the city of Baltimore with a heavy concentration of Negro voters, was curt, short-tempered, condescending.

"I don't know anything about this Mississippi challenge business," he said. "All I know is what they're talking about on the floor."

Asked if he could do some research into the matter, Fallon replied, "I don't know what you mean by research."

"Well, you know — reading," explained one of his callers.

"That's extracurricular activity which I have no time for," replied the congressman who has had plenty of time to listen to the big truckers, the private utilities, and who favored billboards along the nation's new highways.

When Dean Pappas asked him a question about the rules of the House, Fallon replied, "Don't talk so loud or I'll have you removed from the hall."

With that, the congressman from Baltimore stalked off.

Rep. Long, a former economics professor at Johns Hopkins, represents a wealthy suburban district north of Baltimore.

"It's completely impractical; you're just wasting your time," he snapped, when a delegation of Baltimorians and Mississippians called on him.

"I'm irritated by the entire question," he continued, "I wish you'd go away and worry about something that means something. Don't waste my time."

Congressman Long, despite his professorial background, was not even interested in reading the sworn affidavits and depositions secured in Mississippi showing a wide-spread, effective system of barring Negro voting.

NASA Probing Strikes Which Hit Cape Kennedy - Moonport Complex Before Space Gemini Shot

Washington, D.C.: -- Early on August 9 Gemini 5 will blast off for a space rendezvous with destiny -- the coupling of two satellites in black nothingness- if there are no intra-mural strikes, union feuds, or other major stoppages at the Cape and Merritt Island Moonport.

If the past is prelude, there will be serious walkouts by thousands of construction workers at a time.

This deeply agitates the National Aeronautics and Space Administration executives. So much so that NASA has assigned one of its chief administrators to survey the missile and space installations and learn what can be done to instill a sense of urgency in the men whose work is vital to the hurling of capsules into space.

Thus far the strikes have not delayed the last minute shooting timetables. But the stoppages have tightened nerves and schedules of thousands of men involved -- not to mention the astronauts who go hurtling.

What disturbs the NASA brain trust is the grim fact that the "lost time rate" at Cape Kennedy, because of strikes, is ten times that lost at all the other missile and space bases combined!

In the crucial 15 months ending on March 31 -- the deadline months preceding the McDivitt-White feat -- there were 93 work stoppages at all missile and space sites in the country. Of these 93 walkouts, 56 hit Cape Kennedy (and the Moonport there).

During this stretch of 15 months, 65,144 man-days were lost in the series of stoppages at the Cape.

At all missile bases and space centers there was a total of 13 major stoppages. Of these crippling strikes, ten hit the Cape Kennedy-Moonport area. This meant that the vital core of the Gemini shots and final Apollo moon-landing project effort was hit by three times as many major walkouts as all the other bases combined.

Of these 10 major instances of tool-laydowns, six strikes affected some $200 million worth of construction and other pendent work. There were many instances when thousands of skilled craftsmen stayed off the [illegible] two unions were disputing the jurisdiction over a handful of jobs -- sometimes as few as four or five.

A good deal of the time the strikes developed when union strung up picket lines to protest the subcontracting of work to one or two non-union employers. Thus the space project was used as a lever against the firms which had no union contract or hiring hall pact.

Once a plumbers local moved a picket line 50 miles and halted work at the vast Cape complex, in order to get at an employer with whom the union was feuding.

Only in 6.7 per cent of the stoppages were collective bargaining disputes involved -- that is, bargaining over wages, hours and working conditions. The rest of the stoppages were simply the result of feuds between one force or another. Oft times unions themselves duelled in the Florida sun.

Behind the scenes some labor officials began hammering away at NASA itself. The agency has been charged with being inexperienced in labor relations, biased against unions, and with attempting to swing non-union firms into the multi-billion dollar operations.

Fact is that with the military "stage" being phased out, NASA finds itself dealing more and more with small sub - contractors. Because the contracts are getting smaller, more non-union firms are able to obtain them.

NASA attempts to get union contractors whenever it can. But frequently the chain of subcontracting is so long, NASA loses control of the orders for equipment which it must have as quickly as possible.

NASA understands labor's eagerness to have union men on the job. But NASA wants it understood it has to get astronauts on the moon before midnight, December 31, 1969.

So it has assigned William B. Rieke, deputy associate administrator for industry affairs, who works closely with Dr. George E. Mueller, associate administrator for manned space flight, to probe and to suggest what can be done to rid Cape Kennedy of costly strikes.

. . . And to instill the same sense of urgency among the men on earth as exists among those whose minds are on the

GOLF NOTES

Twenty-five golfers enjoyed a day of golf and lunch at the Sikeston Country Club on Tuesday.

Winners were as follows: Flight C, Mrs. Dwight Crader; Flight B, Mrs. Charles Welch; Flight A, Mrs. Duree Medley and Championship Flight, Mrs. J. F. Cox.

Plans were discussed for attending the Southeast Missouri Tournament in Poplar Bluff the latter part of this month.

All B and C flight players are urged to play more often so that they will have a minimum of twenty-five eighteen hole scores for a true handicap. This is in preparation for the club handicap tournament in July.

Birdwatching golfers are noticing that the logger head shrikes are back again.

If you are not familiar with this bird, watch for it with its white, black and gray colors flitting about.

Twilight couples golf will be on Friday evening.

Willing Workers Class Meets

MOREHOUSE - The Willing Workers Class met Thursday night, June 3 at the Morehouse First General Baptist Church for their monthly meeting and social.

Mrs. Marvalene Reynolds gave the Devotional; the topic was "In Partnership With God." The scripture reading was from Galatians 4:6-7. She conducted a Bible Quiz with all the class participating. A brief business meeting was conducted by Carl Launius, vice president. Dismissal prayer was offered by Jimmy Lutes and the meeting adjourned and all went to the kitchen for refreshments. The ladies served in honor of Father's Day, sandwiches, potato chips, cakes and sodas. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Launius, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sloan, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Charlene Agee. Games were played and led by Mrs. Ethel Sloan and Mrs. Virgie Wilson.

MEAT COOKERY Quiz

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Lamb arm or round bone chop.

Q. Where does it come from? How is it identified?
A. It comes from the shoulder and can be identified by the small arm bone and cross-section of three or more rib bones.

Q. How are they prepared?
A. They may be broiled, pan broiled or braised. For broiling, set the oven regulator for broiling. Place the chops on a rack, in the broiler pan. Insert both pan and rack so the top of 1-inch chops is 2 inches from the heat and 2-inch chops 3 inches from heat. When one side is browned, season, turn and broil the second side. Season. The approximate total cooking time is 12 minutes for 1-inch chops, 18 minutes for 1½-inch chops and 22 minutes for 2-inch chops.

For panbroiling, brown the chops slowly in a heavy frying-pan pouring off fat as it accumulates. Turn occasionally until chops are done.

For braising, brown the chops in a heavy utensil, pour off drippings. Season. Add a small amount of liquid, cover tightly, and cook slowly, 45 to 60 minutes.

Art is valuable and enriching only so far as it is not born in artifice. — Pablo Picasso.

A few years ago I taught in an Indian residential school in Western Canada. It was in the heart of the Rocky Mountain area, where the children learn to ride horseback almost as early as our American children become acquainted with a tricycle.

In the 6th grade Social Studies class I tried to explain to the children that today in most large cities one hardly ever sees a horse. I referred to the fact that when I was a child the milkman used to deliver the milk from house to house, using a horse and wagon.

"And what does the milkman use today"? I prompted.

"Why cows, of course," came the reply. — Sister F. D.

Rare Recommendation. A Pittsburgh executive received this letter from a friend and former business associate:

"Would you be kind enough to keep an eye open for a job that might be suitable for our young David this summer? I know that such jobs are hard to find nowadays, but that's all right, for so is David most of the time.

"Dave is 16½, but dumb for his age. He is very strong, with a powerful right arm which comes from combing his hair in front of a mirror for hours at a time. He is a very persuasive talker, having convinced his mother that the 'U' marks all over his report card stand for 'Unexcelled.'

DOOR STOP

Picture the scene at the Neighborhood Church in Oakland, Calif., during Sunday-evening services. The sermon was under way, and back at the door was Glenn Jackson, who had been busy, ever since the congregation began to arrive, trying to keep a small but friendly dog from getting inside.

Halfway through the service the door opened, and a man and woman started to tiptoe in. Jackson spotted the little dog, right between the woman's legs, trying to sneak through the door again. He reached out a foot and gave a halfhearted kick at the dog — but missed and caught the woman square on the shin.

She doubled up in pain and began rubbing her leg. Then, before Jackson could apologize, she looked up and said, "I'm sorry we're late. We're from out of town." — Bill Fiset

White And Boyer Hit Homers Cards Down Reds 6 to 4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis ended a two-game losing streak Wednesday night as the Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds 6-4 with the help of consecutive home runs by Bill White and Ken Boyer.

The victory brought St. Louis back to the .500 mark at 26-26 for the season.

Mel Stottlemyre pitched a six-hitter and Joe Pepitone and Tom Tresh hit two-run homers as the New York Yankees beat the A's 5-1 at Kansas City.

White ignited a five-run fourth inning for the Cardinals at St. Louis when he homered with two men on. Boyer followed White to the plate and hit his home run.

Curt Simmons gained his fourth victory of the season for the Cardinals against six losses. Tracy Stallard gave him some help after Simmons allowed two runs in the eighth.

Ray Sadecki 2-5 will start for St. Louis today as the Cardinals take on the Reds again at Busch stadium. Jim Maloney 5-2 will be on the mound for Cincinnati.

Kansas City scored its only run in the ninth inning when Nelson Mathews doubled and came home on a single by Mike Hershberger.

The Atheltics are idle today.

Yank Players Fined $250.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The New York Yankees, who last year gave up on harmonicas, have taken up whistling.

And the price still is the same — $250 fines.

The Yankees, mired in eighth place and apparently whistling in the dark in the American League pennant race, announced Wednesday that three players had been fined $250 each for breaking training.

The Yankees refused to divulge the names of the players and the nature of the incidents that brought about the fines. But reporters traveling with the club said the fines were levied for, among other things, whistling at waitresses in a restaurant.

The same newsmen also reported that two of the fined players were $100,000-a-year outfielder Mickey Mantle and relief pitcher Hal Reniff.

The fines were announced at a hastily called press conference by General Manager Ralph Houk, who flew to Kansas City after the baseball draft ended in New York.

"A few people broke training," Houk said. "Three players were fined $250 apiece. A few others were talked to."

Houk said he would not divulge the names of the players involved but was announcing the fines because "we didn't like it to go unnoticed. It got out of hand. It was a public show. If somebody wants to carry on, there's a place for it. That was not the place."

The incidents took place Sunday after the Yankees doubleheader in New York. The team had about three hours to spare before catching a plane and went to dine. When they eventually reached the airport, there was a 2½-hour delay and the Yankees again went to a restaurant.

Manager Johnny Keane, who resigned his job with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals to move over to the American League champion Yankees, called Houk about the incidents Monday, then met with the club Monday night and settled the issue.

Houk's flight, meanwhile, was reminiscent of last year's flight to Boston in mid-August after the Great Harmonica Tooting Incident.

The player involved then was infielder Phil Linz, who became musically inclined on the team bus to the distress of Yogi Berra, then the Yankee manager. Houk flew in to Boston to announce a $250 fine had been levied on Linz.

Cards Pick 61 In Major League Draft

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional baseball's first free-agent draft finally is over with 826 youngsters selected by the 20 major league clubs and their farm teams.

Now all they have to do is sign the youngsters. This may not be easy.

General Manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees, who fought unsuccessfully against passage of the controversial rule, thinks only about half the number selected will be signed.

Gabe Paul, president of the Cleveland Indians, and one of its strongest boosters, predicts the clubs will have little difficulty in coming to terms with as many as they would like.

Surprisingly, none among the baseball brass expressed any concern over possible court action.

Prior to the bill's passage, opponenets headed by owner Charlie Finley of the Kansas City Athletics called the action illegal and in restraint of trade because, he said, it would deprive the boys of negotiation rights.

"It's just not so," averred George Kirksey, vice president of the Houston Astros. "The boy does have negotiation rights. He's got four choices. He can sign, he can continue in school, he can go into football or baseball, or he can go into business.

"It's absolutely ridiculous for baseball people to think they'll get the kids cheaply just because they have exclusive negotiation rights."

The National League selected 431 players to the American's 395. The New York Mets, who made the last selection, wound up with 52 picks, the same number as the Minnesota Twins. Only clubs with more were Houston with 72, Baltimore 70, and St. Louis 61. The Red Sox made the fewest selections. They chose only 20 players.

Sports TALK

By DON SAVAGE

There could be a father-son combination in baseball telecasting next year, only in different National League towns. Harry Caray is the long-time man behind the mike for the St. Louis Cardinals. His son, Skip, is working Atlanta games this year and might step right in with the varsity when the Braves move in next season.

The World Champion Cardinals, always on the lookout for young talented players, will sponsor baseball tryouts in Paducah, Ky., on June 15 and 16, it was announced today by George Silvey, director of Red Bird Scouting.

Starting at 10 a.m. each day things will be at a high pitch at Brooks Stadium when W. H. "Buddy" Lewis, Cardinal scouting supervisor, directs and hustles the players through a well-staged tryout program.

"We'll be looking for aggressive, Cardinal-type players for our farm System," Silvey remarked. "And these tryouts will give the eager players a once in a summer opportunity to prove that they have the stuff out of which major leaguers are made. . .baseball ability, desire, and definiteness of purpose. Our man personally picked this tryout spot, you know, and we're counting on a sizeable group to look over."

The tryouts are open to all players in the 16 to 22 year age bracket. Each player should bring his glove, shoes and a uniform if he has one. The Cards will supply the bats, balls, and catching gear.

A player signed to a contract will be reimbursed for the expenses he incurs incident to the tryouts. To take part an American Legion player must have a letter of approval from either his Legion coach or Post Commander.

St. Louis U. Meets Arizona In College World Series

OMAHA - The prime question of the College World Series is "who's going to stop Arizona State?"

John Marcum, cool St. Louis left-hander, will face the ASU sluggers tonight. Major league scouts at the 19th NCAA Tournament give Marcum the best chance against the Sun Devils of any Series pitcher.

Arizona State has been the class of the tournament through three rounds. The Sun Devils are unbeaten in the double-elimination tourney. They handed Ohio State's Big Ten champs their first Series defeat Wednesday night 9-4 with highly touted Rick Monday smashing a home run, double and single.

Earlier, the Western Athletic Conference champs clipped St. Louis 13-3 and Lafayette 14-1. This is an over-all score of 36-8 for three games. They have a team batting average of .329, with seven doubles, one triple and four homers.

Third baseman Sal Bando, one of the four Ohio natives on the club, leads Series hitters with .571, including three doubles and a homer. His nine runs batted in is just one short of the Series record.

Monday, sophomore outfielder who was chosen No. 1 in baseball's first free agent draft, is batting .417 in the series. Outfielder Glen Smith is at .417.

Bobby Winkles likely will start John The Robot Pavlik, a right-hander, with two days rest. He stands 11-0. Marcum is with a 1.15 earned run avr.

The game starts at 7 p.m., EST.

Washington State, which ousted Connecticut 3-2, faces Ohio State at 9:30 with the loser eliminated.

A two-run triple by .417 - hitting Tom Daly in the seventh was the winning blow for St. Louis, which eliminated Florida State 5-3. Marcum came in to get the last three outs.

Washington State now stands 33-7, St. Louis 25-8 and Ohio State, beaten four times in four games this season by ASU, is 28-12.

Arizona State is 51-7 with 15 straight victories and talk grows of a possible unbeaten sweep. Only four teams have swept through the series unbeaten -- Texas in 1949, Oklahoma in 1951, California in 1957 and Michigan in 1962.

BATTING -- Willie Mays, Giants, drove in three runs with a single and his 18th homer in a 4-2 victory over the New York Mets.

PITCHING - Mel Stottlemyre, Yankees, checked Kansas City on six hits and struck out 11, bringing his record to 7-2, as the Yankees beat the A's 5-1.

OFF-BALANCED OFFENSE—When Philadelphia Phillies pitcher Jim Bunning is on the attack, he keeps nothing in reserve. His fast ball follow-through often ends, as did this one, in a two, three and even four-point landing.

Braves Want To Go To Atlanta Now

MILWAUKEE -The Milwaukee Braves, high in the standings but low at the gate, may have to dig a lot deeper than a half million dollars if they want to flee to Atlanta this year.

The Braves offered a cool $500,000 for release from their Milwaukee contract at midseason Wednesday, but the proposal received chilly, although somewhat mixed, reaction from county officials.

"To hell with'em," snapped Milwaukee County Board Chairman Eugene H. Grobschmidt, a leader in legal action which forced the Braves last fall to fulfill their contract here before going to Atlanta in 1966.

Two of Grobschmidt's colleagues on the board, however, said they might entertain thoughts of letting the Braves leave -- at a higher price.

Supervisor Ted E. Wedemeyer predicted board members might be more receptive to an offer in the vicinity of three-quarters of a million dollars. Supervisor Donald F. Weber set a price tag of 1.5 million.

Although the Braves' hopes of an early migration to the south have been well known, a formal offer was withheld until Wednesday. Bill Bartholomay, the club's chairman, made the proposal in six-page telegrams to Grobschmidt, county executive John Doyne and Teams, Inc., a civic group seeking another major league franchise for Milwaukee.

Bartholomay offered Milwaukee County $400,000 and Teams, Inc., $100,000 to sever contractual ties and permit the Braves to move to Atlanta after July 10. The offer carried a deadline of midnight June 21, but from initial reaction it might just as well be Dec. 31.

Bartholomay said that on the basis of projected figures the Braves' Milwaukee attendance this year will be "at least 400,000, some 1,200,000 below" the 12-year average. He admitted the Braves face " a substantial operating loss," but said the county will realize less than $90,000.

"Acceptance of this offer will insure the taxpayers of Milwaukee over $300,000 more than they can reasonably expect under the terms of the lease for Milwaukee County Stadium," he said.

Grobschmidt disputed Bartholomay's projected figures and said a strong showing by the Braves would attract fans in the summer months.

"All of a sudden, Mr. Bartholomay is thinking about the Milwaukee taxpayers," Grobschmidt added. "That's a quick pitch. He has had no concern for them for the past two years."

Grobschmidt, reached while vacationing, said he would submit the Braves' offer at the county board's regular meeting next Wednesday. However, he said he believes the majority of the board shares his feelings and the public would be "99 to 1 against it."

The Braves have drawn only 125,606 for 22 County Stadium dates this year. In 1964, before their attempt to move to Atlanta, they had an attendance of 253,817 for the comparable period.

Jazy Sets World Mile Record

RENNES, France - France's Michel Jazy, who apparently runs his best against the clock rather than against tough opposition, today had the world's fastest time of 3;53.6 for the mile and solid confidence he'll break the 5,000-meter mark on Friday.

The 29-year-old veteran, a disappointment in the 1964 Olympics, Tuesday night bettered the world record of 3;-54.1 set by New Zealand's Peter Snell. This brought the blue ribbon mile mark to France for the first time since 1931 when Jules Ladoumegue was clocked in 4;08.2

In Tuesday night's race, Gerald Vervoort was second in 3;59.9.

Ironically, Jazy does not think of the mile as his best distance. He prefers the 5,000 meters. But he said outright before the race that he was going for a world record, and he made it. He then gave warning that he was going to shoot for a sensational exploit in the 5,000 meters Friday night in Paris.

In the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome, Jazy finished a badly beaten second in the 1,500 meters. For the 1964 Games, he decided to switch to the 5,000 meters.

But in Tokyo, he was bothered by the pace and used up his energy passing other runners, then being passed. When he saw he could not win, or even take second, he faded back to fifth and said that the only thing he really cared for was the gold medal.

That setback has rankled him since Tokyo. It took Jazy almost three years to get back his confidence after he was beaten by 30 meters by Herb Elliott of Australia in the 1,500 meters in Rome.

Jazy's mile record capped an amazing series of races in the space of one week. On June 2, he ran the fastest mile by a European with a time of 3;55.5 at Saint Maur, a Paris suburb. On June 6, at Lorient, he erased the old European record for the 5,000 meters with a time of 13;34.4.

In Paris he will be aiming for the 13;25.8 record for 5,000 meters set by Ron Clarke of Australia last week in Los Angeles.

Leslie And Canvas Products Win Little League Contests

In the first game last night, Canvas Products connected with 9 hits to rally in their 10 runs, compared to the 2 hits to drive in Police's only 3. Sipult, starting on the mound for Canvas, was relieved in the fourth by Stewart. Together they pitched a two-hit ball game, each allowing one hit. Moore, the losing pitcher for Police, together with Terrell, smashed the only hits for their team.

State Highway Travel Rolls to Daily Total of 32 Million Miles

From St. Joseph to Fredericktown -- about 370 miles -- every second, day and night, 'round the clock.

That's a small inkling of the daily travel on Missouri's state highways, according to the 1964 vehicle mile study released today by the State Highway Department's Division of Highway Planning.

Total daily travel in the state added up to 32,367,625 miles -- or the equivalent of 87,480 such trips from the historic Pony Express city in northwest Missouri to the Madison county town in the southeastern Ozarks hill country.

All of this going and coming was tallied last year at 6300 locations all over the state. Counts from each section were projected to give total travel for each highway in the state.

The study showed average travel in the state was up 1,187,251 miles a day over 1963's total of 31,180,374 miles, an increase of 3.6 per cent.

The yearly count adds up to a massive mathematical job. And the figures yield some interesting facts about Missouri highway travel.

For instance, the total daily travel averages to more than 1,000 miles on each of the 32,000 miles in the state highway system. But in actual use the Primary system, with about 25 per cent of the mileage, carried about 70 per cent of the total travel.

The Supplementary (Farm-to-Market) system, with about 72 per cent of the mileage, carried about 20 per cent of the travel. The remainder was divided among the other systems -- Traffic Relief, 300 Mile Additional and Park Connections.

As might be expected, St. Louis county racked up the highest average daily travel with 5,049,623 miles. Jackson county was second with 2,089,681 miles. Worth county, up in northwest Missouri, had the lowest total with 35,614 miles a day.

The busiest highway, according to the study, was Interstate Route 70-U.S. Route 40 with 3.8 million miles of travel a day. Next was Interstate Route 44-U.S. Route 66 with 3.4 million miles a day.

Led by St. Louis county with 15.6 per cent of the total daily travel, District 6 (covering east central Missouri), led the other nine Department districts with 26 per cent of the state total.

Other districts and their percentages of the total are:

District 1 (Northwest Missouri --6%; District 2 (North Central Missouri) - 4.7 %; District 3 (Northeast Mo) - 6.3%; District 4 (West Central Mo.) -10.4%; District 5 (Central Mo.) - 8 %; District 7 (Southwest Mo.) - 8.4%; District 8 (South Central Mo.) - 10.8%; District 9 (Southeast Ozarks area) - 3.7%; District 10 (Southeast Bootheel Area) -- 9%.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. - Gov. Warren E. Hearnes receives a plaque dedicating a garden of Cape Coral Roses to the people of Missouri. The Garden of the Patriots is presenting a Garden of Roses to state capitals throughout the United States in support of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's Let's Beautify America program. The presentation is made in Jefferson City by Mrs. Henry I. Eager, past president, Federated Garden Clubs of Missouri who is representing the Garden of the Patriots at Cape Coral, Fla.

Husbands Suffer

One of every nine men whose wives are pregnant may suffer from pregnancy symptoms resembling his wife's. This is the startling conclusion of Dr. William Herny Trethowan, Professor of Psychiatry, University of Birmingham, England.

There is ample evidence, according to the British psychiatrist, that many men suffer abdominal pain, loss of appetite, indigestion, colic, nausea, even vomiting without any good physical cause.

Morning sickness, the plague of many pregnant women, may also trouble the father-to-be.

The symptoms usually start at the beginning of the third month, become less troublesome as time goes on, but rise again during the ninth month, reports Dr. Trethowan. They usually disappear completely within a few days after the baby is born, but may recur with subsequent pregnancies.

THAT ACHING TOOTH

A common complaint of fathers - to- be is toothache. Dentists have been known to search in vain for an elusive carie, may use all means known to dental science to discover the cause of the discomfort, but find nothing. Nonetheless the patient continues to complain of toothache. Some even insist that a tooth be extracted.

Dr. Trethowan believes that the toothache may be due to the prospective father's acceptance of the myth that pregnancy causes tooth decay. The physician points out that the old wives' tale, "For every child a tooth," is so widespread that even medical students accept it until specifically taught better.

POSSIBLE CAUSES OF SYMPATHY PAINS

Why do men have sympathy pains? Dr. Trethowan speculates that some men may unconsciously fear that following childbirth their wives' affections may be withdrawn from them and redirected to the child. These men may feel guilty and anxious about having such feelings, says the doctor, and may punish themselves unconsciously with unpleasant symptoms.

Other men identify so intensely with their wives during the period of pregnancy that they experience the same discomforts.

Rest assured, cautions the doctor, no husband ever died of these symptoms. He recalls the obstetricians' joke -- "Don't worry, I've never lost a father yet."

WHAT GOD HATH JOINED

Some dwell within the selfsame house,
Yet live so far apart.
While others dwell a world away,
And yet are joined in heart.

Some whisper loud sweet marriage vows,
But are not wed in spirit;
Some bound by love have voiced no vow,
Except so God could hear it.

AUTOMATION AND JOBS

If the right attitude toward automation is adopted it will increase rather than diminish the number of workers. Although it causes some temporary unemployment and dislocation, the major effect is to provide more employment, lower priced goods, greater consumption and more prosperity. Conclusive proof of this fact is obvious when it is remembered that we have more automation in this country than any other, and at the same time more men and women are engaged in productive work than ever before in our history. The invention of the typewriter was a big step in automation, but today there are more typists than there were hand - writing clerks before the coming of the machine. Typesetters were displaced by the linotype, but the amount of printing was so greatly increased by the coming of the machine that today there are more linotype operators than there were hand typesetters in the old days. Likewise there are more operators of spinning machines than there were spinners before the automation of the textile industry.

The telephone is probably our greatest example of automation, yet the number of telephone employees steadily increases. It is said that there would not have been enough young women to operate the telephone system on its present scale if automation had not come to that industry on a very large scale.

If automation is used to lower production costs and decrease prices, it results in expanded consumption and in turn creates more jobs. On the other hand, if the remaining workers, after some are displaced by automation, demand and get shorter hours and increased pay, absorbing all the gains resulting from automation so there is no reduction in prices, consumption will not increase and jobs may be permanently lost.

Suppose ten men are working at a job when new machinery makes it possible for five to turn out the same quantity of product. If these five demand shorter hours and increased pay, absorbing all the gain from the new machines, there will be no reduction in the prices of the goods and the quantity sold will not rise. In that case there will be five fewer jobs than before.

Now suppose that the five remaining workers continue to work the same normal number of hours per week at the same scale of wages, permitting a large reduction in the price of the goods. Sales will increase sharply and more men will be needed to meet the demand. The secret of a rising standard of living is lower costs and greater production, enabling everybody to buy more for his dollars. Automation is the great boon, bringing that blessing to all of us. All we need to take advantage of it is unselfishly to share the benefits with the public and the savers who make possible the improved machinery as well as the workers who man the machines. If that be done, automation creates more and better jobs, more, cheaper and better merchandise for the public, lifts the burden of toil from the backs of men, and makes possible a steadily and rapidly advancing standard of living.

NEW LEAD?—A hard look at Chad Everett as a new leading man possibility has considerably brightened Hollywood's jaundiced eye. The handsome Chad was a star on television's The Dakotas and provides a new yardstick of his work in his role opposite Ann-Margret in "Made in Paris."

When I Was A Boy

B. F. "Pappy" Blanton

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes. (Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

July 11, 1919

When I was a boy young people showed more respect to old people than young people do now. I have about come to the conclusion that Osler was right when he said that after people passed 60 to 65 they ought to be chloroformed. One thing is patent to close observers and that is there is no company for old people and they are not wanted around anywhere unless it is when a collection is being taken up and then it is what they give that counts. We would raise Dr. Osler a few years and not chloroform a man until he was 70.

When I was a boy I knew a man owner of a fine farm and a lot of slaves who was so intent on laying up money for a rainy day, as he said, that he denied his family most of the pleasures and all of the luxuries of life. His beautiful daughters never got an education but what they got in the common schools of that day, and they were common schools, sure enough. He would not send them to college and when they joined the church he refused to let them be baptized and they had to sneak off to be baptized without his knowledge. Well, he made lots of money and later died a horrible death, and, no doubt, went to join old Dives. A better plan for people, now on earth is to give their families all the pleasures and luxuries that they can pay for while they are together on this mundane sphere, for you will be dead a long time after a while.

When I was a boy children were taught to say "yes, sir" or "no, sir," to a man and say "yes ma'am," to a woman, but nowadays if you ask a boy a question he answers "naw" or "yas" and pays no more attention to you. This may sound a little strange to some but it is true nevertheless. Guess this fast life we are all living has something to do with present conditions.

When I was a boy a man could hunt without a license. The whole country was full of game and men never objected to anyone hunting on their farm. It is different now. We have to have a state game law which some respect and take out a hunting license, but more hunt without the permit and come out as well as those who have a license.

When I was a boy there were two distilleries in a few miles of our place. They made whisky as clear as spring water, and did not color it at all. It was about as cheap as coal oil is now, but there was but little drunkenness among farmers those days, not half as much as there was a few years ago when at every little village and town you could get all the red liquor you wanted.

When I was a boy there lived not far from our house a preacher named Alexander. He was an old time Baptist preacher and was a good man, but he had a wife that was a regular "she devil", so grown up people said. Now, this preacher was as bald as a billiard ball and wore a beautiful wig. His wife got on a rage one Sunday morning when he was fixing to go somewhere to preach and in her rage she snatched off his wig and when out of his signt she buried his beautiful wig in the garden. Next day some of her firends persuaded her to get the wig and this made peace for a short time only. That was the first time I ever heard of being "snatched baldheaded."

When I was a boy I guess I must have been like lots of other boys, a pretty bad one. I went to one teacher who permitted the children to study their lessons out loud. You could hardly hear yourself think for the constant roar of 25 or 30 voices. So one day while this was going on I was singing and occasionally "cussing" at the same time. Suddenly everything became quiet but I did not stop in time and the teacher heard me saying some cuss words I had picked up from little darkies I played with at home. All the school heard me and all laughed at me. I might drop this subject right here but I tell you I received a hard whipping which left marks on my back and made a row between my mother and the teacher. But that broke up my funny business during lesson learning.

When I was a boy I went to school with my two sisters and being very small I played with the girls instead of the boys. This I kept up as long as I went to school. And that is the reason I have always loved girls and do yet. One of my playmates was a girl named Adeline Carson. She was a half blood Indian and was the daughter of the celebrated Indian fighter and scout, Kit Carson, who had sent her to relatives to be educated. She was taken back by him to the West where she later married and died in California. She was an athletic girl and has thrown me down and sat on me many a time.

When I was a boy we raised oodles of tobacco every year, and my brother and myself, with a lot of little Negro boys had to work in the fields of tobacco early and late, This palled on me, especially when we had to worm and sucker the tobacco week in and week out, and it seemed that night would never come. There were about a dozen seed plants the "old man" had saved, and it occurred to me that if these plants were destroyed there would never be any more tobacco, so I broke every one of them down and the little Negroes danced on them, and we were all happy. The little darkies were all whipped for this, but they were game and would not tell that I broke them down. They were like me, they thought and would never have to work in the tobacco again.

One Pattern Makes A Sports Wardrobe

JOIN THE MIX-MATCH GAME—Now you can create a whole summer sports wardrobe from one pattern. Madras-type cotton is the choice for a hooded parka, Bermuda shorts, and a wrap skirt. For mix-match possibilities, choose white cotton for the bateau-necked blouse and an extra pair of shorts. All made from Simplicity Pattern 5836.

Paul C. Jones Reports From Washington

WASHINGTON -- Congressman Paul Jones, Kennett, Mo., Democrat, told the House that he would vote against the reduction in federal excise taxes because it would be financed by increasing the federal government's debt.

His speech: "After listening to all these speeches I think I will find myself in probably the smallest minority with which I have ever been associated. I am not opposed, of course, to reduction of excise taxes, but I do intend to vote against this bill. I probably have a different reason that many Members have, but I feel that before we bring about a reduction in revenue that is going to be financed by going further into debt, as will be evidenced when we pass the bill to increase the debt ceiling, we should first find some way to recover the revenue that is going to be lost.

"Of course, these taxes should have been repealed years ago, after the war was over. But during the years we have become adjusted to having this revenue and it was about as painless a method of extracting it from the public as we could have. Of course, I am not going to try to defend the repeal of the tax on furs and jewelry and other luxuries like those. I do not agree, for instance, that there is going to be any increased sale of new automobiles because of the repeal of this tax. I do not think this tax has had any effect whatsoever on the purchase of new automobiles. But I do know this; I am not an economist but I have observed things that have happened over a long period of years. I am just telling you this right now, and I think you will agree with me, that every time we have had an increase in the national debt we have had increased inflation, and I think we are going to continue to have that.

"Unless we do cut down some of these expenditures and cut down on this national debt we are going to continue to have increased inflation. If we cannot have a balanced budget, and reduce the national debt in prosperous times such as we have had, we can never do it.

"I think the poor people today are going to suffer more from the reduction or elimination of these excise taxes than any other group of people. In the first place, few of them will receive any direct benefits from the reduction or elimination, but they will suffer from the effects of inflation. As soon as this automobile excise tax is reduced and eventually eliminated, what is going to happen? The value of every used car in the country is going to be less than it was the day before. That is the effect it is going to have. In other words, the value of the investment of the man who owns the second-hand car is going to be less.

"I have told this story before to demonstrate what inflation does to the people who are near retirement, the people who have retired. Government workers and others, who have looked forward to retirement. Every Member gets letters from people saying, My social security is not large enough to accomplish the things we were told it would accomplish at the time it was started back in 1936. It does not do it because the inflation since 1936 has wiped out all of those benefits. The effects of inflation keep one step ahead of the constantly rising cost of living.

"I want to say this and say it as clearly as I know how. I do not think you are going to get the stimulation in the economy through the money that will be put back into circulation which will be saved by this reduction of the excise tax. It is not going to work that way. Within the next year or 2 years you are going to have more inflation. I am going to vote against extending the debt ceiling. I have voted against it on several other occasions, always for the same reason, expressing my opposition to increasing the debt during prosperous times when we should be balancing the budget.

"Last year I told the chairman of the committee on ways and means:

If you will put this debt ceiling on the basis of some permanent ceiling to which we can tie, I can support it. Put it as high as you want to, but let us at least be honest with ourselves.

"The temporary ceiling of $285 billion is so unrealistic it is tragic.

"We are not being honest with the people of our Nation today in passing this tax reduction, for this reason: A lot of people are going to interpret this action today to the effect that here we have reduced taxes to the extent of $4.8 billion. They will say, "Boy, are we not well off? We can afford a tax reduction of $4.8 billion." Tax reductions may sound good but there will be a day of reckoning for "chickens do come home to roost."

"We are not well off at all. We are going to be worse off, because this action is going to bring about more inflation. Mr. Chairman, the poorer the man is, the more he is going to pay under this line of reasoning. It has been my observation that welfare rolls increase in direct ratio with the increase in inflation.

ANN LANDERS Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter signed "Frank" and I think your advice was the worst yet.

It is a gentleman's place to protect his wife or his girl. When that drunk called Frank's wife a mopey, bow-legged broad he had every right to belt him one in the kisser. Your suggestion that Frank was a roughneck, and that he and his wife should have left the restaurant, was strictly for the birds.

Why don't you ask your husband what HE would have done if somebody called you a mopey, bow-legged broad? — MORE THAN FRANK

Dear More Than: I asked him. He said he hasn't hit a guy since he was in the 6th grade and he is in no shape to start taking on drunks in restaurants. Any more questions?

Dear Ann Landers: I was very much interested in your warning to the girl who wrote about kissing a boy who had a sore on his lip.

The girl was concerned about lip cancer. You told her (and correctly) that lip cancer was not nearly so deadly as another disease which could be contracted from kissing. Then you demonstrated great courage and named the REAL threat — syphilis.

Small sores on the lip or mouth are often not noticeable. So many teen-agers have skin problems that most eruptions are passed off as "adolescent blossoms." I believe you would perform an invaluable service if you printed more information on this subject.

What does a syphilis sore look like? If a girl discovers, after she has kissed a boy, that he has a sore on his lip, would applying alcohol to her own lips protect her against the disease?

If a person thinks he has a venereal disease and is afraid to tell his parents what should he do? I am a high school senior and must confess shameful ignorance on this subject. My friends don't know any more than I do. Most kids don't want to talk about veneral disease because somebody might get the idea they have dome something wrong and are worried.

Please print my letter and give us kids some facts. — CHICKEN

Dear Chicken: The number of reported cases of VD in this country has tripled in the last 10 years. Almost 60 per cent of the cases are in the 13-to-19-year-old group. If this isn't a serious social problem I don't know what one is.

A syphilis sore resembles a cold sore. It can appear on the lip, in the mouth or anywhere on the surface of the skin. It often itches and it's different from most sores because it is very slow to heal. And THIS is the clue. If you have a sore that is stubborn about disappearing it is a danger signal.

Wiping your lips with alcohol is no protection against syphilis if you have a small crack on your lip. It is likely that the germ has already moved into your blood stream.

Anyone who suspects he has a venereal disease should do either of two things at once:

(1) Go to a physician. I know of no doctor who would tell your parents if you asked him not to. The treatment is simple, painless and relatively inexpensive.

(2) Go to the city or county health department and ask for a VD test. In most cities both the test and treatment are free. The doctors will respect your confidence if you ask them to. Public Health officers are not interested in turning kids in or punishing them. They are interested only in treating and curing patients of this deadly disease, which, if not treated can cause blindness, sterility, insanity and death.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sport Parachutes

The sport parachutes used in sky diving have large holes that permit the air to escape and drive the parachute in the direction opposite the hole, much like a low-power jet engine, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Lingerie Puts on a New Face for Summer

For day and night, lingerie has a new look for summer. The "blouse slip" (left) of Antron has a versatile print halter top that extends to the hipline of its solid color skirt. For cool sleeping, a flash of color outlines the knee-topping shift of nylon tricot (right) with slashed hemline. It boasts its own matching bikini. These are Van Raalte designs.

Fertility & Sterility

FERTILITY REGULATION

The regulation of human fertility has been one of man's earnest desires through the ages, but until recently his methods ranged from barbarous to unpleasant, from worthless to undependable. The earliest approaches — supersitious rites, mystic potions and infanticide — were the worst. Eventually, women turned to clumsy tampons and uncomfortable vaginal plugs. But when these devices failed, as they so often did, many victims submitted to abortions which frequently killed both mother and child.

The more modern era opened during the 19th Century when the condom and diaphragm were introduced on a wide scale, but they were crude and their failure rate was high. Then, during our own century, came vaginal jellies and foams, which exerted a local spermicidal action, and better condoms and diaphragms. But an inherent drawback, in addition to their failure quotient, inhibited the effectiveness of these innovations. They had to be used at or very near the time of coitus, without margin for error.

Some of this handicap has been overcome by the intrauterine device, a polyethylene or stainless steel coil which is inserted in the uterus by a physician and is designed to remain there as long as desired. The IUD's mode of action is not clear, but its presence is thought to cause uterine contractions which are unfavorable to the successful implantation of the ovum. When the coil remains intact it is effective, but expulsion rates of 15 to 20 per cent are being reported.

ENTER 'THE PILL'

The newest contraceptive with the highest rate of effectiveness is "the pill" — the estrogen-progestin tablet which has now been in use for over ten years. Not so surprisingly when its biochemical action is understood, this birth-control pill is the same one used to support pregnancies when employed under a different regimen. In fact, the pill was born out of research into opposite aspects of fertility. While one investigator tried to induce conception, another sought a reliable and pleasant contraceptive. The former was Dr. John Rock of the Rock Reproductive Clinic in Brookline, Mass., the latter Dr. Gregory Pincus of the Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology in Shrewsbury, Mass.

Since estrogen and progesterone were intimately involved in ovulation and the sequelae of pregnancy, Dr. Rock thought that hormonal supplementation might make childbearing possible among women whose infertility could not be traced to a specific cause. When he administered the hormones to one group for three months, they quickly showed signs of pregnancy although they did not ovulate. Moreover, their breasts and often their uteruses became enlarged. Then, four months after therapy was discontinued, 16 per cent became pregnant.

OPPOSITE EFFECT

Meanwhile, Drs. Pincus and M. C. Chang at Shrewsbury confirmed that progesterone, given at the right time in the menstrual cycle, inhibited ovulation in laboratory animals. At their suggestion, the hormone was synthesized (the synthetic is the progestin). In its final form it was combined with estrogen and became "the pill."

Approved by the U.S. Food & Drug Administration, it has been unremittingly effective as a contraceptive when used as directed.

In all these ways, through an increasingly clearer understanding of the human reproductive system, medical science has ameliorated a twin plague of mankind — the inability to conceive children and the burden of having more than wanted.

Stock Yields Better

NEW YORK AP--The tumble of stock market averages from their May 14 peak has brought many issues to a level that makes their yields much more attractive to long-term investors.

Return on the investment is one reason for buying stocks. Another, and much dearer to most active traders, is the chance of capital gains from rising prices.

On the first score the market looks better today to the long-term investor. He was beginning to worry because at the peak prices the yields looked small. Corporate profits were rising but stock prices outstripped them.

On the second score, the sharp drop in stock prices Tuesday could make some issues look like bargains. But it wiped out a lot of paper profits for those who had bought with hopes that prices would keep climbing. And these disappointed ones are the loudest grumblers at the market's performance in most of the last four weeks.

The yield is what you get, or have a right to expect, in dividends in ratio to the market price you pay for a stock. In most instances dividends depend upon past and prospective earnings of the individual corporations. So would-be buyers watch closely the ratio of stock prices to current earnings as reported or estimated.

And that ratio is now much more attractive to investors than it was at times when exuberance was sending prices soaring.

For an example take the 30 industrial stocks used in the popular Dow-Jones industrial index. A year ago the index stood at 805. Per share earnings of the 30 stocks came to $42.60. The price index thus was 18.9 times earnings.

The index reached its peak of 939.62 May 14. Tuesday's break brought it down to 889.05, a 5.38 per cent drop. But estimated per share earnings of the 30 stocks is now $48.78. So Tuesday the industrial price average is 18.2 times earnings.

The stock market always has two kinds of buyers and sellers. The quiet and least-noticed one is the investor who expects a reasonable yield on the stock he buys or is selling because the yield looks poor. He also hopes that prices may rise or at least not drop. But he prizes his dividend checks.

The second, the one more likely to affect the sharp day-to-day swings of the market, cares only incidentally for the yield or dividends. His eye is on making a killing by buying low and selling high. When he sells it is because he thinks the chances of that have gone glimmering.

The majority of stocks in America are held by the long-term investors. And to them yield is important.

House Acts On Bill To Abolish School Position

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House has finally completed action on a bill that has plagued the legislature for several sessions -- to abolish the office of county school superintendent in counties in which he has few or no duties.

There was little discussion as the House accepted Senate amendments and sent the bill to the governor on a 101-46 vote.

The original bill provided that the office be abolished in all counties in which the office was vacant Jan. 1.

But the Senate changed the date to Jan. 15 to give back to C. E. (Dutch) Wyatt of Poplar Bluff the Butler County superintendent position.

Wyatt had resigned to become state park director. Later he resigned the state job because of poor health and former Gov. John M. Dalton appointed him county superintendent Jan. 4.

If the governor signs the bill it will become effective Oct. 13.

The late Gov. James T. Blair started the practice of refusing to fill vacancies in counties which were fully reorganized. Dalton continued it.

Recently there were 26 such counties.

The bill provides that in any county in which there are three or less districts under the county superintendent's control, the office is abolished.

The situation was dramatized in last year's elections. In several cases candidates ran for the office on the promise of resigning if elected to keep the office vacant. They did, too.

At the Marine Corps Officers' Basic School in Quantico, Virginia, we fledgling lieutenants had to attend lectures after long arduous days in the field. The large classroom held about 200 young officers; and we were often hot, tired, and embarrasingly unprepared. In order to keep us on our toes, the instructor would ask us a question, then call of a name from his seating chart. If there were more than one of us with the same name, the instructor would add our initials.

One evening, the instructor, a captain lecturing on Military Law, asked a particularly difficult question and called off the name Wallace. Lieutenant Wallace rose sleepily and asked, "Do you mean R.J., sir?"

"Yes, that's right," snapped the instructor, sensing he had caught the other unaware.

"He's over there, sir," said Wallace, pointing across the room and sitting down. — David L. O'Neal

TV's Biggest Show Was All-Network

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's biggest show Tuesday was an all-network program that premiered in midmorning and with color added, went into reruns in midafternoon and evening.

The exciting film saga of the man on the golden tether showed last Thursday's dreamlike maneuvering in space by astronaut Edward H. White II for 20 minutes as the Gemini capsule, looking like a flying flashlight, shot from Hawaii across the United States.

As observed in color film, White swam into a weightless vacuum about 100 miles above a green world dusted with white clouds with the grace of an acrobat in slow motion. Below him, the earth appeared to zip by like the roll on an old-fashioned player piano.

Although Maj. White's excursion seemed a leisurely exercise in space, the networks engaged in some furious, fancy footwork to get the precious film quickly developed and into the hands of television stations with color broadcast facilities.

NBC's news special Tuesday night carefully shed more light than heat on a delicate question: "Who Can Vote?"

The subject really was people who cannot — and sometimes will not vote. Naturally, much of the program concentrated on efforts of determined Negroes in some Southern states to become enfranchised. It also inspected some other, less publicized minorities.

ABC has acquired television rights to the 1968 winter Olympics to be held in Grenoble, France. The network, which paid $650,000 to televise last year's winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria, disclosed no figures in the new deal. It is, however, rumored to be more than a million dollars.

Senate Debates Boxing Bill

WASHINGTON - Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., introduced today the 1965 version of his bill to place professional boxing under federal policing by a boxing commissioner.

He pictured heavyweight champion Cassius Clay's disputed 60-second knockout of Sonny Liston in their Lewiston, Maine, bout as reason enough to justify the bill's enactment.

A similar bill by Hart and others died last year in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Hart contended enactment of the bill this year represents a last chance for the survival of big-time boxing and to rescue it from the "shadowy interests which appear to dominate boxing."

The bill would:

1. Establish in the Justice Department the office of U.S. Boxing Commissioner with broad powers to investigate and police pro boxing.
2. Require federal licenses for pro boxers, managers, promoters and matchmakers.
3. Authorize the commissioner to require the filing of all contracts, agreements and financial reports by licensees, and to establish and enforce minimum standards for boxing.
4. Provide enforcement weapons including suspension or revocation of licenses, and prosecution in the criminal courts for undercover deals, false reporting and unlicensed participation in interstate boxing.

Criminal penalties would range from up to $1,000 fine and a year in jail for boxers, to $5,000 and five years for managers, promoters and matchmakers caught in violations.

the United States is "moving in the direction of a massive bogdown land struggle in Asia." He said before Johnson commits this country to large-scale ground operations he should ask Congress to pass a resolution approving his course.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., a strong supporter of Johnson's course, said he doesn't think any resolution is needed.

Dodd suggested that students and professors be sent to Viet Nam for the summer to see for themselves what is happening there.

Pisa Greets Pope Paul

PISA, Italy - The city of the Leaning Tower prepared a tumultuous welcome today for Pope Paul VI, making his fifth big trip outside Rome since becoming pontiff two years ago.

An estimated half a million people jammed Pisa - five times the normal population of the ancient city of the Arno River.

Thousands were already here to attend the Italian Eucharistic Congress. Other thousands of Italians and foreign tourists came to witness the first visit to Pisa by a pontiff since Pope Pius IX came here in 1857.

Lynda Bird To Apache Country

GRASSHOPPER, Ariz. - Lynda Bird Johnson will be among 21 students making a peaceful invasion of this remote region in the heart of Apache country.

Lynda Bird, 21, the President's daughter, will be the first person of her rank to visit the reservation, where Apache warriors in 1881 fought a bloody battle with U.S. cavalry.

She will be a guest student starting Friday at an archaeological digging conducted by the University of Arizona under the direction of Dr. Raymond H. Thompson.

The excavation is at the site of an ancient pueblo ruin of a now extinct tribe which dates back to 1400 A.D.

During her two week visit the President's daughter will be made a member of the White Mountain Apache Tribe which inhabits this remote area of eastern Arizona.

Tommy Gee To Boys State

LILBOURN--Tommy Gee, 17, son of Mrs. Solon Gee, rural, will attend Boys State at Warrensburg, next week.

Tommy's week at Boys State is sponsored by the Lilbourn Kiwanis club.

Young Gee, who will be a senior in high school, is active in many areas. He is an outstanding member of Lilbourn's Boy Scout Troop 50, a member of his school's basketball and baseball teams, band, chorus, student council, dramatics, and has been active in public speaking.

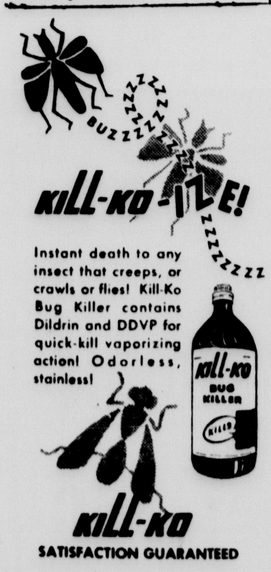

Words Get Harder at Bee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The words got harder today and the contestants faltered more frequently as the 38th National Spelling Bee entered its second and final day of competition.

Nine youngsters of the 30 who survived Wednesday's first eight rounds of spelling were dropped from the competition during the first round this morning. Five of the first eight who spelled in today's opening round were eliminated.

Seventy boys and girls from 32 states, the District of Columbia and Guam began the competition Wednesday.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago
June 10, 1915

Last Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. M. Haas chaperoned a crowd of young people to Little River where they took supper. Their return was delayed several hours by getting a car out of the loamy soil. Those who were there were: Misses Myrtle York, Stella Marshall, Bernice Tanner, Myra Tanner, Mary Matthews, Emma Roush, Kathryn Tanner, Hazel Stubbs, Lill Parsons and Messrs. Moore Greer, Ralph Anderson, R. H. Hitchens, Harry Blanton, Joe Stubbs, Ernest Williams, Randol Wilson and Theodore Slack.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Young, Miss Josephine Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dover, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Young and children had a neighborhood picnic in Malone Park Friday evening. After supper, a "splash" party at the swimming pool was the evening's entertainment.

Music lovers of Sikeston are cordially invited to attend the piano recital of the pupils of Mrs. H. J. Welsh at the Methodist Church Tuesday evening. The following persons will appear on the program: Rose Nell Stephens, Katherine Adair and Sam Bowman, Jr., Lillian Rita Derris, Billie Malone, Virginia Mount, Audrey Reiss, Maxine Finley, Burdeen Schroff, Ruth Inez Felker, Lillian Reiss and Lucille Finley, Nell Yanson, Conley Purcell, Kendall Sikes, Tylene Kendall, Thelma Lennox, Evelyn Smith, Margaret Whidden, Mary Allison Purcell, and Ruth, Mary and Frances Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Young went to Poplar Bluff Monday night to attend the funeral of Mrs. Young's grandmother, Mrs. Tom Penney, which will be held in Poplar Bluff Tuesday.

New offices for the Sikeston Natural Gas Co., will be established soon in a room on East Malone Avenue between Sellards market and the Jones grocery. G. W. Tiley, manager of the company, expects to move to the new quarters on about June 20 or 25, after the room has been redocorated.

Eight persons have already entered a citywide tennis tournament, which will be held here this summer, according to Jack Lancaster, who issued entry blanks at the H. & L. drug store. They are: Merlin Taylor, Bill Donnell, Ewart S. Taylor, Bill Van Horne, Kemper Bruton, Kenneth Hocker, Z. W. Killgore, and Mrs. Melvin Dace.

You can't frighten Miss Audrey Chaney. While she was sitting in her office on the third floor of the courthouse in Benton Monday morning, lightning cut a clean round hole through the ceiling of her room. Miss Chaney didn't even notice the hole until a friend she was talking with showed it to her. Lightning first struck the flagpole on top of the courthouse. Then it passed down the pole and glanced off onto an iron brace. The lightning's journey ended in the ceiling of Miss Chaney's office.

MEMPHIS, TENN. (FHTNC) - May 26 -- Chief Aviation Machinist's Mate Lewis F. Hux, USNR, son of Dr. and Mrs. O. M. Hux of Essex, Mo., and husband of the former Miss Carmen M. Rocha of Oakland, Calif., is presently serving two-weeks active duty for training with Naval Air Reserve Transport Squadron 792 at Naval Air Station, Minneapolis- St. Paul, Minn.

The Memphis-based "Weekend Warrior" squadron is scheduled to make three trips to Hawaii to give pilots and aircrewmen training in overwater navigation.

His squadron will fly the Navy's C54-Q four-engine transport aircraft.

Personnel from Tennessee, Missouri, Indiana, Illinois, Mississippi and Alabama will participate in the training event.

SANTA ANA, CALIF. (FHTNC) May 18 -- Marine First Lieutenant Gerald W. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest O. Johnson of Vanduser, Mo., and husband of the former Miss Bonita G. Hulehan of Sikeston, has reported for duty with the Third Marine Aircraft Wing at the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, Santa Ana, Calif.

Helicopters, transports and jets of the Wing provide air support for the infantrymen of the First Marine Division, based at nearby Camp Pendleton, Calif.

A graduate of Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau, Lt. Johnson entered the service in October 1962.

EMPTY NESTS AND EMPTY LIVES

Roxbury, Mass. (WMNS)-- Many middle-aged women suffer mental breakdowns when faced with the fact that their childbearing years are ended, and that the "nests" over which they presided for much of their lives are going to remain empty as their children leave home to establish lives of their own.

Why do some women in this situation recover their stability more readily than others? According to a physician and three social workers who studied such women at the Massachusetts Mental Health Center in Roxbury, these are some of the factors which lead to a more rapid recovery:

Education. Women who had graduated from high school seemed able to come to grips with their problem more quickly than women with only a grade school education.

Postponed Pregnancy. Those who waited a year or more after marriage to become pregnant did better than women who started having children immediately after marriage.

Outside Interest. Women who had many friends and interests outside the family and who had a satisfying work experience returned to normal more quickly.

Later Marriage. Women who delayed getting married until they were in their twenties recovered more rapidly than women married in their teens.

DEPRESSION EASED BY ORAL CONTRACEPTIVES

Chapel Hill, N. C. (WMNS)-- A team of University of North Carolina Medical School psychiatrists and an obstetrician reported recently that a group of women suffering from premenstrual tension and from mild depression following childbirth, or associated with menopause, improved strikingly when treated with oral contraceptive pills. The physicians observed that in these conditions the hormonal balance of the body changes rapidly, and that perhaps these changes influence psychological stability. They suggest that "the pill" may deserve "further careful evaluation" by psychiatrists in the treatment of depression.

TURTLE FANCIERS TAKE NOTE

Minneapolis, Minn. (WMNS)-- Two Minnesota Department of Health researchers reported recently that turtles, heretofore considered almost perfect household pets (they're cheap, don't bite, are noiseless, require little care), can be the source of a serious intestional disease, salmonellosis.

They urge everyone with pet turtles to wash their hands after handling the creatures or their bowls, or the pebbles often kept in them. No one, including other household pets, should eat or drink from the turtle's bowl. They also caution that the water in which the turtle lives should never be emptied in the kitchen sink where it might contaminate food.

RALPH CROCKER, Defendant
Case No. 1972
NOTICE OF ENFORCEMENT OF LIEN

TO RALPH CROCKER, DECEASED, AND HIS SUCCESSORS IN INTEREST:

Please take notice that on May 15, 1965, Statement of Lien was filed in the Magistrate Court of Scott County, Missouri in which it was alleged that:

1. Plaintiff is a resident of Sikeston, Scott County, Missouri, and is in the business of storing and maintaining aircraft vehicles.

2. On or about August 1, 1963, one wrecked 1956 model Cessna 170 aircraft, serial number 3161A, was placed in storage at plaintiff's premises, and has been so stored since said date.

3. A reasonable charge for such storage is one Dollar ($1.00) per day.

4. Plaintiff states that by virtue of Sections 430.020 and 430.160 R.S.Mo. (1959), he has a lien on said aircraft, and is entitled to enforce same as by law provided.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays the Court to enter its order that said lien be so enforced.

That on June 1, 1965, the Court entered its order finding that said decedent-defendant was not a resident of this County and entered its order directing that the herein notice be published.

Please be further notified that on Tuesday, June 22, 1965, plaintiff will, in the Magistrate Court of Scott County, Missouri, at Sikeston, Missouri, seek judgment herein and request the Court to order the aforesaid property sold to satisfy the aforesaid lien.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2 inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6 inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Missouri Avenue to Broadway in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvements shall consist of furnishing all costs, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of June, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk. 218 inc 224

Moon Race May Yield Rich Rewards

HOUSTON, Tex. -- The United States and the Soviet Union are locked in a tight race to reach the moon first. The winner's rewards will be great: National prestige, scientific knowledge. perhaps military domination of space.

The flights this week of Gemini 4 and the Soviet Luna 6 are dramatic evidence that both nations are very much in the race.

Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II advanced the United States a long way on the lunar highway with their four-day flight during which White took a 20-minute walk in space. Manned flights in the Gemini and Apollo programs now are scheduled at two-month intervals in a drive toward a manned lunar landing, which could come as early as 1968.

It is suspected that Luna 6 will attempt the first soft-landing of an instrumented capsule on the moon if it reaches there as scheduled Friday. Success of such a maneuver would provide vital data on the strength of the moon's surface -- information needed before men set foot there.

The United States plans to attempt a soft-landing with an unmanned Surveyor craft in October.

Why go to the moon?

This question has been debated in scientific and government circles since President John F. Kennedy committed the United States to the race in 1961.

Most scientists favor sending men to the moon. But from the start the Apollo lunar landing project has had its critics. former President Dwight D. Eisenhower called it a "stunt race." Several respected scientists believe the money and brainpower could be better spent to improve the lot of man through medical research, anti-poverty programs and the like.

Some contend automatic space craft could do the job better than man.

The one aspect that seems to bother the American public is the estimated $20-billion price-tag.

"That's a lot of money," says James Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "But as big as that $20 billion looks, we are spending only one per cent of our Gross National Product on space -- so we can afford it.

"It is not being spent on the moon as some people like to infer. It is being spent right here in the United States. In fact, 90 per cent of it goes directly to private, free - enterprise companies, many of them mall local businesses.

"And I cannot for the life of me think of any other kind of endeavor that could benefit our nation in so many ways at once," Webb said. "It advances knowledge and stimulates our education. It creates new jobs and skills. It perfects our technology. It strengthens our national security and it adds to our total national wealth in many ways."

Concerning the prestige factor, President Johnson has said: "Surely the country which combines the ability, the resources and the courage to go to the moon will sit high at international negotiating tables. If such a country is one which protects freedom, a strong blow is made for a world of peace instead of a world of subjugation."

Dr. Homer Newell, NASA associate administrator for space science and applications, is one of many scientists who believe the moon may hold the key to the origin of our solar system, generally believed to have been created about 4.5 billion years ago.

The moon program also will contribute to the defense and security of the country. The powerful rockets, control and guidance systems, rendezvous techniques, life protective measures and manned flight experience all are applicable to a military man - in - space capability. The result could be a series of orbiting police patrols to maintain the peace.

Keep your ear to the ground, your feet on the right path and your shoulder to the wheel and you'll end up at the chiropracter's.

Lightest Mexico

By JOHN ABNEY

Acapulco -- Like they say, anything can happen in Mexico and it usually does which is a point illustrated by a television series called Tongaloa they are filming around the jungles here.

Mr. Wendell Olsen, who appears as a gentleman named Hardy in the series, gave your besieged correspondent an interview with all the reliable lowdown.

Tongaloa is an island owned by a major power (that's what the script says and they refuse to identify the country) and it is a gorgeous place with wild animals and good and bad men.

Mr. Olsen was pushing for the part of a chimpanzee but the Chimp Union objected because he suffers from Schwartz' Syndrome (aversion to ping pong balls). So a real chimp named Kemo got the role and Mr. Olsen wound up being Hardy.

It is Hardy's TV job to face wild animals, wicked natives and help keep things under control (also to steal scenes when he can from the chimp -- as if I didn't know Olsen) on this island.

The TV people select a coconut grove and everyone in the neighborhood gathers to watch them set up lights, cameras and action. Then elephants rumble about the real estate while partiers roar and a native uprising takes place.

All this is powerful stuff to the Acapulco folks, who have never seen anything wilder than burros nor more dangerous than dollar bills.

Bad natives fling spears at good natives and the animals attack and at the proper moment, Mr. Hardy six-pistols his way in to restore law and order.

After the day's action, the animals go back to their quarters and the dead and wounded congregate in Acapulco's pubs for a short beer and instructions on who dies tomorrow.

Anyhow, one day the director was sitting there studying the coconuts and all of a sudden he exclaimed, "Men, we need a lion. Every island like Tongaloa should have a good lion."

So the troops put out a call and it just happened that a fellow named Lalo something-or-other in Mexico City was listening.

Some years back, a friend of Lalo's arrived with a cute lion cub and said how about keeping him for awhile. Then the friend forgot about it and one day Lalo looked out in his garden and noticed the lion was about this high and weighed around 500 pounds..

When Tongaloa called for a lion, Lalo hustled an anchor chain around his ward's neck, hooked the other end to the frame of a horse trailer, enticed the lion aboard and set sail.

A few hours down the highway Lalo noticed a freshly deceased cow beside the road and stopped. His policy with the lion was to keep him stuffed with meat so he wouldn't develop an interest in people.

And Lalo figured why not save a few pesos so he honed his butcher knife and began removing a leg from the late cow. Right in the midst of this operation, he looked up and saw some peasant gentlemen approaching. From all sides. They had the notion that Lalo had stabbed their cow to carve himself some steaks so naturally they were furious.

They rushed at him waving machetes and Lalo, with quick inspiration, unlatched the trailer door and out leaped this huge lion with a very terrifying roar.

Mr. Olsen says that suddenly there were about 30 machetes hanging in midair and not a soul in sight. And Lalo finally had to feed the whole cow to the lion before he could boost him back in the trailer and sail on to Tongaloa.

POSTLADY — Neither rain nor snow may deter Mrs. Judith Gresho from swift completion of her appointed rounds, but she does take an occasional time out to touch up her make-up. Mrs. Gresho, 22 and the mother of two, is one of the very few women mail carriers in Cleveland, Ohio. She is versatile as well as attractive. Among her qualifications is the ability to drive a one-ton truck.

Handy Booklet Available On Plumbing

If you have any doubts about the importance of your home's plumbing system, just try to think of something used more often.

Convinced? Most folks are, and consequently, most folks want to learn as much as they can about keeping the plumbing system in good condition. It's important that a family know what maintenance it can and should do, and what tasks should be left only to the qualified plumbing contractor.

To guide homeowners in this vital matter, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau offers a booklet entitled "Plumbing Care & Repair," which gives step-by-step advice on maintenance and minor repairs for drains and fittings, all plumbing fixtures, shower equipment, water heaters, leaks, frozen and noisy piping, and many other subjects.

The booklet also gives instructions on how to adjust a water closet to prevent continous running, and what to do if the tank fills too much or not enough. Practical advice is given in the booklet on many other subjects, from caring for a water heater to draining the plumbing in a vacant house.

To obtain "Plumbing Care and Repair," send 15 cents, your name and address to the Plumb-Bureau, 35, East Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60601.

"Ah! I see Mr. Lincoln is already here!"

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, June 10, the 161st day of 1965. There are 204 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, Mussolini's Italy declared war against France and Britain —and President Franklin Roosevelt condemned the action with the famous words: "The hand that held the dagger has stuck it into the back of its neighbor."

On this date

In 1610, the first Dutch soldiers reached Manhattan Island.

In 1939, King George and Queen Elizabeth were guests of honor at the New York World's Fair.

In 1942, the German Gestapo wiped out the village of Lidice, in Czechoslovakia.

In 1943, President Roosevelt signed the pay-as-you-go-tax bill.

In 1945, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower received the highest Soviet award, the Order of Victory.

Ten years ago— Lt. Gen. Isaac Davis was named commander of the U.S. 8th Army in the Far East.

Five years ago— A Trans-Australian airliner crashed off Queensland, killing all 29 aboard.

One year ago — The Senate voted cloture on the civil rights bill, ending a 75-day filibuster.

This spring, car trouble marooned my friend Vince and me, for five boring days, in an isolated Canadian village. On the third day, to kill time, we attended a local revival meeting. The preacher was strictly the hell-fire and brimstone type, as he poured out his wrath on a local house of ill repute where drunkenness, gambling, and whoring were rampant. On and on went the tale of debauchery with the preacher sparing none of the lurid details.

Overwhelmed by the tirade, I nudged Vince and whispered, "Lord! Imagine a joint like that in this burg!" No answer. Vince gazed raptly up at the preacher. Fearing I was losing my boon companion to a backwood spell binder. I elbowed Vince again, hard. "C'mon," I said. "Let's get out of here."

Vince turned to me, frowning. "Wait a minute," he said. "Maybe this nut will spit out the address." — Norman L. Caine

---

A patient I had referred to a psychiatrist insisted on sitting on a chair near a window during his sessions with the doctor. He always opened a new pack of cigarettes, took out several, and scattered the tobacco out the window. The psychiatrist finally asked him why he did this.

"Oh, it scares away elephants," he replied.

The doctor smiled and said, "I don't see any elephants. Do you?"

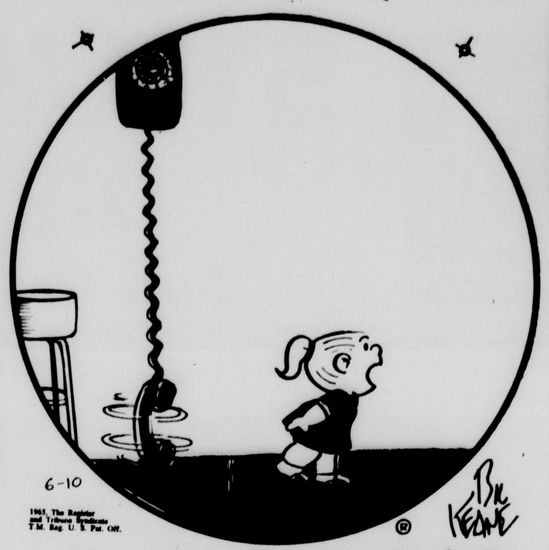

"No, I don't," answered the patient, looking out the window. "Very effective, isn't it, doctor?" — Dr. L. Binder

ZIP-CODED—Giant-size zippers give a 1965 look to the classic shift. Here they're used down the front and across the pockets of this Pepperell blue denim style. Red trim adds a bright touch to the Majestic design.
